The Suez Canal

The Suez Canal, in which the British Government has a heavy investment in shares, has just reported the figures for 1924 which show that 25,109,882 tons passed through the canal in that year, a tonnage three times as large as for 1895, 25 per cent. above that for 1913 and over 10 per cent. above the tonnage for 1923. According to advices received by Bankers Trust Company of New York from its British Information Service, this record is looked upon as distinctly encouraging, especially as canal traffic is conducted with many regions of diverse character.

The largest trade was that with British India. Next comes trade with China and Japan, and then with the Strait Settlements and Australia and New Zealand. The predominance of British regions, especially India, is striking. It is also noted that three fifths of the trade through the canal last year was carried by British vessels, which carried 15 million tons, as compared with under 2½ million tons on Dutch ships, and a little over 1½ millions in German and 1¼ millions in French and Italian. Japan and the United States were responsible for under a million tons each.

Just fifty years ago, Disraeli displayed great foresight and keen business ability by purchasing from the extravagant Khedive of Egypt, Ismail, his shares in the Suez Canal. This purchase has proved not only a rich investment for Great Britain, but has enabled her to maintain effective control over the direct route to the Far East, and to exercise a predominating influence in the Mediterranean.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

August 6th.—Lay long and given little time for my breakfast, being that I needs must make haste to reach the office in time and have a long journey over the road. Indeed, if the country be a pleasant place in the evening, 'tis the worst possible in the morning since I must rise much earlier than is my wont. Do learn this day how the Imperial Parliamentary delegation will leave soon for Quebec and will not arrive in St. John's before the opening of the Corner Brook mills. Among other things this day the best news is of the Cape Breton coal strike, being that a settlement is arranged, and will be the best possible hearing for Conception Bay, seeing how so many men of that district will again find employment in Sydney as they did in other years. More cheerful news, too this day, of the fisheries, and seems how in all there is like to be a fine voyage, which is a thing to be thankful for. To the country this night and do sup, among other things, of some good strawberries, which I did not expect to have so late in the season.

Aluminum Manufacture Projected

It is reported that a project to manufacture aluminum at a point on the West Coast in proximity to the paper mills is now under negotiation. A large quantity of surplus power from the Humber Development, available at a very low rate, makes it possible to establish an industry of the above nature on a profitable basis, it is said. Should the project materialize the plant will give permanent employment to about five hundred people.

Rod and Gun

In addition to a full quota of unusually interesting stories and articles the August number of "Rod and Gun in Canada," the Canadian sportsman's magazine, contains a wealth of information for the outdoorsman, the fisherman and the gun crank in the regular articles and full synopsis of the hunting and fishing seasons and laws for the province of Canada and Newfoundland. It also includes the announcement of the annual amateur photographic contest in which $700 in prizes is being awarded.

Among the stories of sporting interest is "Basswood Lake to Windigo," an account of a canoe trip, which while it recounts the second part of the voyage, is a complete story, written in a swinging narrative. Slide-lights of Nipigon tells of trout fishing and is written by Ozark Ripley, who writes a rod even better than a very finished pen. Judge A. B. Cohn, of Toledo, O., is enthusiastic over Canada as a sportsman's paradise in recounting his moose hunting experiences at Temiskaming under the caption of "A Judge Goes Hunting." Other articles equally good contribute to make the issue a highly attractive one.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT HELD NO ALTERNATIVE IN COAL DISPUTE.

LONDON, Aug. 6. By a vote of 351 to 16 the House of Commons to-night approved of the Government's supplementary estimate of £10,000,000 as a subvention to the coal mining industry.

So great a triumph in its endeavor to settle the dispute which seemed a short while ago likely to culminate in a nationwide coal strike had not been expected by the Government, and although victory had seemed assured the debate in the House was less exciting than had been anticipated. Its outstanding feature was the fact that all the adverse critics of the subvention method of settling the dispute between the miners and the mine owners were fain to admit that under the unusual circumstances the Government had no alternative.

AN EXCITING WALRUS HUNT. WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 6.

A fight with a herd of walrus was described by Commander MacMillan, of the MacMillan Arctic Expedition, in a message received to-night by the National Geographic Society. Collins, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, related that in a walrus hunt yesterday three members of the party, crew in the Bowdoin boat, were attacked by an infuriated herd of at least 100 walrus. The kayak of the Eskimos in the hunt was capsize, but was rescued. The explorer reported weather still unsettled with visibility poor and a heavy overcast sky.

Great Sums Earned by Newspapers

With Britain in the throes of a general trade depression there is one business that holds up firmly, and that is the publication of some newspapers. The financial success of many of these publications—and these not among what we would call "outstanding newspapers"—is sufficient to make one's head swim. For instance, take the Rothermere group from the standpoint of earnings—and this is all that matters, for the Journals themselves are such as one cannot commend from any other standpoint.

According to the last annual statement Lord Rothermere's group earned as follows: The Associated Newspapers, Ltd., £917,000; "Daily Mirror," £269,000; "Sunday Pictorial," £244,000, or a grand total of upward of seven million dollars as the earnings for one year.

But this is not all; for one must add the profits of the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Co., which stands at £203,000 for the year; the Empire Paper Mills, Ltd., which showed a profit of £63,000, and the "Daily Sketch" and "Sunday Herald" with a profit of £160,000, or a grand total of precious near to nine million dollars. Certainly no one in England made so much money in any other industry with less effort.

At one time Lord Rothermere had under his ownership or control eight morning and evening newspapers with a circulation of half a million daily and six Sunday papers with an aggregate sale of five and one-half millions weekly. Lately he disposed of or "killed" a number of these Journals, contenting himself with the big money makers.

Unquestionably the wholesale ownership of newspapers—even those of the lower order such as Lord Rothermere possesses—is a public menace. Governments fear them, and rightly. When an individual can talk day after day to millions of people, the impress upon the public mind, and particularly the class of minds that would waste their money on Rothermere Journals, is such that the owner might turn a country upside down and inside out.

In the case of Rothermere, however, it would seem that he is out for money rather than power, for on occasion he has sidestepped the opportunity of purchasing a newspaper of the character of "The Times," which while a Journal of opinion, and incidentally one of the world's finest newspapers, does not yield large profits.

Youth Confesses Double Murder

Tells Detectives of Incidents Leading to Killing Women—Killed Benefactors—Lad of fifteen named as party to Shocking Crime.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 7.—A 21-year-old youth stood last night in the kitchen of the home where Helen and Georgianna Gillis, aged 80 and 77 respectively, had lived for 25 years, and with his terror-stricken voice hardly raised above a whisper, confessed that he and his 15-year-old brother-in-law had murdered the two sisters who had been like mothers to them. Acts of kindness and the promise to the younger boy that when they died they would leave their little estate to him, brought death to the elderly sisters on July 22nd.

Last night's confession, made within a few feet of the places where the bodies were found a week ago, told how the sisters had hired the boys to bring a supply of wood and how they piled the wood behind the stove, and then how each had seized a stick and clubbed their aged benefactors to death. The confession came from Louis Labomard, of Merrimack, and involved Charles Lafabvre, chore boy for the sisters, on whom they lavished their affection and what money they could spare from their meagre purses.

For three and half hours during the afternoon Labomard told the police the story of the crime. He took the officers into a field and showed them where he had disposed of the weapons.

Clever Insurance Swindler at Large

Chicago and Toledo police are looking for a man who is said to have swindled insurance companies and public utilities corporations in a number of American cities. This man has enjoyed himself with a pummeling machine which inflicts bruises upon his body whenever and wherever needed. These bruises have been produced as evidence and have enabled the swindler to collect damages in many cases where he has posed as a victim.

While in Toledo, it is said, he collected damages from an accident inurance concern, and both he and his wife were paid money in a settlement by the Community Traction Company. The man is alleged to have heard of a street car accident on Ashland Ave., to have hurried to the scene in a taxi, mingled with the crowd and acted the part of an injured man.

In Chicago he called the police department on the phone and asserted that lights were out in a certain building, thus getting it in the police record. Later he brought suit for damages sustained in falling in the darkened hallway, and the police report was produced as evidence that the hallway was dark as he charged in his suit.

He is reputed to be an artist in his line and has operated in Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City, Minneapolis and other cities.
