BARROW LOOKS FOR BIG YEAR IN INTERNATIONAL

Series With American Association Certain to Create Great Interest

New York, March 21.—Unless bad weather intervenes and repeats the playful stunts that gummied things up a couple of years ago, Ed. G. Barrow, president of the International League, believes the coming baseball season will be the most profitable the minor leagues have enjoyed since the prosperous days before 1914. Gillette, president of the International League, believes the coming baseball season will be the most profitable the minor leagues have enjoyed since the prosperous days before 1914.

Barrow, in an interview today, pointed out the series between the international league and American Association, the publicity that has been given to baseball during the winter, and the settling down of the public to take baseball at its merit without arguing the merits of the Federals as compared with organized baseball.

"I didn't feel as if last year would be a good one," Barrow said, "and I didn't say it would. I'm quite a hunch player, and I've got an awfully strong hunch right now that we've seen the last of those awful days.

"The international series, I believe, is something that hasn't been greatly considered by the fans so far, but before it has been started there will be a tremendous amount of enthusiasm.

"The idea first originated in the brain of Garry Herrmann, when he imposed such a series between the National and American leagues. It fell through there, and we began to talk it over with the American Association club owners, but the Federals came along and forced us to drop it. We were afraid to leave our territory for such a long period.

"There will be some added mileage expense and the trip west for us will be long and hard, but we firmly believe that the added attraction will fully offset any added expense. Bad weather is the only thing that can prevent us from advancing a long step toward the goal of popularity the game enjoyed before the Federals wrecked things.

"I have confidence in the strength of our clubs. In previous tests with the American Association we have shown a strong interest. In the two post-season series that have been played our teams have won, the last one being when Providence defeated Columbus in 1907. Our pitchers ought to be the best. The men who cannot hit more than .270 in our league go to the American Association and immediately begin traveling at a 200 gallop.

"There will be some great baseball in this series, for the players will have the incentive of a purse of Three United States army balloonists had a thrilling time in the clouds after an ascent in Missouri. They were caught in a snowstorm 10,000 feet above the ground and for five hours battled with a gale which blew them along at the rate of fifty miles an hour and made landing impossible. Finally the clouds parted sufficiently to disclose a safe landing place, and the big gas bag was brought to earth.
