

A Specimen Brick from a Tory Journal.

"Flunkeydom is excited, and the Macdonnell street organ thereof calls upon its patrons to trot out their anti-swallow-tailed, because Lord Dufferin is going to pass through Guelph on his way to Brantford. Why all this feverish fuss? If he was going to pass through Brantford on his way to Guelph, or if Brantford were about to pass through—but hold! We have it. The Mercury and Mr. Stron are going to present His Excellency with a bundle of those insolent petitions which they carted through Puslinch and Erin last autumn, in which His Excellency is minutely instructed by these authorities as to the duties of his position, and requested to resign if he does not obey orders. What a beautiful sight to behold these boorish village Hampdens fawning and cringing before this bloated aristocrat."

If the Conservatives of this town and county have any regard for their loyalty, we should think they would indignantly repudiate and disown the disgraceful sentiments and epithets employed by that high-toned and supremely loyal Tory journal, the Guelph Herald, which we quote above, and which appeared in its issue of Saturday. It takes exception to our remarks in favour of a proper reception being given in Guelph on the approaching visit of the Governor-General, and considers them an evidence of the learning and cringing of the Reformers before "this bloated aristocrat," as it politely calls Her Majesty's representative in Canada. We fancy there is nothing inconsistent in the respect which the Reformers may show to the Governor on this occasion, and the position they took last summer on a great constitutional question, when they exercised the right which every free subject in this country has, of stating their views in a respectful manner, and making them known to His Excellency. This they did, and though Lord Dufferin chose to follow a different course, which they could not conscientiously approve, they did not heap on his head the abuse the Herald now does, but having adopted the constitutional mode of seeking redress, they were satisfied to leave the matter in his hands, and throw the responsibility on his shoulders. They believed that he was mistaken, but they never impugned his honesty or sincerity, and while they condemned his course they gave him credit for acting according to his convictions. This is their position, and while still holding to the belief that they were right, they can with equal honesty and sincerity participate in the welcome which he deserves at our hands, and which, spite the sneers of the Herald, all classes will join in extending to him.

But why this sudden change of front on the part of our Tory contemporary? In the old days when it fed at the public crib, and when the eminently loyal and gentlemanly party (self-styled) were in power, Lord Dufferin was a great man—an able statesman, a distinguished writer, an honor to the nobility, and a model Governor, who took an interest in our affairs, and made it his business to visit the country and learn everything he could in regard to our industries and our resources. Now, since the gentlemanly party of which the Herald affects to be the mouthpiece was hustled into the cold shades of opposition, he is at best but a "bloated aristocrat," and those who seek to do him honor are denounced as flunkeys. Verily, the Herald's loyalty is but lip-deep, or is its hatred of aristocrats in general, and of Lord Dufferin in particular constitutional and bred in the bone? An early answer is requested from its friends.

A remarkable case of resurrection is described by a contemporary. It occurred at Elgin, where the Tories began to howl with "the howl of the grey old Tory wolf of thirty years ago."

THE QUEBEC GOVERNMENT.—The Minerve publishes an editorial accusing Hon. Mr. Irvine of intriguing for the Premiership, and charging him (with the aid of English-speaking Conservatives, who regard French-Canadian Ministers with unfriendly eyes) with creating an excitement regarding the Tanneries' land exchange for this purpose. It maintains that the scandal is exploded, since it has been shown that no Minister is guilty of corruption, while the existence of a conspiracy against Quimet, Chapleau and Archambault is established. The Gazette flatly denies its allegation as infamous slanders, but joins with it in proclaiming that the community is filled with intrigues. The Minerve states that the friends of the Federal Government, to induce Irvine to resign, offered him a Judgeship, but the assertion is undoubtedly untrue.

REEL UNREPRESENTANT.—Last week Riel made a speech, at Worcester, Mass., to his friends, justifying the execution of Scott as a traitor, fanatic and mad man. The execution he said was unfortunate, but not more so than any other legal execution. He professes to entertain strong hopes of receiving an amnesty at an early date, through the influence of the French-Canadian deputies in the Federal Government. These are undoubtedly Riel's sentiments, and it is a great pity that he is allowed to go at large and boast of his murderous doings. We fancy if the law once laid hold of him, that it would soon undeceive him with regard to the necessity of Scott's murder. His hopes of an amnesty are but slender, for any Government which dare recommend such a step might as well resign at once.

The Dawson Road as Now Worked.

We extract the following from a letter written by Mr. A. J. Belch, late of the St. Mary's Argus, to the Stratford Beacon. Mr. Belch was one of the party who went over the Dawson Road early this season, who were delayed so long and were so badly used:—

I hasten to chronicle the fact that the party from Perth, headed by an M. P., passed over the Dawson Road in ten days, having rested upon the Sabbath, which made the eleventh upon the road; but had they not missed, by five minutes, a steam boat connection, they would have made the trip in eight days. This may sound like romancing to ears that wandered and waited from twenty-four to forty days in the earlier part of the season upon this road, but I assure "all sicks"—and your correspondent is one of them—that the statement is a solemn fact, illustrative of what the contractors, W. H. Carpenter & Co., can do when put to their best, and of what the much abused Dawson Road is capable of accomplishing in isolated cases. Of course a number of churlish travellers, who have been so long in making the trip, are found to assert that they, too, could make as good time with as much comfort, could they be accompanied along the route by the head engineer of the company, a special team, a special tent, furnished by the company, pitched at night and struck at noon by a company employe. In fact I have heard recently arrived emigrants refer to the party from Perth as an example of what the company ought to do for all the patrons of the Dawson Road.

The management is better at present than it has been during the season, and fewer complaints are heard. Passengers are now seldom delayed beyond fifteen days, and many make even better time. The road is better stocked with provisions, the employes are more attentive, careful and courteous, and altogether I think the representations made in reference to the management, at the beginning of the season, to the Government and to the Press, have had a most beneficial effect.

Notes from Ottawa.

On Friday the Premier telegraphed to Lieut. Governor Morris the text of an advertisement calling for tenders for the construction of the Pembina Branch of the Canada Pacific Railway, in order that no delay should occur in providing employment for settlers who have suffered from the grasshopper plague, and also that the probable tenders of the Manitoba contractors would have the same advantages as to time as others in other provinces.

The Government has taken the necessary steps to repair the buildings and fortifications of Quebec and Kingston.

The report of the Parliamentary Committee on the North-western troubles, is now in the hands of the printers, and will probably be ready for distribution in a fortnight.

Mr. Carpenter, contractor for the Dawson Road, went west on Friday night. It is estimated that his explanations to the Minister of Public Works effectually disposed of the charges made against him for mismanagement, and have been considered satisfactory.

GUELPH, Aug. 6, 1874. MERCHANT TAILORS

To the Public.

I take this opportunity to let my old friends and customers know that early this Fall I intend opening up one of the most extensive and varied stocks of Staple and Fancy Dry Goods to be seen in Ontario. I have had erected for my own special retail business a most complete arranged store, and from my long experience in the mercantile business, I feel and know that I will present for the inspection of my old patrons and others not only the most choice selection of Fancy Goods, but goods that will in reality be of such a character as to give to the purchaser the most entire satisfaction. The value will form one of the most important features of my establishment; the fact of going direct to the fountain head for my whole stock, and buying all for the ready money, and in addition having no old stock to palm off, is of itself a positive guarantee that my establishment will present inducements to the purchaser that none other in Guelph can approach. I earnestly request my old friends and customers to pay a visit to my establishment, when the old motto that I used for so many years to their advantage will again be adopted, viz: the best goods in the trade at the smallest possible profit. Good goods and cheap goods. One price and no abatement. No misrepresentations, and the interests of the public doing business with me strenuously watched. Yours truly, JOHN HOGG. Guelph, August 1st, 1874.
