The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Why should a man be proud of disliking most of his fellowmen? And yet every one who likes but few people seems to be proud of the fact. Why should man be proud that he can see little good in human nature, because he has discovered the remarkable truth that most men are bad and most women are false?

And yet did you ever meet a cynic who wasn't proud of that title?

I suppose the reason for this pride is that the people who discover so many faults and find so few people worthy of their friendship, regard it as a sign of their superior wisdom that they are capable of discovering the faults, and a sign of their superior discrimination that they are so hard to please.

Wonder if it ever occurs to these people that it shows just as great a wisdom and discrimination to find virtues as faults.

It isn't a sign of superior wisdom to call an apple rotten because it has one bad spot, is it?

The man who sees the little flower growing by the roadside has just as sharp eyes as he who sees only the ugly earthworm, hasn't he?

I once knew a dear little girl who liked everybody. With everyone she met she was pleased. Everyone was good, or pretty, or clever, or attractive, or in some way likeable according to this young person.

And then she got in with a crowd of girls older than herself, and acquired better (?) judgment.

She learned to see the faults in and make fun of everyone she met.

She learned to make her circle of friends a very exclusive one and even in this select circle to find many imperfections. It was a case of "all the world's queer except thee and me, and sometimes I think that there is a little queer."

And I know she thought that she had improved and looked back with derision on the blind little girl she had once been.

While really she is just as blind as she ever was. She used to see one-half the picture and now she sees the other half. And the half she sees now isn't near so pretty, and looking at it doesn't make her nearly so nice a girl as looking at the other half did.

For it is one of the greatest truths in this world that the more you can love people and the more good you can find in them the more loveable and worthy you yourself will become.

The man who sees all the hidden faults in people and sees nothing else is not a good judge of human nature any more than the man who can cleverly pick a book to pieces is thereby a good critic.

Good criticism, in its right sense doesn't mean merely finding faults. It also means appreciating good qualities.

Don't be proud of yourself because you can see faults. It isn't a thing to be proud of. You are more an object for pity than pride.

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for reason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier and a fault finder.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are promptly and permanently cured by the use of

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY. It builds up the body with sound flesh and solid muscle.

The dealer who offers a substitute for the "Discovery" is only seeking to make the little more profit realized on the sale of less meritorious preparations.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth bound. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Turnips should always be cut into small pieces before cooking.

When packing, every delicate garment should be wrapped separately.

Never hurry to your bath when you are exhausted; rest a bit first.

Water in which potatoes have been boiled is good to wash tarnished brass.

A small amount of chopped figs will greatly improve a nut and apple salad.

To freshen blue serge, sponge it in blue water and hang it in the air to dry.

Clothes can be made extra white by a little kerosene added to the wash water.

Blotting paper saturated with turpentine is a sure preventative against moths.

The older a woman gets the more water she should drink and the more fruit she should eat.

Pencil marks may often be removed from white paint by rubbing them gently with bread crumbs.

When haggard from fatigue, try a hot bath in which a little vinegar and cologne have been added.

A few chopped almonds added to the top of sweetened biscuit are very good and make a pleasant change.

Washing the eyes morning and night with water as hot as can be borne is an excellent tonic for them.

Never take a hot bath in the morning, unless it is followed by a cold sponge, or you will catch cold.

If shoes have been mildewed, rub them well with vaseline. This will usually remove all traces of the green.

Boiled or roasted meat which is to be used cold should be put away in a wet cloth to keep it moist and tender.

When ivory becomes discolored, paint it with spirits of turpentine and lay in the sun for two or three hours.

A lump of charcoal kept in the drawer with the silver will absorb any chance moisture and keep the silvery bright.

Ham soaked with milk over night will be found exceedingly tender and sweet when used for breakfast next morning.

For spring suppers sliced orange and shredded coconut, put into a dish in alternate layers, are very appetizing.

To remove cakes readily from the pans, place them on a wet towel or cloth immediately after taking them from the oven.

Invaluable to Every Farmer

Its Wonderful Power in Curing Sick Cattle and Colicky Horses Makes "Nerviline" Worth Its Weight in Gold.

The stockman or farmer that doesn't know of the thousand and one uses of "Nerviline" around the stable, has a great deal to learn. "Why, I wouldn't think of locking my stable door at night without knowing I had a supply of 'Nerviline' on hand. I always get a dozen bottles at a time from my druggist."

Nerviline CURES COLICK HORSES

"To cure colic, indigestion and bad stomach in a horse or cow there is no remedy on earth in the same class as 'Nerviline.' Last summer I had a $250 horse that got the scours, and I would have lost him if I hadn't been able to give him Nerviline. I poured a full bottle of Nerviline in a pint of water down his throat and saved his life. I know of neighbours who have saved many heads of valuable stock, stricken with colic, just by using Nerviline. It is equally good as a rub-on liniment, and I know from my experience that for man or beast, internally or externally, 'Nerviline' is worth a dollar a drop."

James E. McCullough, Stock Breeder, etc.

You will never regret using Nerviline—but see you get it and not something else, 25c. per bottle, or five for $1.00, at all dealers, or The Catarrh-ozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Terrible Fight on Train.

Drink-Crazed Passenger Kills Conductor and Porter and Then Dies Police.

Wilmington, Delaware, March 24.—Three men were killed on a north-bound Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train in a fight which began at Newark, Del., and ended in a desperate battle between the police, aided by the firemen and citizens, and a murderer at the Delaware Avenue Station here, following the arrival of the train.

The dead are: O. E. Wellman, aged 40 years, of Philadelphia, conductor of the train; Samuel Williams, aged 50 years, colored, Pullman porter, whose home is said to have been in Jersey City; J. H. Bethea, aged 40 years, of Dillon, S. C.

The injured are: John O. Wiley, aged 40 years, a park guard, of Wilmington, Del., shot in the hand and leg; Matthew Haley, a citizen of Wilmington, shot in the leg.

The triple tragedy was the result of an altercation between Bethea, who was a passenger, and Williams, porter on the Pullman. The car was bound from Washington to Jersey City. Bethea, who had been drinking heavily, shot the porter through the heart, killing him instantly. When Conductor Wellman saw the porter and ran up, Bethea fired a second shot into the colored man's body. Then, without a word, he shot Wellman through the heart. The conductor fell dead.

The double murderer barricaded himself in the toilet room, and threatened to kill the first person who approached. Meanwhile, the train reached Wilmington. A hurry call was sent to the police station.

The police called upon Bethea to surrender. As an answer he opened the door of the toilet room a short distance and opened fire from an automatic revolver. Bethea is believed to have had at least one hundred rounds of ammunition, for he succeeded in holding the posse at bay and also held up the train from 5.17 until 6.35. During this time many shots were fired on both sides. Travel over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was also tied up.

A call was sent to a local fire company nearby. The fireman responded with their engines. Attaching a high pressure hose to a fire plug the firemen, barricaded behind trucks and boards, played a stream upon the windows of the toilet room.

The desperado fired a number of shots at the firemen, but they were not injured. Subsequently, Bethea, drenched with water, staggered to the platform, and the police once more called upon him to surrender. His reply was several shots.

Several of the policemen had armed themselves with shotguns, and just as Bethea fired the last shot, Police Captain Evans fired a load of shot into his face.

Notwithstanding this injury he kept on firing. Patrolman Boughman opened fire with a revolver and struck Bethea in the right arm. The desperado tried to fire again, but Sergeant Keltner opened fire, and also managed to spring upon Bethea. When the police took hold of him he fell dead.
