

THE ACADIAN.
WOLFVILLE, N. S., MAY 25, 1919

Editorial Brevities.

The Prince of Wales will visit Canada in August of this year and will open the new Parliament Buildings at Ottawa

On page one will be found the list of the Wolfville contributors to the Salvation Army Campaign last January. Look it over.

The editor of a county contemporary begins a paragraph at the end of a column of items taken from the issue of THE ACADIAN of the preceding week, "We clip the following news item from THE ACADIAN." Bless his honest heart!

Under the bill relating to prohibition introduced in the House of Commons the import, as well as the manufacture of whatever wine a province authorizes the sale, will be permitted. This is to be done because Quebec voted for light wine which she does not make. Ontario will be able to sell its native wines by the case.

The Finance Minister of Newfoundland was able to tell the Legislature in his budget speech a few days ago that the colony's trade this year will exceed sixty million dollars, or double the amount it was five years ago. He placed the revenue this year at $8,600,000, an increase of over 2 million, and estimated his surplus at $1,190,000, figures which will turn some provincial finance ministers green with envy. Newfoundland is making progress, but she does not desire to join Canada.

A Prisoner Returned.

Pte. Donald Chase, of Port Williams, arrived home from overseas on Tuesday evening. The people of Port Williams turned out in force and gave him a royal welcome. The Scout band and a number of Wolfville friends were also at the Port Williams station to give him welcome. Pte. Chase went overseas with a draft of the Princess Pals in the fall of 1915. He went to France the following autumn and was taken prisoner by the Germans in June. From then until the signing of the armistice he was in the German prison camps. At one time he escaped but was recaptured when a short distance from the border. As soon as the armistice was signed he left the prison and made his way to England where he was in hospital up until the time he sailed for home.

The Canard liner Aquitania with 4,688 Canadians on board is expected to arrive at Halifax to-day.

NOTICE!

To my customers, As you probably all know for the past two months or more I have been very ill and have tried to run my business from my bed. Even the little work and worry this entailed has retarded my recovery and other matters that more lately came up making things more difficult for me. I find that I am compelled to quit business for a time.

I would ask my customers to wait my recovery before giving their business to others and in the meantime help me over by paying any back bills owing me promptly.

Thanking you for past favors, I remain,
Yours sincerely,
R. E. BURGESS.

True Economy.

Dear Sir:—The war has taught us many lessons, among them the great lesson of economy. But is there not a danger that we mistake certain measures as being economical when in reality, or viewed in the large, they are wasteful and destructive? Have we failed to grasp the truth that nowhere can money be invested to yield greater returns to the community and to the nation than in education of our children? We quote the following as an example of what has been and may be accomplished under the leadership of capable and energetic men.

Ten years ago classes of the High School in one of our Nova Scotia towns were housed in three rooms: a normal training room, an attic room and one good class room. Sixty-two pupils were enrolled, there were three teachers, one of whom was Normal Training master. Grades IX, X and XI were taught the subjects on the curriculum excepting Greek and German. At the end of the year three pupils went up for their 'B' certificates.

The school boasted no equipment except that of an ordinary common school. The Library consisted of three books, two-thirds of the desk were either Normal training desks or Gillis Back Breakers.

The principal of the school at the time, a man of splendid character and ability along some lines, yet lacked the organizing and executive capacity so necessary to an efficient teacher and supervisor. This he had the sagacity to recognize and at the end of the year resigned his position.

The town was fortunate in securing a wide awake man in whom were combined an excellent Academic standing and a keen interest in the matter of educational improvement. With the co-operation of a good school board he took hold of the task and it is mainly through his untiring effort and alertness of mind and purpose that today this same High School boasts of an excellent building and an excellent faculty, a building and an equipment, a faculty consisting of seven teachers. All grades, including grade XII are taught, and all subjects of the curriculum. The result of the improvement is partly shown in the increased attendance. The enrolment today is around 100 with four times as many going up for grade XII as at first went up.

Added to the responsibility that such marked improvement has necessitated, this man has carried the responsibility of supervising some sixty teachers in their work in various points of the town. These are the strides we should like to see Wolfville High School make. These are the strides we feel they would make under like energetic leadership. Only when she has accomplished a similar measure of success can we boast of an economical expenditure of School money.
