"But This is Different."

BY RUTH CAMERON.

man that wise.

Mistakes are such insidious, deceitful things. You see if you knew when you were making them that you were making them, then you wouldn't make them and they wouldn't be mistakes.

But you never do know. Yesterday's folly allures you in a totally new guise to-day; and it is not until to-morrow, when you will have already embraced it, that it will shake off its disguise and you will realize with disgust that you have made the silly mistake again.

A little neighbour of mine is a very energetic young person who wants what she wants when she wants it; and wants it moreover with all her heart and soul. Occasionally she comes to grief when she has gotten her own way—even as you and I—and then she is deeply penitent and is sure that she won't be so wilful next time. But when next time comes, of course she doesn't recognize it.

On a very unpropitious day last summer she teased her mother to take her on a promised outing. Her mother warned her that it would surely rain but in the end her teasing prevailed, and they went. It did rain, long and hard; they both caught cold and her mother was quite ill. Margaret was wild with remorse and was sure this lesson would last her the rest of her life. A few days later I heard her begging her mother to let her go for a long walk with two girls who were considerably older than she. Her mother objected on the ground that she would get too tired, but Margaret persisted. Finally her mother reminded her of her experience in having her own way the week before, and of her promise to be more reasonable next time. "But this is so different, Mother," she protested. "This is quite another thing."

"I know it, my dear," said her mother, "it's another thing you want to do. It's always another thing. But it's the same headstrong will that makes you so determined and it is the same headstrongness that will get you into trouble again. And then you'll be sorry and say you will be more reasonable next time. And when next time comes you will say, 'But this is different.'"

Isn't that the way with all of us? Aren't we always saying to our consciences or to some external monitor, but this is different. I admit that was a mistake, but this is different. And then "this" turns out to be another mistake and again we promise ourselves that we will be wiser next time. And again the eternal cycle rolls.

I guess the only way to avoid the mistakes and failures that our particular faults leads us into is to try to understand these faults, and to be always watching for the "trigger in the wood-pile," no matter how inoffensive and different each new wood-pile looks.

Decision Against Judge

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—Mr. Justice Cassels, in the Exchequer Court handed down judgment this morning in the important case of the King v. Clement. The finding is against the defendant.

This was an information exhibited by the Attorney-General of Canada where by His Majesty sought judgment against the Hon. W. P. Clement, one of the puisne judges of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, for the recovery of the sum of $4,290, alleged to have been wrongfully obtained from the Crown for per diem allowances on the basis of the defendant being absent from his home on judicial duty. The Attorney-General charged that the defendant in obtaining these monies from the Crown sent in certificates from month to month fraudulently representing that his residence was at Grand Forks, B.C., while in fact he was residing in Vancouver, B.C., and was therefore not entitled to $6 per diem allowances under the Judge's Act.

In the judgment handed down, Judge Cassels decides that Vancouver and not Grand Forks was the defendant's residence during the time in question, and that being so, the defendant must repay to the Crown the sums charged for per diem allowances while in Vancouver, viz., $4,290, together with interest thereon.

THE CHARGE OF FRAUD.

On the allegations of fraud against the defendant in the information the learned judge said: "I would have gladly closed my reasons for judgment at this point, but having been pressed by counsel both for the Crown and the defendant to express my views on the second question, viz.: Whether the defendant intentionally endeavoured to deceive the

Had Itching Piles For 27 Years

Often Laid Up for Days at a Time—A Wonderful Tribute to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Few people were ever more enthusiastic in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment than the writer of this letter. When you read the description of his case you will not wonder why Mr. John Johnson, Coleman, Alta., writes: "Three years ago I was cured of blind, itching piles of 27 years' standing by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief I would ever get from the terrible misery of piles. Often I was laid up for three days at a time, and at other times worked when I should have been in bed."

"Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of sixty cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the time, and never miss a day. Words fail to express my gratitude for the cure this ointment made for me. I cannot tell half as much about it as it deserves. Anyone doubting this can write direct to me."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Department of Justice, as to his real place of residence, I must to the best of my ability give my opinion on this question.

"Since the trial I have perused and re-perused the evidence and exhibits, and very reluctantly I am forced to the conclusion that the contention of the Crown is well founded, and I am unable to relieve the defendant from the charge."

Diplomatic Woman.

She was young and fair, and a tear glistened in her eye as she laid her curly head upon his shoulder, and exclaimed:

"Oh, George, I think if I found that you did not love me, I should die!" "My darling," he answered, passing his hand gently round her dimpled chin, "I will always love you. Do you think I would marry you if I did not feel sure of it? In a few days at the altar I shall vow to love you all my life, and I will keep my vow."

A lovely kind of beatific happiness played for a moment like sunshine on her lips, and then she whispered:

"Oh, George, I like to hear you talk like that. You have been so good to me. You have given me a diamond locket, and a gold watch and chain, and rings that an angel might wear outside her gloves and not be ashamed; and if I thought that one day you'd be sorry you'd given me all these nice things, and want them back again, I should break my heart."

He held her gently against his manly breast, and answered with a quivering voice:

"Oh, my darling, there is nothing on earth that could happen that would make me regret giving you a few tokens of my love, or make me want them back again."

She sprang from his arms like a joyous deer, she shook back her sunny curls, and with a whole poem in her hazel eyes, exclaimed:

"Oh, George, you have taken a load from my heart! I've come to say I can't marry you after all, because I've seen somebody I like better, and I thought you'd want your presents back again."

Wants a Big Salary.

New York, Nov. 28.—A cable to the New York American from Paris says: A half million dollars is the minimum salary demanded by the Prince of Wiedesburg of Albania. The prince already has accepted the throne and the Austrian and Italian cabinets are inducing the other powers to accept him.

He insists upon a reasonable allowance to keep up his court. His present income is $30,000, and he thinks that even a poor country like Albania can afford to add $500,000 a year to enable him to cut a kingly figure. Italy and Austria are disposed to agree with him.

Local Men In Big Fox Enterprise.

In Three Weeks Thirty-Nine Foxes, Some of Them Silver Patches, Worth About $6,000, Were Captured Alive.

The North Sydney Herald is pleased to learn of the phenomenal success being made by the Burgeo Co-Operative Fox Farm syndicate, operating at Burgeo, Newfoundland. A short time ago The Herald announced the fact of Mr. William McLeod, an experienced fox rancher of P. E. I., who was appointed as superintendent of the Company's ranch. Mr. McLeod was sent there by Messrs. Hyndman, Agnew and others of the big fox men of the Island, after the possibilities of this proposition had been explained to them.

The great luck of the Burgeo Company can be largely attributed to the thorough organization, coupled with good fellowship existing between Mr. R. Moulton, the head of this enterprise, and the thirty-five trappers who are co-operating in the interests of the company. It goes to show how organization counts, when it is seen that the company have collected in their yards at Burgeo no less than thirty-nine foxes in three weeks.

Mr. McLeod, the Island keeper, says that it is the best proposition of them all, and is astonished at the fact of being able to stock a farm with so many valuable animals in so short a time. It is estimated that the value of the foxes now at Burgeo is about $6,000, and there are yet four months of the trapping season available. It is not improbable that there will be a quarter of a million dollars worth of foxes in the company's yards.

It was easily predicted that with the management and organization of the Burgeo enterprise that it would prove itself to be the banner fox proposition, and the experience so far has fully justified the prediction.

Mr. Moulton, who has been a fur dealer and exporter for over twenty years in the Burgeo district, declares that the many silvers and patches now in the company's yards are much above the average in color, all being very dark. This will certainly make excellent breeding stock, and as up to date females predominate, it has been arranged to introduce some Island bred black males to make up any deficiency in pairing, and thus introduce at one step, the pedigreed black strain peculiar to the Island. On to the strong, healthy dark active stock being collected by the Burgeo Company—North Sydney Herald, Dec. 3.

TRUPE COMING.—At present the Harkins Dramatic Company are playing in St. John, N. B. They are booked to be in Sydney during Christmas week and early in the New Year they will visit St. John's to fill a three weeks' engagement here.

Roofing As Attractive in Price—As in Color

You'll admit this roof looks attractive—in distinctive colors of red or green. But for most home builders its chief attraction lies in its remarkable economy. Let's begin with its first cost. NEPONSET Prostate Roofing costs less to buy than good shingles. Greatly reduces the cost of repairs. No shingles to split, crack or "curl up." Remember, the shingles of today aren't the shingles of 20 years ago. NEPONSET Prostate Roofing makes a water-tight blanket. And best of all, resists fire—is "spark-proof." Its protection from fire-hazard alone is worth all its cost. Its first cost is its only cost, too. Can you afford NOT to have NEPONSET Prostate Roofing on your roof?
