over, and I'm ready to let new people with new, and perhaps better, ideas step in to start work on next year's program, I would like to extend my personal thanks to those individuals who made this year a tremendous success:

To the Orientation Executive - Greg, John, Heather, Brian, Laureen, Scott and Rachel - and the 140 Committee Members: As an Executive, we've worked together and stuck together since September of last year, and I'm sure we've all learned a lot from the experience. Orientation really is a year long experience, and it provided a year's worth of memories with all of you guys. I congratulate the committee on giving up a week and a half of their summer to carry out what we had spent so long planning. We all have some rough times during the program, but on the whole we laughed a lot and so did freshmen. Isn't that what it's all about?

To the Freshmen class of '88: Thanks for taking part in what I think is the best Orientation you'll get anywhere. You had faith enough in us to believe that you were going to get more out of our program than just a good time. I hope you did.

To the University and the City of Fredericton: Thank you for helping in every possible way, from financial aid, to donating to a 'Shiner, to welcoming a new student into your home, to providing advice and moral support. While I couldn't possibly name everyone who gave time, effort or aid, I want to especially credit President James Downey, the UNB Alumni Association, Mr. Jack Cunningham, and the UNB Student Union for many years of support to our program.

Finally, to our many sponsors and donors who gave generously to our program and to the freshmen: While most of them have been recognized already, I would like to make special mention of two. Thank you Maritime Beverages for donating Pepsi products, prizes, and funding for the program and your round-the-clock service to us. Thank you Trius Taxi for providing both free bus tours of the city for the parents and the free "Safe Ride Home" program after the night events for the freshmen. I know that they appreciated these services as much as I did, and I congratulate you both on going out of your way to help us.

In closing out my term as chairman, I want to extend best wishes for UNB Orientation '89, and a message to the freshmen of next year - they're waiting for you.

Sincerely,

Kevin "Eddie" Hollis
Orientation Chairman '88

Thanks...

Dear Editor-in-Chief:

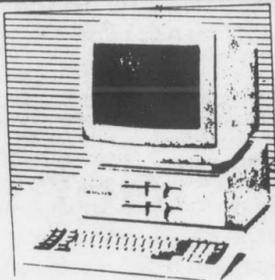

On behalf of the Student Women's Committee, I would like to congratulate members of The Brunswickan staff on the last three issues. The news/feature coverage of Income Assistance recipients was particularly well done. Bravo! It would appear that sexism, racism, classicism and homophobia are becoming less and less of a problem in campus media.

Now that a strong social conscience seems to have developed within campus media, the SWC and other social action groups are free to tackle larger social issues such as systemic discrimination. We look forward to working with you in eliminating all forms of discriminatory practice which distort human vision and ultimately destroys human potential.

Sincerely,

Karen-Jean Braun
