Got Arm Crushed.

John Mahon, aged 39 years, employed in the retail store of Job Bros. & Co., Ltd., met with a painful accident last evening that will incapacitate him for some time. He was endeavoring to take three cases of oil off a long cart outside the store, and while handling the centre case, the end one gave way and rolled over Mahon's right arm, crushing it from the tips of the fingers to the elbow. The hand especially was badly mangled and many bones were broken. He had suffered excruciating pain, but bore up bravely and after being taken to Job's store and getting the wounded member wrapped up, was brought to a physician's surgery for treatment.

INSOLENT ATTACK ON UNITED STATES BY GERMAN EXPERT.

London, June 4.—The Times says this morning: "German press comment on the reply to the Lusitania note followed the obvious lines, the main points being that it is a merely preliminary to a further exchange of views, and that Germany, of course, will not abandon her submarine war upon commercial shipping."

"Nevertheless, the Berliner Tageblatt allows its naval correspondent, Capt. Persius, to make one of the most insolent attacks on the United States that has yet been published. In an attack which may be intended by the German naval authorities to keep German diplomacy up to the mark, he writes:

"One must not be under any illusions. The North American wants to do business. This desire is universal. He desires that the war shall last a long time yet. It is not only the ammunition firms that cherish this wish, a considerable percentage of the North American people is following with enormous excitement the continual rise in the shares of the ammunition factories, and the eager longing to make profits in this way has put the masses into a wild state of excitement."

"No doubt certain people, as true friends of peace, turn away in horror, but their influence is small. North American is enjoying the part of a Tertius Gaudens and will not likely abandon it. Crimes of indignation about the murder of North American women and children are proofs of morality and are also cheap; but it would be a mistake to regard them as more than by-play, which will speedily come to nothing."

Hr. Grace Notes.

The schrs. Mary F. Harris, Capt. Brien, Pandora, Capt. Yemman, and Stund, Capt. Wells, left this week for Labrador.

Mr. L. Hayden, son of Mr. Richard Hayden, of this town, writing from England to a friend here on May 21st says. We are leaving to-morrow for the Dardanelles. Mr. Hayden is one of our naval reservists, and we wish him and ten Nfld. chums on the ship a safe return.

Island potatoes are fairly plentiful in town now, and are selling at $2.60 per barrel.

Fresh codfish and salmon were on sale in the market to-day, the latter offering at 8c. and 10c. per lb.

The dock is kept busy now fitting up schooners for the summer's work.

Mr. James Hannon died on Saturday, after a long illness. Mr. Hannon was one of our oldest citizens. Having no relatives here, the old man went to St. John's to the Home for the Poor about a year ago, but not being contented he returned home. To our mind it seems sad to see a man of his years who has been connected with the country's business for years, who has assisted to bring much wealth into the country, it is sad, we say, to see him in need, and depending on charity. The funeral took place on Sunday and was largely attended. The C.C.C. attended the funeral of this old warrior in the country's business.

SIXTY THOUSAND CANADIANS ARE MAKING SHELLS.

Ottawa, June 4.—The appeal by the Right Hon. David Lloyd George for greater assistance on the part of the masses in Great Britain in the manufacture of munitions of war, directs attention anew to the activities in that line in Canada.

Some months ago a vigorous campaign in shell production was started, and it has not only stimulated industry, but is aiding the Allies in a way that is most essential to their success.

From every factory or shop that has the equipment, from the Steel Plants in Nova Scotia are being turned out. Many smaller concerns have adapted their equipment to shell-making, while others are making parts.

The total production at present is thirty thousand shells a day. Before long it is planned to make the daily output fifty thousand. Two kinds are being made, shrapnel and high explosive.

At several points explosives of the most destructive kinds are being made. Shell orders so far placed in Canada by the Allies are close on two hundred million dollars, and they will be constantly increased.

The number of men engaged is around 60,000, and more are wanted. Upwards of six hundred thousand shells have been sent to the front from Canada, and are giving the greatest satisfaction. Several industries are also working at high pressure in the manufacture of machine guns, rifles and similar equipment.

BISURATED MAGNESIA

Gun and Crew Completely Demolished by One Shell.

Battlefield Incidents Is Related by Member of the Fifth.

Further interesting particulars of recent engagements in France in which the Westmount Battery and other units of the 2nd Canadian Field Artillery Brigade at the front distinguished themselves are contained in a ten-page letter received by Ald. S. Weldon, of Montreal, from his son, Sergeant Charles Weldon, of the Westmount Battery. Sergeant Weldon was wounded in the arm on May 3 and was, after having received attention at the field hospital, transferred to England, being sent on arrival there to one of the big military hospitals at Southend-on-Sea. It was from the hospital which was formerly one of the principal Southend hotels that Sergeant Weldon writes.

According to Sergeant Weldon's letter, which in one section gives a remarkable description of the experience of being under fire, the worst sight he ever witnessed either before or during the war was while his battery was hammering the seemingly inexhaustible German armies outside of St. Julien and about two miles from Ypres.

Within a few yards of where his gun was located, Sergeant Weldon writes, there was another gun of the Westmount Battery. It was being operated by nine men including the ammunition servers. Suddenly out of the sky dropped a "Black Maria," one of the Germans' heaviest shells. It caught the gun next to Sergeant Weldon's fair and square in the centre. There was a roar, a blinding flash and a cloud of thick black smoke. When the air had cleared again, Sergeant Weldon says, there was neither sight nor sign of the gun or of any of the nine men who had been firing it. Everything was blown clear away. The sight was a sickening one and one that he will never forget.
