MANALON ON THE STATE OF THE STA Katharine's Sacrifice A CONTRACTOR OF THE STATE OF TH

It was that muffled cry, that Katharsome, penniless Robert Brereton," Mr some, penniless Robert Brereton," Mr. Montrose went on, and then he paused and seemed to think deeply, and the result of his thought came out in his next words: "I shall look old Dalrymple up directly I return to town. I have lost my heart to the girl. Bless me, what a sweet, young thing she ist."

It was a distinctly absurd and unclerical feeling, but Ormande, Lord Otway, experienced a wild desire to fling ine had uttered last night at the men-toin of Gordon Smythe's name, that brought it all back so clearly to Or-mande, and he felt disturbed ,troubled, mande, and he felt disturbed troubled, and thoroughly miserable during this bright August day that followed on a restless night, the day for which he had longed so eagerly. If Katharine would only come—nf he could only have one moment with her alone, the young man said to himself restlessly. He felt that he could not restrain himself much politician, and embrace him warmly les-those words.
"My darling! My darling! Who can resist you? Who can help loving you, my beautiful queen! My dear, dear love!" he murmured to himself, rever-ently and tenderly. er, but must pour forth this secret burden, must learn his fate and so love burden, must learn his fate and so case his heart.

Barbara, too, on her side, was thinking deeply. She had purposely avoided going near Katharine, for she felt that if she did go she would not be able to refrain from saying such unpleasant things as would make the girl keep to her original plan and leave the Hall; and Barbara had not the remotest intention of permitting that. Katharine must remain in her grasp. She was to be punished—yes, punished and discredited before she quitted Barbara's home. As far as Ormande was concerned, to her intense chagrin, Miss Mostyn was obliged to confess there was no doubt as to the fact that he was madly, passionately in love with Katharine—that was evident to the meanest intelligence. Barbara had suffered a small torture as she observed the smiles and noticed the amused whispers the young man's dreamy, raptured condition had provoked; but as to Katharine, Barbara could arrive at no definite conclusion as yet. The girl was so cautious, so proud. There was only one point which Miss Mostyn grasped eagerly, Katharine's uncasiness and unhappiness.

"She no more left the room hot last." "Here's more things for you to write, miss," said Patty, as she entered Katharine's room late in the afternoon. "Lor'! what a lot you do write! Don't you never feel tired-like in the hand, miss?" miss?"
Katharine had a smile for the girl, but she was looking very white, and, indeed, was ill, agitated, and depressed. She had been kept very busy all day. Barbara was constantly sending up fresh relays of work, but Katharine was glad of it. She turned to some occupation with feverish eagernes, only grateful and thankful if she could lose herself in it for a time. "The post's been, miss, and here's two letters for you," said Patty, after she had conveyed all the instructions that had been given her.

she had conveved all the instructions that had been given her.

Katharine took the letters and read them through.

One was from Lady Drummond—a short note, full of kind interest as to how Katharine was getting on, and how she liked her present quarters; the other was from Miss Weston—a sweet, affectionate epistle, saying how dull the house was now without Katharine's lovely face to brighten it, and how Doreas "She no more left the room hot last night than I feel a frost in the air now," she mused to herself as she walked beneath the trees, and talked eagerly and neath the trees, and talked eagerly and confidentially to the young man whom she had vowed she would make her husband. "She was all right until something was said. What was it?" Barbara wrinkled her brow. "Let us try and remember. What were we talking about just then? Captain Derwetn was with us—what did he say? I must remember."

she had vowed she would make her husband. "She was all right until something was said. What was it?" Barbara wrinkled her brow. "Let us try and remember. What were we talking about just then? Captain Derweth was with us—what did he say? I must remember."

Barbara recalled the conversation as carefully as she could, going back step by step, and contracting her brow with vexation, as she could arrive at no satisfactory colution of the mystery.

"We were discussing about that stupid Graven Adair, dear me, how sick and tired I am of hearing his name, and Captain Derwent said something about that Japanese swindle." Barbara crushed a pink-tipped daisy beneath her bronze heels; she was not listening to a word Ormande was saying about his parish and charities in London; she had no sympathy with anything of the sort, except when it came to posing before the world as a generous, beneficent, charitable young creature who did so much for her fellow creatures, and was altogether so noble and good—her thoughts were far more interesting than Ormande's descriptions. "The swindle," she musd on, "and then he said some."

I have sacrificed myself to save her from grief, and now it seems my sacrifice was in vain. Poor Lucy! Son the sin vain. Your Lucy Smythe.

"I have sacrificed myself to save her from grief, and now it seems my sacrifice was in vain. Poor Lucy!"

The son the pang of reproach that came as she read about poor Lucy Smythe.

"I have sacrificed myself to save her from grief, and now it seems my sacrifice was in vain. Poor Lucy!"

The problem of the myster of the world as descriptions. "The swindle," she musde on, "and then he said some."

The swindle of the sort of the world as the problem of the sort of the problem of the sor world as a generous, or an able young creature who did so much for her fellow creatures, and was altogether so noble and good—her thoughts were far more interesting than Ormande's descriptions. "The swindle," she mused on, "and then he said something about escaping that, and he mentioned something, too, about Gordon Smythe, who —" Barbara stopped in "Smythe," she repeated, Smythe, who — " Barbara stopped in her musings. "Smythe," she repeated, reflectively; "Smythe—ah!" Her cheeks grew rosy red for an moment, but that was the only outward sign she gave of the delight, that filled her at that moment. "She flinched and gave that moment. "She flinched and gave that exclamation when Smythe was mentioned; this is the clue I want. Did she not speak to me the other day of her cousin, a Mr. Smythe, when I questioned her about her former life? Of course, that is it; she is afraid of Gordon Smythe; she must be, else why should she shrink when his name is mentioned? Afraid of Gordon Smythe."

Raphara said this over and over again. Barbara said this over and over again Barbara said this over and over again to herself, deriving great pleasure from the sentence. "Perhaps he knows something about her; perhaps she has done something wrong—if I can only find out. Well, much as I hate her, I am serry for her if she happens to be in Gordon Smythe's power; if ever a man was utterly heartless and cruel, he is that man. I can't be wrong; at any out. Well, much as I hate her, I am sorry for her if she happens to be in Gordon Smythe's power; if ever a man was utterly heartless and cruel, he is that man. I can't be wrong; at any rate, it is a clue worth following up."

Ormande tried to conjecture up a great amount of interest as he spoke of his London work, but somehow the real ring was absent to-day; he was restless, and had no thoughts, no interest for anything except Katharine.

"If she will only listen to me, if she will give herself to me, Heaven knows she shall not repent the gift. I will treasure her as I treasure life itself; I, will smooth away the troubled look from her face, and change that sorrowful expression in her sweet, sweet eyes. She shall not repent the gift is sadnes, whatever it is, that has shadowed her young life, unless she herself wishes to tell me of it. Oh. Katharine, my darling, my darling! I dare not let myself hope; it seems too kood, too wonderful to be true!"

The walk under the trees might have continued much longer, but that Barbara suddenly espied Captain Derwent in the distance, and observed that she wished to speak to the young officer. Lord Otway parted from his bostess with a sigh of relief, and intended to wander away and seek Katharine in every corner and nook he could find; but Fate was against him; he fell into Mr. Montrose's hands, and was forced to listen to a long panegyric on politics. All at once Mr. Montrose changed the subject.

"That is a lovely girl, that daughter of noor Robert Brereton." he said.

It hurt her to hear the poor fellow disparaged and called ungenerous and

HOUSEKEEPERS WERE SWINDLED

way, experienced a wild desire to fling his arms around the staid, matter-of-fact politician, and embrace him warmly for Toronto Man and Woman Under Arrest in Pittsburg.

mothe.

Tors than she was called upon to been now, guarding such a secret, and being linked forever to such a man as Gordon

(To be Continued).

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 29.-Mr. and Mrs Rundolph Bradley, who claim Toronto as their home, were arrested here tonight charged with swindling numerous women out of one hunded dollars each.
The Bradleys, it is alleged, would advertise for a housekeeper for a large rooming house and would demand of the anplicants one hundred dollars each as security. No applicant for the position held it more than two weeks, and in each case, the women claimed, they were victimized and were unable to get their money back.

Mrs. Rose Miller, of Cliff street, did not have one hundred dollars to deposit, so she gave the Bradleys a bill of sale on seven hundred dollars' worth of furniture. When arrested to night they were endeavoring to dispose of the furni

NEWS IN BRIEF

Hon. Sydney Fisher proposes to estab

A fund will be opened by the Lord Mayor of London to assist Capt. Scott, who is planning a trip to the South Pole.

Mr. James Ross, who has just returned to Halifax from the Cape Breton mines seems satisfied with the outlook there. He declares that the strikers now regret their action.

Amos H. Baker, general manager of the Old Homestead canning factory, died at Picton, aged 44. Death was due to hardening of the arteries, from which he had suffered several months.

Norman Livingstone, convicted at Windsor on a charge of stealing $10 worth of butter from a North Ridge farmer, was committed to Central Prison in Toronto to serve one year.

Four men were killed yesterday in a cave-in in a tunnel which is being driven from Allings' mill to Lake Maltby, in the town of Orange, Conn.. to connect two reservoirs in the watersheds of this city.

The British steamer Clan MacIntosh, belonging to the Madras Steam Navigation Co., which was reported from Rangoon to have been blown up at sea, arrived at Calcutta on Wednesday. The steamer has met with no accident. Six convictions for breaches of the license act have been secured at Rainy River by Inspector George L. Morriss and fines amounting to $425 were imped ed upon G. M. Johnson, Canadian Nort ern Hotel, and W. H. Perrin, Commed "I have sacrificed myself to save her from grief, and now it seems my sacrifice was in vain. Poor Lucy! Poor Cousin Lucy! Heaven grant you may never learn what a black heart lives in your idol's breast! Well, I must not begin to think. I promised myself this morning wat I would not do it. Thank Heaven, I have some work to do; it is the greatest blessing that could come to me now."

She took up her pen and wrote away briskly, until the dinner gong sounding in the distance told her how late it was. Unprecedentedly cold weather in the chiprecedentedly cold weather in the valleys in the vicinity of Mexico City has destroyed the corn crops. It is estimated that the loss will reach $20,000,000. The thermometer on Wednesday registered two degrees below the freezing point.

While playing hide and seek in a corr was.

"I —I hope they will not want me in the drawing-room to-night," she said to herself, hurriedly, as she rose to her feet rather unsteadily and put one hand to her throbbing temples. "I do nthink I could go, I am so tired."

Ay, that she was; tired and ill, toonearly worn out!

With a deep sigh of relief, Katharine sunk into a chair by the open window and let the cool, sweet evening air fan her wan face. She heard nine o'clock strike after awhile, and then she knew that Barbara would send no message for her that evening.

The dinner rested untouched on the Conservation of National Resources, recently appointed by the Government, will probably be held in Mont-

The first meeting of the Commission on the Conservation of National Resources, recently appointed by the Government, will probably be held in Montreal towards the end of next month, in conjunction with a national forestry convention under Government auspices convention under Government auspices. The jury in the Toronto Assize Court, which heard the suit of Mrs. Julia Letcher against the Toronto Street Railway Co. for $2.000 damages, rendered a peculiar verdict. They found that she was entitled to $450, but that the accident was due to her own and the conductor's negligence.

Wilbur Wright circled the great Statue of Liberty at the entrance of New York harbor in his aeroplane yesterday, while in the upper part of the city two huge dirigible balloons fell ingloriously to dirigible balloons fell ingloric earth. This, the first day of the Hudson-Fulton celebration earth. This, the first day of flight of the Hudson-Fulton celebration, was a victory for the heavier-than-air machine. It can now be officially stated that the Grand Trunk Pacific will be completed by June 1 next, passengers and freight being carried from the head of Lake Superior to within sight of the Rocky Mountains. The announcement was likewise made that the G. T. P. will have a grade through the Rockies of four-tenths of one per cent. Walter Blythe is to have a new four-tenths of one per cent.

Walter Blythe is to have a new trial. The Court of Appeal yesterday delivered judgment unanimously granting the application made on Tuesday in his behalf by T. C. Robinette, K. C., by way of appeal from the refusal of Mr. Justice Riddell to state a case upon the one particular question as to whether the Judge ought to have specifically mentioned in his charge to the jury the point of whether Blythe was intoxicated at the time of killing his wife to such an extent as to be unable to appreciate the nature and the result of his act.

All at once Mr. Montrose changed the subject.

"That is a lovely girl, that daughter of poor Robert Breeton," he said, abruptly: "she should not be in a position of this sort."

Lord Otway would have liked to have taken the elder man's hand and nearly wrung it off.

"I can't understand it," pursued Mr. Montrose, thoughtfully. "She told me last night that she had no relations in the world except a cousin of her father's, and yet I know for a certainty that her mother's brother is alive, and a rich old curmudgeon he is, too: he ought to do something for the girl."

"Perhaps Miss Brereton prefers to be independent," said Ormande, wishing that he could declare proudly that henceforth Katharine would need no relation, that she would be tenderly cared for and guarded as his wife—the words almost trembled on his lips but he restrained, himself.

"I diare say, though, old Dalrymple does not even known of the girl's existinges of the could that she would be tenderly cared for and guarded as his wife—the words almost trembled on his lips but he restrained himself.

"I diare say, though, old Dalrymple does not even known of the girl's existinges of the could that a shudder Katharine buried her family when she ran away with hand-" diare the coll of the body found, and then-family when she ran away with hand-" diare the body found, and then-family when she ran away with hand-" diare the body found, and then-family when she ran away with hand-" diare the body found, and then-family when she ran away with hand-" diare the body found, and then-family when she ran away with hand-" diarect. The body found, and then-family when she ran away with hand-" diarect. The body found, and then-family when she ran away with hand-" diarect. The body found, and then-family when she ran away with hand-" diarect. The body found, and then-family when she ran away with hand-" diarect. The body found, and then-family when she ran away with hand-" diarect. The body found, and then-family when she ran away with hand-" diarect. The body found, and

GOOD FAIR BUT BAD DAY

Ancaster Had a Large Lot of Excellent Exhibits

And the Racing and Other Sports Were Good.

Those Who Were Responsible For the Fair's Success.

Yesterday was the closing day of the Ancaster Agricultural Society's fair, and notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, the attendance was large. The entries in nearly all the departments were more numerous than in previous years, and the directors were confident that if the weather had remained fine they the weather had remained fine they would have had a record-breaking attendance. The main feature of the day was the horse races, which were full of exciting interest from start to finish. The judges were Samuel Hammill, Joseph Harrington and Fred Small, whose impartial decisions were satisfactory to all. There were four entries in the three-minite class. Dr. Brown, owned by J. Ken. There were four entries in the three-minute class, Dr. Brown, owned by J. Kennedy, of Hamilton; Paddy Wilkes, owned by G. Morton, of Carluke; Billy H., owned by E. Hailey, of Dundas, and Dolly, owned by Howell Bros., of Flamboro. Dolly won the race in straight heats, Dr. Brown second and Billy H. third. Time—1.15. A mix-up occurred in the second heat of the race, when, without a minute's warning, another horse pulled in front of Billy H., causing him to stumble and fall. A large crowd gathered, but the horse was soon righted, when it was found that the only danage was a broken shaft.

when it was found that the only danage was a broken shaft.
There were three starters in the open speeding event, the result being as follows: Miss Philadelphia, owned by Smith Bros., of Waterdown; Lady Baxter, owned by A. Baxter, of Hamilton; Little Frank, owned by R. Field, of Hamilton.
The time was 1.081-2, which was the fastest ever made on that track.
The open running event resulted as follows: Bertha, owned by J. Hammond, of Hamilton; Opper, owned by J. W.
Littlefield, of Brantford; Dusky Dane, owned by J. Kennedy, of Hamilton.
The quick hitch was won by J. Thompson.

lows: One hundred yards, open, W. Bailiss, A. Handley, J. Ward. Half-mile, open, A. Edwards, R. Burton, B. W. Connel.

Five ladies started in the walking race, but two dropped out before going half-way around. A silver cup, presented by W. O. Sealey, M. P., was won by Mrs. Griffiths, of Hamilton, who won the walking race in Hamilton last fall Miss Griffin, of Ancaster, won second prize.

The entries in the vegetable exhibits were extra large this year, and included a choice lot of potatoes and numerous small vegetables. In the fruit exhibit apples and pears were plentiful and all were of good quality. The largest and best exhibit was the ladies fancy work, which eclipsed all previous ones, and included every known article in the list of needle work. The entries in the fine arts were not very large, but made up in quality what they lacked in quantity. There was a good showing of horses and cattle, but the sheep exhibit was small. The silk hat awarded to the oldest man who had aftended every Ancaster Fair was won by Mr. Kerby Markle, He is 78 years old, and had attended every fair for the past 59 years.

The Secretary, Captain L. Stevenson, spared no time or effort to help the fair along, and deserves great credit for the way in which he handled the work.

The fakirs who make it their business to attend the fall fairs were out in large numbers, as usual, and did a big business. Much praise is due to the manage. The entries in the vegetable exhibits

umbers, as usual, and did a big busines to attend the fall fairs were out in arge numbers, as usual, and did a big business. Much praise is due to the management for their untiring efforts to make the fair a success, in spite of the bad weather. They were:

T. W. Farmer, President; F. O. Egleston, Vice-President; T. H. Laidman, Second Vice-President; L. Stevenson, Secretary-Treasurer; F. W. Reinke, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer.

Executive Committee—R. C. Brown, John W. Moffatt, jun., E. Baker, Edward Rymal, R. Lampman, Geo. Richards, C. W. Marshall, G. H. Horning, A. Bradshaw.

Directors—E. P. Johnson, Elmer Dyment, T. P. Lawrason, Stanley Templer, E. J. Guest, Jack Brown, C. E. Rymal, Dr. Farmer, Alex. Allan, Alfred Brown, J. C. Gurnett, Edward Kenrick, F. O. Egleston, Frank Smith, J. S. Irwin, C.

Egleston, Frank Smith, J. S. Irwin, C. Wm. Marshall, J. Lynch, Wm. Allan, James Stewart, J. T. McNiven, T. O'. Hara, Josoph F. Smith, M. W. Reding, A. Henderson, Wilbert Book, I. Sager, Albert Shaver, Rutherford Baker, R. C. A. Henderson, Wilbert Book, I. Sager, Albert Shaver, Rutherford Baker, R. C. Brown, Geo. N. Shaver, George J. Sharp, T. Kennedy, F. W. Reinke, Geo. M. Brown, James Gibson, John McClure, oseph Duns, Gavin Morton, C. J. Leith, J. Buttram, W. Renton, S. Whitfield, as. Draper, G. B. Smith, A. Armes, J. J. Lyons, J. Forsythe, T. E. D. Byrne, C. Johnson, Sam Stenjabaugh, Robt. Horning, Jos. Harrington, Wm. Harrington, Edgar Wright, Geo. Book. Ladv Directors-Mrs. W. J. Harrington, Mrs. E. F. Egleston, Mrs. Lloyd Gabel, Mrs. R. Gurnett, Mrs. F. O. Egleston, Mrs. R. S. Stevenson, Mrs. T. E. D. Byrne.

The prize list, will be published in a day or two.

Diamonds

We purchase our diamonds direct from the cutters of Amsterdam at MANUFACTURERS' PRICES, that is why we claim a decided price advant-age for our perfect diamonds.

We would be pleased to have you spend your leisure moments at our diamond counter, if only to admire them Diamonds enter Canada duty free.

KLEIN & BINKLEY 35-37 James St. North Issuers of Marriage Licenses

BLACHFORD & SON

AT R. MCKAY & CO'S.

FRIDAY, OCT. 1, 1909

Garments For Women That Are Exclusive, Smart and Dressy

Hamilton's Most Important Sale of Coats and Suits In Every Instance Our Prices Are Notably

long and medium coat models. They are made of theviots, serges and broadcloths. All are exceeding-ly handsome and the most popular and most want-ed colors are represented; perfectly tailored gar-ments and worth $22.50. We are offering these as a leader at$18.50 Tailored Suits at $15.00

Very special values. These suits are made of all wood serge, broadeloth and fancy stripe mater-ials. Coats are semi-fitting, three-quarter lengths, beautifully tailored; skirts newest American mod-els. Regular $18.50, very special ... $15.00

Doings In The $1.25 for Dress Goods Section A Great Special Sale Event For Friday

$1.25 89c

On sale to-morrow 5 pieces new English Suitings, 56 inches wide and in the newest style effect. Comes in a nice weight for fall and winter suits; will make up stylish suits. Splendid combination stripe effects; decidedly new. See this line displayed for the first time and on sale. Worth regular $1.25, sale price. . . 89c yard

Intersting Values For Friday Bleached Damask 60c

Table Linens Napkins Savings

72-inch Bleached Damasks, fine linen good patterns, worth 85c yard

Odd Napkins 81/2c Each

Odd Napkins, slightly imperfect, % size, hemmed ready for use; regular

Table Cloths 98c Pure Linen Cloths, border all round, slightly imperfect; worth $1.50,

Bath Towels 25c Extra large, striped Bath Towels, heavy absorbent weaves; worth

Flannelette 11c

36-inch White Flannelette, soft warm finish; regular 16c yard, Friday'

Quilting Chintz 121/2c

36-inch Turkey Red Quilting Chintz, splendid range of patterns; worth Friday in "House Beautiful" Dept.

Art Sateen Reduced Art Cretonnes Reduced For comforter coverings, etc., nice ew goods.

Regular 25 and 30c yard, Friday for coverings and hangings, 31 inches

Regular 40 and 45c yard, downproof

29c yard

Friday

33c yd.

100 yard and 45c yard, form colorings, 40 and 45c yard, friday

33c yd.

Beautiful English and French goods,

R. McKAY & CO.

WHITNEY'S TALK.

WHY HE DID NOT RETURN FOR COOK'S PROPERTY

that the engine in the Jeannie, one of the smallest boats that ever went to the North Arctic, was not working satisfactorily, and we were depending partly on sails, which latter we had to do entirely. There was no reason why the Jeannie could not have gone back, but, not knowing that Dr. Cook's things left with me were of such importance as they have since turned out to be, I did not return. In addition, I had promised the Eskimos, who were with me after musk oxen in Elismere Land, certain things which I expected on the ship coming for me, but they were not aboard the Jeannie and I did not want to return and disappoint the men. An Jeannie and I did not want to return and disappoint the men. Another reason was that I wanted to prolong my hunting trip, which I was able to do by not going back, but by cutting across Smith Sound from North Star Bay and following edge of the ice south.

"I do not believe that either."

by cutting across smith sound from North Star Bay and following the edge of the ice south.

"I do not believe that either Dr. Cook or Commander Peary, if placed in my position, would have done differently than I did, nor would they, having started south for civilization, have turned back. I had never seen Dr. Cook until I met him in the Arctic. He told me he had been to the North Pole, and I was pledged not to reveal this fact to Commander Peary, but I could say that he had gone farther north than Peary in 1906.

"Commander Peary, to my khow-

"Commander Peary, to my khowledge, knew nothing about what had been left with me by Dr. Cook, except that I mentioned instruments, clothes, and furs, and also a narwhal horn. Dr. Cook's belongings left in my charge were placed in boxes, which were nailed up. Then I saw the Eskimos cover them with rocks.

No one could have been kinder to me-or shown me more consideration than Commander Peary did while I was on the Rocevelt, and he said he would be very glad to have me remain aboard and return with him instead of joining the Jeannie."

NEW INVENTION

want

New York, Sept. 29.—The following despatch has been received by the Associated Press from Harry Whitney, the New Haven hunter, who returned to St. John's, Nfld., yesterday by the schooner Jeannie from Greenland and is on his way home:

"Stephenville Crossing, Nfld., Sept. 29.—So many questions are being ask ed of me by different papers that I desire to make the following statement through the Associated Press:—My reasons for not going back to Etah after Dr. Cook's things were that the engine in the Jeannie, one of the smallest boats that ever went to the North Arctic, was not work-instanced in the importance of the invention in a current issue of an American scientific journal. It will be used mostly for high-decked vessels.

BRIDGE RICHELIEU.

The C. P. R. is to commissioners land attachment to the Harbor Commissioner's floating crane, an invention is signed especially for the port of Mo treat, received it initial test before gathering of shipping men and engineer this morning. The marine leg, as it is called, which will be used most in salvage cases, is the spily one of its kind in existence, and attention was called to the importance of the invention in a current issue of an American scientific journal. It will be used mostly for his production of the smallest boats that ever went to the North Arctic, was not work-instanced the commissioner's floating crane, an invention of signed especially for the port of Mo treat, received it initial test before gathering of shipping men and engineer this morning. The marine leg, as it is called, which will be used most in salvage cases, is the spily one of its kind in existence, and attention was called to the importance of the invention in a current issue of an American scientific journal. It will be used mostly for his particular test of One for Shipping and the concernment of the port of the was a supplied to the importance of the port of the port of the p at Once.

Montreal, Sept. 29.—Work will be begun at once on the C. P. R. bridge between St. John's and Iberville, spanning the Richelieu River. The bridge will be 1,500 feet long. There will be a lift span in the centre. The government intends widening the river at this point, and already the dredging is well under way. Although a double track will not be installed at once, provision will be made for double-tracking the bridge.

A Council of Commerce.

Melbourne, Sept. 29.—The Argus editorially endorses Sir Albert Spicer's scheme for the establishment of an Imperial Commerce Council, which he proposes shall consist of nineteen members, ten representing Great Britain, four the self-governing dominions, three India and two the Crown colonies.

EARRINGS

Are very fashionable just now and every lady should have a pair. We have them in pearls, corals and jet for pierced or unpierced ears. Call and see them.

F. CLARINGBOWL Jeweler and Optician. 22 MacNab Street North.

Plumbing and Heating Contractor MEORGE C. ELLICOTT Phone 2068 119 King W.

RAILWAYS

GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM

RETURN TICKETS AT SINGLE FARE October 13th to 31st

To points in Temagami, points Mattawa Port Arthur and to a number of points Port Arthur and to a number of points Port Arthur and to a number of points that's points in Quebec, New Brunswick, iva Scotia and Maine. October 21st to October 31st To Muskoka Lakes, Penetang, Lake of Bays, Midland, Maganetawan River, Lakefield, Madawaska to Parry Sound, Argyle to Coboconk, Lindeau to Haliburton, Saarbot Lake to Calabogie, via K. & P. R., Points from Severn to North Bay inclusive, and certain points reached by Northern Navigation Cr. Return limit on all tickets December 4th, or until close of navigation, if earlier, to ominis reached by steamers. Tickets and further information may be bitatined from any Grand Trunk agent, or write J. D. McDonald, Dis. Pass. Agent, Tor-nito, Ont.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

$41.05

British Columbia. Vancouver, Seattle, Portland,

Daily until Oct. 15th

daily Toronto to Winnipeg and Vancouver. Full information City Ticket Office, King

T., H. & B. EXCURSION

HUDSON-FULTON CELEBRATION. Going September 23-30th. Returning October 10th

$14.10 for Round Trip Further information on application to F. F. Backus, G. P. A.; A. Craig, Ticket Agent, Phone 1090.

STEAMSHIPS

C. P. R. STEAMERS

Lake Champlain Sept. 15
Empress of Britain Sept. 24
Lake Erle Sept. 29
Empress of Ireland Oct. 8
Lake Manitoba Oct. 13
Empress of Britain Oct. 22
£ake Champlain Oct. 27
Empress of Ireland Nov. 5 Empress of Ireland ... Nov. II steamers are equipped with wireless all conveniences for the safety and com-of passengers.
o book or for further information apply the nearest C. P. R. agent or to S. J. FL. 71 Yonge street, Toronte.

White Star-Dominion-Royal

Mail Steamships

MO?TREAL—QUEBEC—LIVERPOOL
Laurentic, triols acrew: Megantic, twin screw:
largest and most modern stoamers and he St.
Lawrence route. Latest production of the sain-builders' art; passenger elevator serving stim-builders' art; passenger elevator serving
stim-builders' art; passenger elevator serving try decks. Every detail of comfert and furtive decks. Every detail of comfert and furdecks. Every detail of comfert and furdecks. Every detail of comfert and furdecks. Every detail of comfert and furserving decks. Every decks. Every decks. Every decks.

Montreal.

Montreal.

Montreal.

Montreal.

Montreal. Mail Steamships

otre Dame Street, West, Montreal.
41 King Street East, Toronto.

AS A SUBSCRIBER

YOU CAN ORDER

sent to your address by calling up

TELEPHONE 368

THE TIMES is a bright. clean home paper. ALL THE NEWS

Machan Common Nowhere in Canada

Can you get better DIAMONDS or better values in DIAMONDS than from THOMAS LEES.
We carefully select every stone, pay spot cash for them and sell at the very closest

THOMAS LEES Reliable Jeweler 5 James St. North.

しらうらいつ

FOR SALE CHEAP Plasterers' Salamahders, Garbage Tanks, Metal Idods for mortar and brick, Slating, Tilling, All kinds of Roofing, Vallies and Flashings.

JOHN E. RIDDELL 257 King Street East MEN AND WOMEN,

