The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

There is a person in my audience who owns a book that has never in his life lost a book by loaning it to some one who completely omitted the little ceremony of returning it.

I wonder also if there are very many people in my audience who could hold up their right hands and swear, "I haven't a book in my possession which I have kept longer than I should have."

Again I am a doubter.

The cheerful attitude which many people allow themselves on the subject of borrowed articles—especially books—is really almost amusing.

I was at the home of a friend the other day when she was giving its annual spring overhauling to her library.

In the course of this upheaval she came upon a volume which she had borrowed Twelve Years ago.

She was greatly astonished at finding it.

"To think I never took that book back," she said, "and just think poor M. has been dead six years."

(By-the-by, please excuse an irrelevant remark, but isn't it queer that despite our belief in a better, happier world we continually refer to people who are dead as "poor So-and-So's")

My friend dusted the book and put it back on the shelf with a sigh that was evidently more for poor M. than for her own culpability in the matter of the twelve years. And she is in most matters a very conscientious woman.

Of course the man who has two or three books in his library which he borrowed so long ago that he actually doesn't know where they came from, or if he does know, has lost track of the owners, would be indignant if you told him he had stolen from his friends.

And yet what is the difference between such prolonged borrowing and stealing?

A difference in intent to be sure but not much in results.

The borrower always has a comfortable feeling that "some day I must return that book."

Some day is a very dangerous word. It is such a convenient curtain to hide your culpability from yourself.

Admit frankly to yourself, "I shall probably never return that book," and then perhaps you will feel such a sense of guilt that you will return it to-morrow.

Or better still to-day.

The Fountain Head of Life Is The Stomach

A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished.

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY makes the stomach strong, promotes the flow of digestive juices, restores the lost appetite, makes assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and restorative nerve tonic. It makes men strong in body, active in mind and cool in judgement.

This "Discovery" is a pure, glyceric extract of American medical roots, absolutely free from alcohol and all injurious, habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on its wrappers. It has no relationship with secret nostrums. Its every ingredient is endorsed by the leaders in all the schools of medicine. Don't accept a secret nostrum for this time-proven remedy of known composition. Ask your neighbors. They must know of many cures made by it during past 40 years, right in your own neighborhood.

World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

is a bag of black moire lined with white leather.

The sash will be one of the features of this spring. Some are placed very high at the back.

Buttons of black-silk or satin are effective little ways of trimming a dress of linen.

Stripes are in high favor.

The short cape vies with the scarf.

Pearl dog collars are no longer worn.

Colored collars are seen on white blouses.

Laces of all kinds will be worn in profusion.

The classic silk cachemires have risen again.

Rosettes of silk are used on many linen frocks.

Often buckles are made of linen to match the belt.

For afternoon costumes the large hat is in order.

Togues made entirely of flowers will be much worn.

It is a pretty fashion to have belt and jabot to match.

The newest hats for girls are the rolling brim sailors.

Even washable cotton and linen materials are headed.

Pansy blooms form the design of one of the newest veils.

Exquisite are the bags and reticules of heavy Venetian lace.

Very novel are the umbrella handles of crystal set with jewels.

The grosgrain ribbon guard for eye-glasses is now a familiar sight.

The Chantilly lace veil has been discarded by the smart women.

The introduction of silk on linen is an important one this season.

Very smart are the antique filet laces, resembling old altar draperies.

The fash of net and finest mousseline trim satin or cashmere gowns.

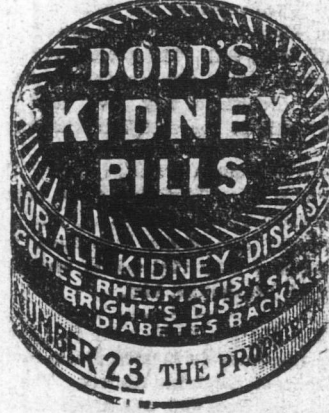

A new Greek band head-dress of cut steel is made with plaques over each ear.

Small coral beads with white embroidery are most youthful looking and smart.

Marquisette, so much worn last winter, continues to hold its popularity this spring.

Embroidery done with beads trims many ends and loops of the lovely sashes.

Particularly refined and desirable

Wedding Bells.

Music playing, rice flying, songs singing, sumptuous feasting and tripping the light fantastic, told the glad tidings of the entrance into matrimonial life of Mr. John T. Wall, of St. John's, Nfld., and Miss Mary Connelly, of Tipperary, Ireland.

Mr. Wall left St. John's West when a child with his parents, and was raised and educated in the city of Cambridge.

Graduating from the public schools he entered on a business career with one of the largest leather concerns in the city of Boston.

With an unflinching tendency towards the discharge of his duties and zeal and devotion towards their success, Mr. Wall was soon looked upon by the owners of the firm as their confidential clerk and faithful employee.

Miss Connelly, the handsome bride, seems to have all the grace and elegance so proverbial of girls of her native land, easily and immediately winning the esteem and confidence of all with whom she comes in contact.

The wedding presents were numerous and costly, and a multitude of admiring friends wish them a pleasant voyage over the sea of matrimony.—Com.

Do not know what to take? Then why not find out? Your doctor knows. Leave it all to him. If he says, "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral," then take it. If he says something else, take that. Do as he says.

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its Forms can be Cured.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a Bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at

DR. F. STAFFORD & SONS, Duckworth Street and Theatre Hill.

Small size, 25 cents; postage, 5c. extra; large size, 50 cents; postage, 10c. extra. Mail orders must be accompanied by remittance.—oct29.1m.

Future of Labrador.

Labrador, the Cinderella of British possessions in North America, was the subject of a remarkably interesting lecture by Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, known as 'Grenfell of Labrador,' before the Royal Geographical Society last evening.

"My first deductions from twenty years' acquaintance with Labrador," said the lecturer, "are these—that it can and will carry in the days to come, a population as easily as Norway does to-day; it is a better country far than Iceland, with which also I am familiar; and to be greatly preferred to Lapland, Finland, Siberia, and Northern Alaska. Professor Fernald, of Harvard University, has lately shown most clearly that Labrador is the 'Vineyard of the Norse Sagas, that the wheat or 'croft' mentioned is obviously our strand grass, the 'vimber' our red cranberries, and the 'mosur wood' our birch."—Daily Mail, Feb. 28.

Festival of Empire.

Some Interesting Features of the All-British Exhibition.

LONDON, March 3.

A PALACE OF LIGHT.

Not only will the Festival of Empire be a brilliant display by day both in the Crystal Palace and in the grounds, but by night the place will be a palace of a myriad lights, a veritable fairland of illuminations.

In the Palace will be 200 large inverted gas lamps, each from 1,500 to 2,000 candle power, while the main avenues in the grounds will be treated in much the same way.

The type of high pressure gas lamps will be similar to those so successfully employed in the streets of London. Many miles of pipes and cables, and millions of gas jets and electric globes, will be used in the 250 acres of grounds, and upon the palaces and pavilions of Empire City.

HOW BATTLESHIPS ARE BUILT.

In connection with the Festival of Empire a naval exhibition on novel lines will be given in two large pavilions on the Grand Parade of the Crystal Palace by the Directors of the Thames Ironworks, the firm which built the largest battleship, H.M.S. Thunderer. This will include a demonstration of how ships of war of various types are constructed, equipped with machinery, and armed—a display the like of which has never before been given, for there has been no exhibition since the great developments in naval architecture were introduced.

In the transportation section of the All-British Exhibition will be a huge illuminated model of the Olympic, the largest vessel in the world. Her register is 45,000 tons, and she will make her maiden voyage on June 14 next.

NO FEAR OF FIRE.

Recognizing the great importance of establishing a thoroughly effective system to cope with an outbreak of fire, the Council of the Festival of Empire and the Colonial Governments have appointed Mr. Gordon W. Harris, A.M.I.C.E., adviser on the subjects of water supply and fire protection. Everything possible is being done to render an outbreak impossible at the Crystal Palace. Even now a staff of trained firemen are always on duty, and a wonderfully effective fire-quencher has been installed.

WORKING DAY AND NIGHT.

From now onwards the thousands of men engaged in transforming and rejuvenating the Crystal Palace and its 250 acres of grounds for the Festival of Empire will work day and night, three separate sets being employed. Already great changes have been effected, and every day sees some new effort inaugurated. The very difficult task of cutting and preparing the mile and a half of track for the "All Red Route," the tour of the Empire, has just been completed, and the laying of the electric line will now begin.

There is no question but that this "All Red Route" is going to be a wonderful feature of the great scheme and the biggest novelty ever seen at an exhibition.
