In Memoriam.

FRANCIS PEDDLE.

Many hearts were filled with grief when, on Tuesday, Oct. 15th, the tidings came of the death of Seaman Francis Peddle, of the Canadian Naval Reserve. The deceased was a young man of only twenty-five years of age.
He was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Peddle, of St. Joseph's.
Five years ago he left home to spend six months in Sydney, C. E., but as time passed he liked his new home so well that he thought he would better his fortunes by remaining there instead of returning to Newfoundland.
Three years ago he responded to the call of patriotism and felt it his duty to make one of those who were so nobly serving their King and Country. Accordingly he enlisted in the Canadian Navy, and having done duty on the "Margaret" and the "Niobe", respectively, he was at the time of his death, Quartermaster on H. M. C. S., "Acadia".

His death came very unexpectedly, as only two weeks before his parents had received news of his departure from Halifax en route for Sydney, N. S.
He was taken suddenly ill on Oct.
6th of influenza, which afterwards developed into pneumonia. His death occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital, New Aberdeen, N. S., on Oct. 14th.
The following day word was received from C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Naval Service, Ottawa, apprising them of the sad fact.

Words cannot describe the grief of his heart-broken parents, and other relatives.

Endowed with many excellent characteristics he was beloved by all who knew him. His kindness, his cheery humour, his pleasant smile, endeared him to all. He was held in great esteem by all his shipmates, as was testified by the beautiful floral tributes with which his casket was decorated.

His remains were sent home for burial, arriving in Holyrood, on Thursday, 17th inst. On Friday morning his funeral took place when all that was mortal of this noble son of Newfoundland was consigned to the grave. The interment took place in the cemetery at St. Joseph's, his native home.

To his sorrowing parents, and other relatives the sympathy of the whole community is extended. One brother William survives him, also three sisters, Nellie, in St. John's; Hannah and May at home. That the Redeemer who gave his life for all may comfort them in their affliction and enable them to resign themselves to the fulfilment of His Holy Will, is the prayer of all their sympathizing friends.—R. I. P. Boston papers

RICHARD GOUGH.

On Wednesday, Sept. 24th, the Angel of Death visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alban Gough, of St.
Joseph's, and bore from thence to his Eternal dwelling the soul of their little son Richard, aged five years. As he had been ill only four days his death came unexpectedly, and was a great blow to his fond parents. For the first couple of days his illness seemed light, but suddenly a change came and before the doctor who was summoned could reach him, his pure soul had passed to the Great Beyond where there is no suffering but only joy. His parents are grief-stricken over the loss of their little darling whose mild, lovable disposition had especially endeared him to them, but they bear their loss with great resignation and fortitude, for they know that their child is not lost to them for ever but has gone to prepare the way for them in that heavenly abode, the greatness and beauty of which the eye hath not seen, nor the ear heard, nor can the heart of man conceive.
St. Joseph's, Salmonier, Oct. 23, '18.

MARJORIE ELLA JAMES.

Marjorie Ella, youngest daughter of Magistrate James W. James, of Bonaville Bay, late of Hant's Harbor, died in the Whitford Memorial Hospital, Everett, Mass., U.S.A., Thursday night, October 10th, 1918, after an illness of but five days. The funeral services were held at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Short, in Everett. Interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery. Miss James succumbed to the dreaded epidemic which has been ravaging the States for several weeks. It is but six months since Mr. James lost a son, Albert, on the battleships of France, giving his life for others. In no less a degree has this daughter, but twenty years of age, given her young life upon the altar of sacrifice, serving as a nurse in the Everett Hospital, ministering to those stricken with the influenza, from whom she evidently contracted the disease which proved fatal. Her death was truly that of a heroine.

CAPT. JOHN QUINLAN, HOLYROOD.

In the passing of Capt. John Quinlan, on Thursday morning last, Holyrood lost one of its most prominent and respected citizens. The deceased was in his 80th year, and had suffered from "heart trouble" for a number of years so that his end was not unexpected. During the repeated attacks of this "mild" Rev. Father Finn was in constant attendance, fortified him with the last Sacraments, and endowed him with medical and spiritual comforts for his journey thither which was witnessed by his family circle. In the death of our old friend, Mr. Quinlan, we are left to mourn the type of men who are unfortunately growing rarer every day. Men of industry, initiative, and handicraft; big men in every sense of the word; big in body, great in mind; sound in principle, valiant in battle; sage in council and honest in action. He was of a heret-lean build and gigantic size. Most of the family have huge statures. The late James Quinlan, a brother of the deceased, was of a giant-like stature.

For almost half a century the Quinlan brothers owned and sailed a craft of their own and prosecuted a successful fishing plantation at Cape Greep, Labrador. James and two of his crew were lost there 25 years ago while attempting to pull to the traps in a strong breeze of wind. This ill-fated expedition cast a gloom over the plantation and interrupted the fishing industry there. Capt. John was a high liner at the seal fishery, and was one of the late Capt. Wm. Jackson's picked men, and served as master watch with that famous seal killer. In the late seventies and early eighties the subject of our obituary sketch was a recognized leader in the social life of the community then and was one of the founders of the Temperance, Medical Aid and Agricultural Societies. In political life, too, he was a recognized leader of opinion, a strict Conservative and a hard fighter and hitter for his party. He leaves to lament his loss and to emulate his industry and other aspects of his character; six sons and one daughter; James and Patrick at home; Edmund, Police Constable, Trepasser; Rodger, Police Constable, Curling; Peter, Master Mariner, U.S.A.; and Cornelius, Professor, Dakota, and Mrs. Patrick Meyer, Chapel's Cove, with all of whom we sorrow and to all of whom we offer our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement. His funeral took place on Saturday morning from his late residence, North Arm, to the temporary church—the Star Hall, where Requiem Mass was said for the eternal repose of his soul, and when the funeral service had been recited over his bier the body was borne to the hearse in waiting by the pallbearers and the funeral cortege continued its route to Holy Cross Cemetery where the remains were interred beside those of his wife, Mary Quinlan, who predeceased him nine years ago. Jesus have mercy on their souls.

Saved by Hand Mirror.

London, Oct. 17.—A woman's handmirror was the means of saving fifty lives from the torpedoed liner Galway Castle. Among the survivors on a raft was a woman, who took from her handbag a small mirror, and suggested one of the sailors use it for making heliographic signals.
The attempt was made, and the signals brought up a destroyer at full speed, which took off the survivors from the raft, as well as a number of sailors clinging to wreckage.

Clergymen Prescribe Liquor.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Oct. 17.—The influenza epidemic shows signs of subsiding. There were but few new cases to-day and no deaths. Prohibition commissioners are allowing physicians who are free of more than one a vendor to act as vendors during the pleasure of the commission. Clergymen for the time being are permitted to issue prescriptions for vendors for the use of liquors for their parishioners.

For three years the little son of G. Remank, of Edenbridge, suffered with a bad attack of eczema, which everything failed to cure until they used Zam-Buk. The father, writing to the Zam-Buk Co., says:
"For three years my little son suffered with a severe attack of eczema, which many doctors pronounced incurable.
For two years the sores on his eyes and forehead were so bad that he was unable to see. We tried everything, but without any benefit and he was in a shocking condition when Rabbi Shalit recommended Zam-Buk.
This wonderful ointment has entirely cured my boy, and I cannot express my gratitude for his marvelous recovery." Zam-Buk is also unequalled for ringworm, scalp sores, salt rheum, old wounds, blood-poisoning, piles, burns, cuts, scalds, and all skin injuries. 5c. box,
