CATHOLIC SLOVENIA

By Dr. Frederick Funder Conditions in Slovenia, one of the provinces taken from Austria to form part of Jugo Slavia, are vividly pictured by a distinguished Catholic of the latter country now visiting in Vienna. At the request of the N. C. W. C. correspondent, this personage has consented to describe for the benefit of American Cath-olics the former prestige of Catholicism in Slovenia, the trials of the Church and her children during the War, and the harbingers of a Catholic revival in the midst of the poverty, persecution and demoralization which the Catholics there are still experiencing.

"In speaking of Slovenia," he said, "I mean those districts which are inhabited by the Slovene popu-lation and which have been incorporated into the kingdom of the Serbs. Croats and Slovenes. Slovenia comprises Carniola except the portions which, with Istria, belong to Italy, Styria in its Jugoslav districts, the valley of the Mies, and the socalled Seelaenderbecken, and Murland. The population of these districts is less than a million.

A PEOPLE OF CULTURE

"Under the leadership of the great organizer and social politician, Monsignor Krek, the Slovene people had attained before the World War a very high standard of intellectual culture, such as only few other nation in the Old Monarchy could boast. They were well organized, politically, religiously and educationally, and the whole public and private life of the nation was based on Catholic principles. Among their representatives in the former Among Parliament there were itself the Catholic majority con-stituted as it were an invincible phalanx against the Liberal Socialist minority. In the Diet of Graz Great Catholic meetings, gymnastic exhibitions, pilgrimages to Palestine, Rome and Lourdes, large attendance at the Eucharistic Congress in Vienna—all these things attracted the attention of the whole world to this small Catholic nation, otherwise often almost unknown people, it is above all important that abroad even by name. from every movement that is important in public life. Having obtained fifteen mandates at the elections for the legislative body they have formed, together with certain Croat representatives, an opposition party and the constitution which was proclaimed on June 28, 1921, containing certain provisions (among them the 'pulpit paragraph') and other laws on the subject of schools and matrimony, subject of schools and matrimony, challenge their special attention. prove an adamantine barrier against the forces which everywhere strive to cause the upheaval of social order. Industry represents the transformation of matter, whereas agriculture represents the direct produce of matter, and the peasant being in immediate touch with Nature's primitive force and beauty, his thoughts will soar unto God, Creator and Master of all things."

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS SUFFER

In Jugoslavia Catholic episcopal sees have remained vacant for years, Catholic parishes have been reduced to poverty, being dependent for the present entirely on voluntary con-tributions from the parishioners, the matter of the former Austro-Hungarian public funds and the war debt having thus far not been settled. Subsidies granted by the State amount to very little now, and the Catholic training schools are much impoverished. The same is true of other Catholic schools and of works of charity.

"However sad the outward appearance of the Catholic life of the Slovenes may be in their new home, it is nevertheless true that a vigorous movement is making itself felt once more. It is a misfortune to have lost their leader, Monsignor Krek, who died four years ago. Several others, too, we disappeared from the arena -

"In spite of all this, a fresh impulse is apparent. Well versed in pulse is apparent. Hell the art of educating nations, the Catholic Church is endeavoring to help the people to regain their help the people to regain their spiritual strength. Although shut spiritual strength. Although shut out from public life, every possible effort is being made by the Catholics to accomplish the work of organization. A number of Catholic educational institutions, gympactic alpha order of the control of the contr nastic clubs and economic political associations are coming into existence and activity again, with the co-operation of the people and with the rich experiences and with the rich experiences acquired during the War.

"The people, in part strong and well, and in the measure recovered from the recent illness are like a but four "Liberals" and but a few a tumble-on their feet once more, Socialists. In the Diet of Carniola drying their tears and speeding away anew. This feeling prevails also among the enemies of the Catholic Slovens. They loudly proclaim in their papers that Catholicism also the representative of the is doomed to become 'fossil,' yet Slovenes were almost wholly Caththey dare not assert their political olic, and the same was true of Carinthia.

POLES HONOR NEW POPE

HIS BRAVERY IN FACE OF BOLSHEVIKI DRIVE NOT FORGOTTEN

Warsaw.-Pope Pius XI. is known to Eastern Europeans not only as a consummate diplomatist and a great and generous churchman but also as a man of unshrinking courage and unquestionable justice.

This knowledge of the new Supreme Pontiff the people of Eastern Europe gained during the "The critical state of affairs will period of more than three years he served as Delegate Apostolic and Nuncio to Poland, which was for part of that time in the hands of the Teutonic Allies and for the re-mainder of his official sojourn a battleground of factions.

It was in April, 1918, that Doctor Ratti was taken from his beloved books and manuscripts in the Vatican and sent as the representative of Pope Benedict XV. to Poland. The War was then at its height, Germany and Austria were at the zenith of their military successes. Russia was tottering to complete collapse. The ink on the Treaty of Brest-Litovsk was hardly dry. Poland was held by the German-Austrian troops, Prince Leo-pold of Bavaria was governor of Poland and General Beseler was ommander of the army of occupaneedless to say, there was in every parish an assembly hall near the church, and some communities even had their own buildings for meetings and libraries and the like.

THEIR PASSION FOR READING

The audience of Marquis MacSwiney with the Pope took place on the eve of the feast of St. Patrick.

The Holy See then extended Monsign r Ratti's work to the whole of the occupied Russian territory. His first care here was to establish His first care here was to establish a regular ecclesiastical regime in those immense regions where all was disorganization as a direct consequence of the War and where, moreover, the Catholic Church's jurisdiction had never been entirely free from the interference of the Russian Government. Dr. Ratti provided for the re-establishment of the numerous sees which had been suppressed by the former Czar's Gov. pressed by the former Czar's Govrnment.

In spite of the revolutions and unter revolutions which disturbed the former territory of Russia, Dr. Ratti created an organization such as never had existed under the Czarist regime. He was particularly successful in rehabilitating and reorganizing sees which had and reorganizing sees which had been crushed in former years. In November, 1918, the Armistice was signed, Austria-German power crumbled, and Poland regained her national independence. A Regency was inaugurated under Marshal Pilsudski, a constitutional assembly was summoned, and Dr. Ratti, as the Pope's Envoy, was the first to greet the new independent Polish Immediately there arose new and grave questions affecting the title and tenure of the property held by the Catholic Church. The Poles had learned under Russian tutelage to clamor for the partition of the great estates which in part comprised ecclesiastical property attached to churches and bishoprics. Mon-signor Ratti assembled all the Bisrty if it was to be undertaken with the understanding of the ecclesias-tical authorities and without detri ment to the religious and spiritual interests of the people.

SETTLED LAND QUESTION

"So this is the gift of the Catholics of Ireland?"

"No, Your Holiness," replied the Marquis, "this is the tribute of the scientific men of Ireland of all denominations of creed and of all political opinions; it is the homage of scientific and literary Ireland to the Holy See, patron of literature and science. Each of these volumes hears an autographic dedication.

Dr. Ratti was indefatigable in his efforts to settle this question, and, as part of his program to that end, constituted an episcopal commission to study a technical solution. This commission of the Bishops was afterwards recognized by the new Polish Government from which Dr. Ratti obtained a promise that the land question would not that the land question would not be settled without reference to the The Marquis also explained that a committee had been formed for the collection of rare works that are but of print.

By his efforts he succeeded in having two clauses voted and inserted in the Polish Constitution. The first of these was a provision that the Catholic Church held the first position in the new Polish State; the second was a stipulation that any measures respecting the Catholic Church were to be taken in accord with Rome. This work was so satisfactory to Pope Benedict that it was decided to re-establish the ancient Nunciature in Warsaw. Monsignor Ratti was appointed to the post and shortly afterwards (in July, 1919,) was promoted to the titular archi-episcopal see of Lepanto.

episcopal see of Lepanto.

In the fine old Cathedral of Warsaw, on October 28, 1919, Dr. Ratti was consecrated Archbishop by Cardinal Kakowski. The consecration took place in the presence of the entire Polish Episcopate and of a large number of the new Con-stituent Assembly. It was the first time that a Papal Nuncio had been raised to the dignity of Archbishop in the country to which he was accredited, and showed the great advance which the former Vacican librarian had made in the esteem and confidence of Pope Benedict.

When the question of the plebiscite in Upper Silesia came to the fore, Archbishop Ratti was especially appointed the Ecclesiastical High Commissioner at the request of the Republic of Poland. Germany and the Inter-Allied Commission' He exerted all his power and influence to calm the parties to the controversy, and this endeavor at times exposed him to all kinds of bitter criticism and attacks from both Eventually, however, his impartiality and sound judgment were recognized.

FREED MANY PRISONERS

During Monsignor Ratti's more than three years in Poland he de-voted himself to the solution of numerous problems, to works of international charity and relief, and to the liberation of prisoners from the Bolshevists. In these labors he was strikingly successful. Among those whose release he obtained from Russian prisons where the Bishop of Minsk and the Archbishop of Mohileff.

Poles, both Catholic and non-Catholic, Jews, and Gentiles hold the memory of Archbishop Ratti— now the Sovereign Pontiff—in affectionate regard. Monsignor Ratti's bravery was in all respects equal to his genius and his generosity. When the Bolshevik hordes came in a great drive towards Warsaw in 1920 and the officials of the Polish Government and the representatives of other States left the city,—seemingly to its fate, Monsignor Rattistayed at his post and refused to hear the entreaties of the Polish military authorities that he retire to safety His answer was:

An Industry as Old as Adam

Vital to Life Itself Natural to Canada Vastly Profitable to Those Who Invest in It

Such Is the Flour Milling Industry

It is ironical, yet true, that most Canadian grain is milled in the United States and Great Britain. Those enterprising milling companies, like Oglivie, Lake of the Woods, Maple Leaf, and Western Canada, have just naturally reaped the reward of their courage and foresight in developing Canadian flour milling, as their dividend figures prove.

We are offering for investment the Preferred Shares of a well-conducted milling company at par, 160, with a 30% Bonus of Common Stock. A substantial portion of this issue having been sold, you will be well advised to make early application for a prespectus and full particulars.
