But-but, I simply must have my fare to Canada old chap!

Canada?

Yawss, old top you see, I'm not at all satisfied with the way this war is being conducted and while

I've written head quaters several times offering advice, no attention has been paid to my communications, so I've decided to hit the Canadian army and show them how things should be managed.

Y-ya mean yer goin' t' enlist?

Such is my intention, fawthaw - I fear England needs me badly.

Well - I'll be jig-ged! I-but there may be somethin' to him after all!

WILSON APPEALS TO COAL OPERATORS

Calls on Workers to Give Maximum Effort For Production

By Courier-Led Wire

Washington, Aug. 12.—Coal miners and operators are called upon in a proclamation by President Wilson to give their maximum effort to the production of coal to the end that threatened shortage next winter may be avoided. The President asks the miners particularly to work full time and urges those who are essential to the industry to accept deferred classification in the draft.

"The existing scarcity of coal," said the proclamation, "is creating a grave danger. In fact, the most serious which confronts us and calls for prompt and vigorous action on the part of both operators and miners. Without an adequate supply our program will be retarded; the effectiveness of our fighting forces in France will be lessened; the lives of our soldiers will be unnecessarily endangered and their hardships increased and there will be much suffering in many homes throughout the country during the coming winter."

BATH WARD IN SOUTH AFRICAN MILITARY HOSPITAL
The Bath Ward at Richmond, S. A., where the treatment for septic wounds consists in keeping patients day and night in a bath at a temperature of 90 degrees Fah. is here shown.

FINE AND JAIL TERM FOR TWO RUSSIANS

Kusmitch and Barrel Given Heavy Sentences for Having Seditious Literature—Six Others Were Dismissed.

Artem Kusmitch, $500 and costs, and six months in the Provincial Reformatory.

Alex. Barrel, $500 and costs, and six months in the Provincial Reformatory.

Paul Moroz, Harry Moroz, John Shkodan, John Grucitzki, Felix Conosevitch, Frederick Harrington, dismissed.

Two stiff sentences were handed down in the Police Court yesterday afternoon by Mayor MacBride to Russian Socialists, charged with having in their possession prohibited literature. Five other Russians and one Englishman, facing similar charges, were allowed to go after receiving a severe warning.

The hearing of the cases was resumed at two o'clock in the afternoon. Louis Stander, court interpreter, translated several extracts from publications found in the possession of the Russians, to the effect that there could be no peace between the classes and the masses until poverty and hunger were abolished. The workers must organize to annihilate capitalism. The ideas promulgated were virtually those of the I. W. W.

Canada Stands for Liberty.

"I went out of my way," observed Mayor MacBride, before passing sentence upon the defendants, "to give you men a chance to explain the presence of this literature in your possession. I want to demonstrate to all alienated British justice rules in this court. You are not now in Russia nor Russia. Socialism, in its more moderate aspects, is a very good thing, but there is a time for everything, and you should remember that Canada is today engaged in a death struggle to preserve that liberty for which you came to her shores."

Decision Rendered.

His Worship was in a quandary as to just which Russian party the defendants belonged. Evidence had been produced to associate them with both the Social Revolutionists of the Left, with which party Krensky is affiliated, and with the Bolsheviks, exponents of radical anarchy. In the cases of Kusmitch and Barrel, he saw no doubt of guilt, and passed sentences accordingly. The Moroz brothers, Grucitzki and Shkodan he dismissed, ruling that there had been no evidence to prove that the literature found was their property, and warning them to avoid such connections in future, at least for the duration of the war. Grucitzki, who had threatened Chief Slemin with a knife on the occasion of the raid, received a special warning on the evils of carrying dangerous weapons.

J. H. Spence, who occupied the bench with the Mayor, considered that Kusmitch and Barrel might consider themselves lucky not to receive heavier sentences.

"You are living under far better conditions here than you could ever hope to attain at home," he pointed out, "and if you are not satisfied with Canada, you should return to your native land. This propaganda which you have been carrying on must be exterminated."

J. G. Donohue, counsel for the defence, asked that Kusmitch and Barrel might be admitted to bail pending an appeal to a higher court. This the Mayor was inclined to grant, but M. W. McEwen, Crown Attorney, declined.

In default of their fines, the two men will serve an additional six months.

Conosevitch Dismissed.

The case of Conosevitch was next proceeded with. The latter less than a month ago paid a fine of $500 for distributing I. W. W. literature. A subsequent visit to his home resulted in the finding of further publications of a similar nature.

Mr. Donohue submitted that all the papers found had been printed before the war and in Council forbidding their circulation in Canada was passed, and that no British law forbade a man to have them in his possession. Mayor MacBride took rather the same view, and although Mr. Spence at first dissented, they agreed to dismiss the case.

"If you would turn your ability and your influence into the proper channels," said the Mayor to the defendant, "you would be an instrument for great good among your fellow-countrymen, in teaching them that Canada and Britain are to-day doing more for the freedom of the world than they can ever do by such insane methods."

Underground Channels.

That there are subterranean channels through which seditious literature is being shipped into Canada and disseminated by agents here, was a statement made by J. H. Spence, who stated that in his official capacity as collector of customs, he had intercepted and destroyed proscribed printed matter sent to Felix Conosevitch and to Paul and Harry Moroz. Such propaganda can no longer be sent openly through the mails, but the I. W. W. and other propagandists in the United States are possessed of secret channels for the transmission of such matter.

Harrington Also.

Frederick Harrington, 8 Oneida street, was arrested by P.C. Pickell on a charge of not carrying his registration card. When he was searched at the station, several pamphlets advocating a four-hour working day were found on his person. Other similar matter was later discovered at his home.

Robert Long, foreman at the Varsity Flow Company, testified that he had frequently heard Harrington speaking on the subject of a four-hour working day.

"Did you see him distributing these pamphlets?"

"No."

"Did you see any of them in his possession?"

"No."

"Did you see any of these pamphlets in the factory?"

"Yes; they were distributed in different departments by some one."

"By whom?"

"I guess," began the witness, but Mr. Donohue interrupted sharply.

"Don't guess in a matter like this. You'll be putting an innocent man into jail if you're not careful."

Constable Boylan testified to having found a number of the pamphlets in question at Harrington's home.

Mayor MacBride delivered a severe warning to the defendant, stating the danger of being carried away by each propaganda during times of war, and dismissed the case. Harrington was fined $2.55 for failure to carry his registration card.

DISCOVER ANCIENT ART

(Associated Press)

Rome, Aug. 12.—Excavators in Cyrene have recently made a number of valuable discoveries of ancient art, dating from the Greek-Roman period. The latest include two magnificent statues which were found in Beda—one the likeness of a Roman matron of the second century, and the other a "Winged Victory," which will be placed in the museum of Benghazi.

At Cyrene the exploration is particularly active of late, and has brought to light a number of busts and statues. The latest is a female with a colossal statue of Demeter and a long inscription from the third century B.C.
