ALL ENDORSE THE PROJECT

Edwin Bell Throws Out Some Suggestions About the Tecumseh Monument.

Is Heartily in Accord With the Proposal—He Thinks Tecumseh Park the Proper Site.

"I am in favor of erecting a monument to the great Indian chief," said Edwin Bell, ex-President of the Macaulay Club, when interviewed by The Planet, "and there is no more appropriate place for it than Tecumseh Park, which felt the tread of his feet, and where it is generally supposed Tecumseh advised Proctor to make a final stand against the Americans."

"Good must come of putting up such a monument, which will be a thing of beauty in itself and of great historical interest. Better than that, it will serve to keep alive the memory of a great and brave spirit, whose deeds are worthy of imitation. It will be a standing example to this and future generations. But it should be done by the people."

"I would favor the formation of a municipal league, which should take in hand not only this project but should be a permanent organization to educate and consolidate public opinion for the purpose of attaining greater cleanliness and beauty in our parks, streets and boulevards, and to raise the standard of cleanliness and beauty in the material surroundings of all the people and encourage them to make lawns and keep them in order and to plant flowers, shrubs and trees."

"Such a permanent society, it seems to me, could better deal with the monument project, not only in its erection, but in protecting it after it is erected, than a merely temporary association."

FOUGHT FIERCE ALL-DAY FIGHT

British Convoy was Attacked by Boers, Who Held a Position on a Hill.

Enemy Finally Driven off, Leaving 20 Dead on the Field—Convoy and Supplies Reach Destination.

Bloemfontein, Oct. 17.—On Saturday a steam convoy left here for Dewetsdorp with 120 tons of supplies for the Bogiesmith column, escorted by 120 of the Scots Guards, commanded by Major MacGregor. When it reached Lefuw Kop it was attacked by 200 Boers who held a position on a hill. The fight lasted all day Sunday until dusk. The Boers decamped during the night leaving twenty of their dead behind them. The British casualties were eleven slightly wounded. The convoy delivered the supplies at Dewetsdorp, and returned without further trouble.

Cape Town, Oct. 17.—In a brisk fight at Twenty-four Streams, near Piquetberg, yesterday, Captain Bellew and four other British were killed and several others were wounded.

BOERS SHIFT CAMPS.

The British having surprised several camps, the Boers are now in the habit of shifting camp by night. Lately the British columns, after long night marches, have arrived at their objectives only to find the Boers gone.

BOER CUNNING.

British columns penetrating Orange River Colony, miles from the railways, find fields of maize or freshly ploughed lands, the Boers making off at their approach, and returning when the columns pass on. The herds on the high veldt still seem to be numerous. The Boers are living on cattle and manna in out of the way places.

IN CAPE COLONY.

Cape Town, Oct. 17.—The invaders have reached the sea, a commando of 500 men having penetrated the rich Great Berg Valley to Hopefield and Sederburg Bay, northwest of Cape Town. The Republicans have secured a number of recruits and considerable quantities of supplies. General French is directing the operations against them.

DOWN AGAIN BY THE SEA

Royal Party Were Given Another Grand Reception at St. John, N. B.

Immense Crowd Gathered to Greet the Duke and Duchess—Review of Troops in Barracks.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 17.—It has been a great day in St. John, this one on which the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York visited the city. The town was astir early, and soon the streets began to be crowded. Shortly after noon they became almost impassable, and throughout the rest of the day and far into the night this was the case.

The royal train, preceded by that bearing Lord Minto and party, was in four hours in arriving, and it was after four o'clock when it rolled into the depot. Troops lined the streets from the depot to the exhibition building, and crowds surged along the whole line, everyone striving for a vantage point. In fact, the usual conditions of a big demonstration existed, but in more pronounced form than ever here before.

Because of the lateness of the train's arrival the afternoon functions were delayed. When Major Maude arrived he ordered the troops which lined the streets to be taken from there and sent to the barracks quarter for the review, as the presentation of addresses would be shortened. This was done; then the royal procession started, and all along the route the demonstration was magnificent. At the exhibition buildings Mayor Daniel, in robe and cocked hat, received the royal guests. Then His Worship escorted the Duchess to the dais in the magnificently decorated building. The Duke and Duchess took seats upon the throne, and addresses from the city of St. John, city of Fredericton and the British army and navy veterans were presented.

The Duke made a brief reply, and then, by a private exit, the royal party went to the barracks, and 8,000 troops were massed, making a grand sight, surrounded by thousands of citizens. The royal salute was given, and the Duke and Duchess took their places in a handsome pavilion on the grounds.

It was here that the Duke was the centre figure of several interesting ceremonies. The first was the presentation to the 62nd St. John Fusiliers of new colors in the behalf of St. John ladies. The ceremony was quickly performed, for the time was getting along, and it was a mere reception of the medals and a soldierly salute by the recipient, as he made way for a successor. Smith, a man who lost a limb, was spoken to kindly by the Duke. After this the royal party were escorted to their residence—the Duke and Duchess to Caverhill; the Governor-General, Lady Minto and members of the royal suite to P. S. Meek's residence; those having been given over for the visitors.

To-night the city was brilliantly illuminated. Never before was such a brilliance here. Public and private buildings were ablaze. The electrical devices were beautiful. Fireworks were sent up from a square in the middle of the harbor. The streets were crowded with people, and it was a night of great enthusiasm and enjoyment. The principal function of the evening was the reception in the exhibition building. Here was a particularly pleasing scene, the decorations being most gorgeous and yet most tasteful. Some 100 people were presented to their Royal Highnesses. The reception was brought to a close about 11.30 o'clock.

Their Royal Highnesses will leave for Halifax at 11.30 a. m. They will stop at Sussex and Moncton for a brief time on their way.

AFTER BOTHA

Part of his Force Thought to Have Escaped, but Without Guns or Wagons.

London, Oct. 17.—The correspondent of the Times at Dundee, Natal, says rain has again interfered with Gen. Lyttleton's operations to intercept the retreat of Commandant-General Botha's force. An attempt by Col. Spens, on the night of Oct. 11, to surprise a number of Boers, with stock and wagons, hidden in a kloof in the north-west part of Ngome Forest, was frustrated by mist and rain. At day-break the Boers were seen trekking southwards, but the roads were so heavy that Col. Spens was unable to overtake them. Gen. Botha's main body is in the neighborhood of Pongola Forest. A certain number of Boers have undoubtedly escaped west and north, accompanied by a few Cape carts, but with no guns and no wagons. It was at first thought that Gen. Botha was with some of these Boers, but it appears that he has returned to the neighborhood of Pongola. Probably a large amount of the Boers' stock, with men, families and wagons is sheltered in the Shangeap hills. British troops entered Piet Retief on Oct. 11. They found the town empty. Prisoners say that the Boers' losses in the encounter between Gen. Botha and Gen. Kitchener on Oct. 6 were heavy.

AUSTRIA CAN STAND ALONE

Is now in Far Better Shape for a Tariff War than is Germany.

But Economic Conflict Would Endanger Austro-German Political Alliance.

Vienna, Oct. 17.—The reichsrath reassembles to-day. The budget for 1902 was submitted to the chamber. It estimates the expenditures at 1,685,117,944 kronen and the revenue at 1,685,966,357 kronen. Among the urgent motions submitted to the reichsrath is one demanding information regarding the government attitude toward the German tariff bill, and whether the government itself is drafting a new tariff.

In the course of the budget debate Dr. von Koerber, the premier, referred to the proposed German tariff and declared that if it were impossible to conclude a commercial treaty with Germany compatible with Austrian interests, Austria perhaps was better able to dispense with it in Germany. "At any rate," he exclaimed, "Austria and Hungary must not quarrel. They must commercially assist one another."

He concluded with a word of warning that the Austro-German political alliance would be endangered by an economic war.

London, Oct. 18.—In a long dispatch discussing the projected German tariff, the Berlin correspondent of the Times says:

"In view of the existing commercial and industrial depression, Germany is not in a position to face a tariff war with any important foreign customer nation. Five months of such a war would drive the German commercial world to desperation."

The rates to the Pan-American exposition have taken a sudden drop, and W. E. Rappin now announces via Grand Trunk and Wabash Rys. return tickets to Buffalo, on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, at $2.85 each, good to return six days from date. This liberal arrangement by the railways should induce a heavy travel to the exposition for the balance of the month.

Mrs. Boston's cookery book, which is acknowledged by epicures, to contain the triumphs of the culinary art, can be secured for a few days, at Sulman's Beehive, in the Garner House Block, for only thirty cents per copy.
