Rough on Railways. The C. E. R. has had a rather rough experience from the heavy rains of the first of the week. The ice in the Nashwaak took a start in several places, jamming up on the heads of the islands and sending the water over the lowlands on either side. In one instance it stood on the track so high that the fires were put out. At the railway bridge across the Nashwaak, about a mile above Marisville, the ice piled against the bridge, pressing it out of shape so that the rails were "kinked" and the train could McKenzie of this city, was married a few not cross. The rains of Sunday and Monday caused considerable damage in various parts of the ountry. The Nashwaak raised four feet ness. The jam tore everything along with thing the ice flood proved, that is that away from some fifty piers, but they had been placed there to stay and did so. Mr. Libby built the bulkhead and it stood the strain and saved the mill.

At Miramichi the storm began with hail but soon turned to rain, and continued for twenty-four hours, the ground being frozen all the falling water at once found its way to the river. On the 4th the ice ran, creating considerable excitement. Little damage was done. It jammed at Doaktown, the water running into Mr. Freeze's mill and standing on the main highway about two feet deep.

All the small streams are clear of except what has been made the past two days. It was the greatest freshet ever seen in these parts in mid-winter.

What is this "Melissa" we hear so much about?

MELISSA proofed coats or other garments are just what the Inventor and Manufacturers claim them to be, neither more nor less. They are both rain-proof, porous and odorless, therefore perfectly healthful and comfortable. They are common sense garments and should be treated in a common sense manner. Although rain-proof they are not waterproof in the sense that a Will it ed in a common sense manner. Although rainproof, they are not waterproof in the sense that a water cushion or bottle made of rubber is waterproof. Being porous, water can be forced through them, either by heavy pressure or by squeezing with the fingers. If they were absolutely waterproof they would be absolutely air-tight and therefore no better than rubber. Herein lies the peculiar value of the invention. Sensible people do not buy rainproof garments for the purpose of forcing water through them or for carrying water in them, neither do they take shelter under a water spout, nor sit in a pool for pleasure. They buy rainproof garments to wear for the purpose of protecting themselves from the weather, and a Melissa coat or mantle will effectually protect the wearer for many hours in do what effectually protect the wearer for many hours in a heavy rain or snow storm. Melissa has a peculiar water-repellent property which prevents water when falling in the form of rain or snow on a garment from penetrating the cloth, and the true way to test the utility of a Melissa garment is not by rousing a street of receivers. claimed garment is, not by pouring a stream of water on it from a watering can, but by wearing it in a heavy rainstorm. The result will be found for the whole country.
