AN IMPROMPTU WHIRL.

It Seared the Chef Worse Than It Did His Assistant.

Pat was assistant cook on one of the dining cars on the Great Western road running into St. Paul. He was obstinate and ill tempered. The chef was equally so, and as a result constant warfare waged between them. One hot day Pat was making ice cream and in spite of the chef's warnings insisted upon sitting in the doorway of the pantry while he turned the freezer. The train, going up grade, made a sudden lurch, and Pat and his can of ice cream fell out the door, as his superior officer had predicted. Frantic with fright, the chef in his white cap and apron tore through the train looking for the conductor.

"Mon Dieu, M. Conductaire," he cried, wringing his hands when he found that person, "ze ice cream freezaire he fall off, and Pat go wiz heem! Stop ze tramway or we will haf pas dessert pour le diner. Trouble, trouble always wiz zat Irishman!"

The conductor pulled the bell and stopped the train, but it had already ne two miles past the spot where Pat had rolled out. They backed the train, fully expecting to find Pat's mangled body beside the track. Instead they saw him coming over the ties on a run, carrying on his back the ice cream freezer. He climbed on the train, looking foolish, but all he ever said of his miraculous escape was, "Be gosh, it jarred me some, it did thot!".

JUST FOR FUN.

A devout Scottish minister once stopped at a country inn to pass the Sunday. The day was rainy and close; and toward night, as he sat in the little parlor, he suggested to his landlady that it would be desirable to have one of the windows raised and have some fresh air in the room. woman, with stern disapproval written plainly on her rugged face, "dinna ye ken that ye can hae no fresh air in this hoose on the Sabbath?

A few years ago the logs in river in a northwestern lumber district had jammed into a nasty snarl, and no one hankered for the job of going out with a cantdog and was an Indian who was noted for his coolness and keenness. The boss finally looked over in his direction. "Lacoote." he said, "you go out and break that jam, and I'll see that you get a nice puff in the paper. The redskin looked at the logs, and then at the boss. "Dead Injun lool nice on Paper," he grunted, and walk "Dead Injun look

SCIENTIFIC TORTURERS.

Some of the Cruelties That Are Per-petrated In Vivisection.

A certain Dr. Casten, wishing to study the effect of massage upon dislocations, deliberately dislocated the limbs of numerous dogs, says Henry C. Merwin in The Atlantic. He published an account of all these experiments, and the following is a fair example of them: "Experiment 8. Poo dle dog * * * replaced on the table without chloral. I dislocate his two shoulders. The animal utters screams of suffering. I hold him for twenty minutes with his two shoulders dislocated and the elbows tied together behind his back . . .

"Dr. Majendie," relates Dr. Elliston, "in one of his barbarous experiments which, I am ashamed to say, I witnessed, began by cutting out a large round piece from the back of a beautiful little puppy.'

Majendie may have been by nature a brutal man, but even he would hardly have done that when he was young in vivisection. * * * In this country we are not quite so cruel as the French or Italians, but we are more cruel than the English, more cruel perhaps than the Germans.

A medical man in Jersey City pub-lished an account of some experiments which he made upon dogs-I will not shock the reader by describing themand of this publication the British Medical Journal of Nov. 15, 1891, said, "It is a record of the most wanton and the stupidest cruelty we have ever seen chronicled under the guise of scientific experiments."

Story of a French Cat. This cat story comes from Pont Ste. Maxence (Oise), and for such a small place it is an extremely tall tale, says the Paris Messenger. It would appear that a resident in the place, who is an enthusiastic angler, used to keep live bait in a small tank on his premises. The angler also had a cat who naturally was fond of fish, raw or cooked. This being so, his owner covered his tank with wire netting to keep pussy out of temptation. But the cat knew a trick or two and went to the nearest refuse heap for some fowl giblets which were providentially lying there. These she took to the tank, let them hang into the water from the netting and began fishing on her own account. When the fish nibbled at the bait, puss would catch it with a nimble claw! The angler, noticing the trick, threw the bait away, but half an hour later puss was at it

We hardly know which to admire most, the cat's ingenuity or that of the concocter of the story.

Gifts For the Mourners.

Some delver into the musty old records of Harvard has brought to light an amusing provision with which one of the college's eighteenth century friends coupled what was for his time a very generous bequest to the Cam-

Mr. Thomas Brattle was the testator's name, and his interest in Harvard evidently extended to the individual members of its undergraduate body, for after leaving £200, then the equivalent of about $3,000, to the college for its general uses his will gives half a crown to every student belonging to it who should attend his funeral.

Unfortunately no account of Mr. Brattle's obsequies is extant, but there can be little doubt that the occasion was made solemn by the presence of a large number of "chief mourners" and that good wishes for the deceased were generally and feelingly expressed.

Not Reussuring.

"Have-have you any reason to believe that your father will exhibit violence when I ask him for your hand?"

inquired the timid youth. "I have never been present on any of these occasions," replied the lovely girl evasively. "And, to tell you the truth, I have never wanted to be present. I suppose I am foolishly sensitive about these things, but I can't help it. I remember that papa took me to a slaughter house when I was a little girl, and I dreamed about it every night for months afterward."

HEALTH VERSUS STRENGTH

A Good Stomach Is Worth More Than

The strong man was doing some of his most sensational "stunts." Evidently his performance was free from trickery. The muscles spoke for that, and there were ease and enjoyment in all his movements.

"What a splendid fellow!" exclaimed a college student in a front row to his older companion. "I'd give all I expect ever to know of the classics in exchange for that physique. Just think what it means-unlimited endurance and strength. With that and a fair share of brains, there isn't anything a man couldn't accomplish.'

The older man smiled at the young ster's enthusiasm.

"You're doing very well as it is," he said. "The battle may generally be to the strong and skillful, but it isn't jus muscular strength that counts. To tell you the truth, you've inherited some thing that is worth more to you t_au all the mere muscle you could put on in lifetime. I mean your stomach." "Yes, of course; that's important but"-

"It's everything, my boy. Now. sup pose I should tell you that that big fel low up there is in greater danger of collapse than you are likely to be if you take fair care of yourself and exercise in moderation."

"How is that possible? He is the pic ture of health and strength."

"And what do you say to this fellow?" asked the physician, drawing a photograph from his pocket. It was the likeness of an athlete not much the physical inferior of the strong man. "This chap," continued the medical expert, "came to me for treatment recently. He needed it. The flesh was literally falling off him. He was losing a pound a day. You see, he had suddenly collapsed."

"What was the trouble?" "Stomach. I'm not telling you anything new, but it's astonishing how much an elemental truth 's overlooked. A man is no stronger than his stom-

"If your stomach isn't far better than that of most Americans, look out! This patient of mine had changed his food, and it came near costing him his life. So don't be too quick to envy the strong man, and go ahead with your classics, not forgetting twenty minutes or so a day of well directed exercise."

Prune spurs to one dev for the nearer the old wood the higher flavored the fruit. A weak solution of poultry droppings is a wonderful stimulant of plant growth. It may be used weekly with good effect. Only well rotted manure should be applied around the grapevines. Fresh manure excites the growth, but does not mature it. Oulnce trees should be mulched as a protection against extreme heat and coid, as the roots are small and usually near the surface. In selecting trees to grow as a windbreak it is quite an item to have them of a close growing habit and of as nearly perpetual foliage as possible. Plant

Turkish Delight.

The oriental sweet called "Turkish delight" that travelers in the east are sure to taste is not difficult to make. Have ready an ounce of gelatin, preferably the clear imported sheet variety, which has been soaked for two hours in a very little cold water. Bring to a boil in a porcelain pot a pound of granulated sugar and half a cupful of cold water, adding the gelatin, and boil till the mixture dropped in cold water can be held in the finger. After it has boiled steadily for fifteen minutes add the juice of one lemon and a tablespoonful of brandy. Pour to cool in a clean tin which has been wet in cold water, cutting the mixture as it stiffens into squares like caramels. Each piece is dusted with powdered sugar or rolled in waxed paper.

No Proof Necessary. Colonel C. L. Colqueen of Louisiana was halted on the street one day by a gentleman who evidently did not know

A HELPLESS CHILD.

A weak and puny child is badly handicapped in the battle of life. It is isolated from the healthy enjoyment of its little fellow-beings. It cannot partake either of their play or their sturdy work and progress in the world; its whole life is embittered by incapacity and weakness.
