

and have been swamped, and the whole st, if the leak had not been discovered 27. These two things cannot be disa holy life and a happy death<sup>28</sup>. As mometer cannot indicate temperature, e mercury is frozen ; so conscience can-w us our duty, when hardened by sin<sup>29</sup>.

EXERCISES.

75

EXERCISES,

the Passive or Complete Participle,—continued.

No. b.

levated genius, employed in little things, s like the sun in his evening declination ;
its his splendour, but retains his mag-
; and pleases more, though he dazzles Economy, prudently and temperately ted, is the safeguard of many virtues ; in a particular manner, favourable to rcise of benevolence<sup>10</sup>.

lovely young Lavinia once had friends, l fortune smiled deceitful<sup>2</sup> on her birth ; in her helpless years, deprived of all, every stay, save* innocence and Heaven, with her widow'd mother, feeble, old, l poor, lived in a cottage, far retired ong the windings of a woody vale ; solitude and deep surrounding shades, more by bashful modesty concealed<sup>11</sup>.

find man<sup>2</sup> placed † in a world where he no means the disposal of the events ppen<sup>12</sup>. Protected by its floating walls, is safer from invasion than many a which has its whole frontier barricaded regnable fortresses. Children often