Lady Marjorie's Love

"I have not kept you out too long, I hope? You are not tired?"

"Not at all, thanks—and the night is so lovely! I am glad I went out—it has quite taken away my headache. Good night! Oh Mr. Barrington, you won't forget what you are to do for me in Upton Wafers in the morning, will you?"

"No fear of that—I shall ride over the first thing after breakfast, and your commission shall be the first thing I attend to. What do you say to another row on the river in the afternoon? Will you try it?"

"Perhaps, I will see. You will never get all those letters written that you spoke of. Good night!"

"Good night!"

Barrington, after shaking Marjorie by the hand, went off towards the park parlour. Marjorie turned towards the steps and then, and the Countess showed herself.

"Oh, Fenella! How you did startle me!"

"Did I? You are extremely nervous, my dear. So you have been out of doors?"

"Yes." The Countess turning back into the drawing-room the girl felt constrained to follow her—a thing which she did not mean to do. A dressing-gown and a novel in her own room while Alice brushed her hair and Jack slept at her feet would have suited her far better than Lady Marjorie's company or conversation.

She followed reluctantly, wondering how long it would be before she could get away; she felt even less inclined to talk with Fenella than with "It is such a lovely night! The moon makes it nearly as bright as day."

"Does it? I have not noticed." The Countess looked down from her greater height at the pretty girl with the trace of a hard cold smile about the mouth. "Mr. Barrington was with you, I think?"

"Yes! He suggested going—in differently. "Indeed? How was that?"

"He knew I had a headache"—still indifferently.

"Brought on by your being on the river this afternoon possibly?" Lady Marjorie's smile showed itself a little more.

"We—I did not go this afternoon, Fenella."

"Certainly not!" Majorie glanced up swiftly, suspiciously. "Like the water," she said coldly, "and as Mr.

DUFFERINS IN GREAT SHAPE

First Drill Parade of Season Was Held Last Night.

In spite of the inclement weather the 38th regiment surpassed all attendance records last evening for the first spring drill. There were three hundred and forty-seven officers, non-commissioned officers and men on the floor when Lt.-Col. Howard called the battalion to attention. Before the march out the regiment was put through some battalion drill followed by company drill till about 9 o'clock, after which the regiment headed by the two bands, which are both in very fine condition, marched down Colborne to George, up George to Nelson, Nelson to Market, Market to Dalhousie, Dalhousie to Drill Hall and back to the Armouries. Bandmaster Johnson has his hand at full strength and judging from the music they played last night they have been working hard during the winter.

The Bugle Band is the largest they have had in connection with the regiment for some time. It is commanded by A. With 55 men in the ranks: B 34; C 24; D 25; E 20; F 27; G 16; H 28; Signallers 21; Stretcher Bearers 7.

Lt.-Col. Howard was in command. Major Genet was in charge of right half battalion and Major Ashton left half battalion.

These drills will be continued each Monday until further notice.

The regiment presented a smart appearance and the various movements were executed with precision and despatch which indicated a high state of efficiency. On the whole the parade last night was regarded as the best ever for an opener.

GOOD HEALTH FOR YOUNG GIRLS

They Need the New Blood-Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make

Perhaps you have noticed that your daughter in her teens has developed a fitful temper, is restless and excitable. That she complains of weakness and depression; feels tired out after a little exertion; appetite variable, complains of headaches and is growing pale. In that case remember that the main cause of time is leading her on to womanhood, and that at this period a great responsibility rests upon mother. These are symptoms of anaemia—that is bloodlessness, and the time should be lost in increasing and enriching the blood supply. Unhealthy girlhood almost always leads to unhealthy womanhood. All young girls in their teens need the help of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which enrich and increase the blood supply, and give sickly drooping girls health, brightness and charm of perfect health. In proof of this Miss Zola Gardner, Morrisburg, Ont., says: "I was pale and bloodless and suffered from many of the symptoms of anaemia. I would tire easily and suffered from frequent headaches. My appetite was poor and I was very pale and easily discouraged. The medicine I was taking did not seem to help me, and then one day I read the story of a young girl who suffered similarly and was cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got three boxes of the pills and started to take them. Before they were done I began to feel better and look better. Then I got half a dozen more boxes, and before they were all used I was enjoying the best of health, and have continued to do so since. My young brother was troubled with rheumatism, and they completely cured him."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or can be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Reward of Merit

By RUTH CAMERON

VIRTUE says the copy-book, is its own reward. On the whole, I am inclined to think that is lucky, when I see how often it fails of any other reward.

That sounds pessimistic, doesn't it? Well, listen to the following dialog with me, and I think you'll understand what I mean.

Two women at a church function were arranging some lemonade glasses which had been loaned for the occasion. Said one woman, "Take special care of those glasses with the wreath on them. You know Mrs. H. loaned those; she's a perfect tartar and she'd be terribly disagreeable if anything happened to them. You'd better not let the younger girls touch those."

Said the other woman, "I think those with the monograms are much prettier. Who loaned them?"

"Oh, those are Mrs. R.'s," said the first speaker. "You'd better give them to the younger girls. Mrs. R. is so sweet, you know, she wouldn't make a fuss if they broke a whole dozen!"

How's that for a reward of merit?

As a special premium for her disagreeable manner, the tartar lady had special care given to her glasses—and undoubtedly received, specially elaborate thanks.

While the other woman was rewarded for her sweetness and forbearance by having her property handed over to the tender mercies of the least trustworthy waitresses.

And yet isn't that a thoroughly typical case? Don't we all have a tendency to handle with care those people who are disagreeably tenacious of their rights, and to take unfair advantage of those who are good-tempered and unselfish?

It is usually the disagreeable member of the family who receives the most attention, and whose paths are made pleasant for him by the sacrifices of the rest; while the most kind-hearted and generous member of the family is the one most put upon.

In the dormitory in which I lived at college there was one girl so sweet-tempered and unselfish that her name was a synonym for these qualities, and, instead of treating her especially well, many of the other girls made a convenience of her and then laughed at her behind her back for letting them do it.

And so, if you reckon in terms of appreciation and gratitude, it does not seem as if unselfishness and sweetness of temper paid.

Isn't it fortunate that there are some people in the world who think these qualities are worth while even if they don't pay?

BACKACHE NOT A DISEASE

But a Symptom, a Danger Signal Which Every Woman Should Heed.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Read about Mrs. Woodall's experience.

Morton's Gap, Kentucky. "I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had worn dress and irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be answered, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.
