URGES BAN ON IMMIGRATION FROM ORIENT

W. G. McQuarrie Paints Dark Picture of Conditions in West.

KING WOULD RESTRICT

Premier States Negotiations Already Opened With China.

OTTAWA, May 8.—(By Canadian Press.)—Afternoon and evening the House of Commons discussed a motion presented by W. G. McQuarrie (Conservative, New Westminster, B.C.), calling for the exclusion of Oriental immigration. For the most part members for British Columbia—where the Oriental question is most pressing—held the floor. They painted a dark picture of the penetration of the Orientals into the West. It was claimed, there was no cross to be borne without a murmur. This was no time for "pussy-footing." A white Canada must be preserved; and there was a danger that the Rockies would soon be the western boundary of the white race. Charges were made that the drug traffic of Chinese and Japanese. A. W. Neill (Independent, Comox-Alberni), spoke of Japan as a "yellow, alien, heathen Germany."

In the latter stages of the debate Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, premier, minister, expressed his strong belief in the restriction of Oriental immigration and intimated that the Dominion government had already opened negotiations with China with a view to the more effective restriction of Chinese immigration through a system of passports. He suggested that the resolution should call for the "effective restriction instead of exclusion" of Oriental immigration and in that form was ready to accept it. To this Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition, replied that this would merely mean passing a resolution in favor of a system which already existed.

Object of Resolution.

The object of the resolution was to prevent increase by direct immigration of an element in the population which was not only undesirable but dangerous to Canadian interests in regard to the Chinese, Canada had an open field, because there was no treaty with that country. Canada had consequently adopted a policy of restriction regarding the Chinese, but large numbers succeeded in entering the country as students or merchants. In 1915 which prohibited the entry of skilled and unskilled labor at certain British Columbia ports.

While Orientals were given liberties in Canada, Canadians in Japan were under many restrictions. Canadians could not hold land in Japan as individuals, nor could they own ships under the Japanese flag, nor engage in mining.

They were forbidden to hold shares in certain banks or railways, or to become members of chambers of commerce or financial exchanges. Unskilled Canadian laborers were not permitted to work outside certain restricted areas. Neither could Canadians lease land to engage in agricultural work.

Of the thousands of Japanese in Canada the great majority were in British Columbia. The Japanese birth rate was extremely high.

In 1910 the rate was one birth to every 252 white births, but in 1915 the rate had risen to one Japanese to every 29 white births.

Claims Problem National.

Mr. McQuarrie urged that most of the industries in British Columbia were rapidly being monopolized by Orientals. Ninety per cent of the garden truck grown was raised by them. They monopolized the fishing industry.

The problem had become a national one, having spread across the country as far east as Ontario. Mr. McQuarrie quoted resolutions passed by many organizations and by many public meetings, all strongly urging Oriental exclusion.

Drastic action was necessary. The Japanese treaty should be abrogated so far as Canada was concerned; the gentlemen's agreement should be cancelled; the immigration act should be amended so as to provide for expulsion.

Details would have to be worked out by the government. "It is a great national question, and the future prosperity of Canada is at stake," he concluded.

Alfred Stork (Liberal, Skeena) said the thirteen British Columbia members were unanimous on the resolution. The Oriental had become the very incarnation of commercial aggressiveness, and indifference on the part of Canadians was much to be blamed for the present state of affairs.

The Rocky Mountains would soon become the western boundary for the white population; at present there was no lure on the prairies for the Orientals, because farming on the prairies required brains and hard efforts. Orientals' much preferred the warm sun and the fertile valleys of British Columbia.

Parliament Has Remedy.

George Black (Conservative, Yukon) declared that the problem must be discussed without partisanship. The life blood of certain constituencies was being "sucked out" by Orientals. Countless young white men and women were being physically ruined by contact with Orientals. Under present conditions there was only one thing for white men to do, and that was to back up.

The remedy was in the hands of Parliament. The time had come to stop pussy-footing and to make the position clear before the world. It was said that if Orientals were excluded a trade boycott would ensue. It was better to lose the trade.

In British Columbia a large section of the country was already surrendered to the Orientals. Soon the rest of the east would be battling for their existence. The country must be relieved of such a scourge.

Mr. Black declared that naturalization was a farce to the Oriental. "The naturalized Jap remains a Jap and the Chinaman a Chin," he said. Brigadier-General J. H. Clark (Burford) submitted that the question was not a British Columbia, or even a Canadian question, but one that affected the white world. The white race could not assimilate the yellow races. At present the political control of the world was in the hands of the white races, but the last war was an illustration of how transient this control might be. The white races were faced with a declining birthrate as against an increasing birthrate in Japan. The Russo-Japanese war had taught the yellow races that even in war they were the equal of the whites. The Orientals were naturally directed to the western coasts of the United States, Canada and sections of South America. It was time for Canada to be firm, clear and definite in its declaration against Oriental immigration.

Would Appeal to Japanese.

C. H. Dickie (Conservative, Nanaimo) favored going to the Japanese "with cards face up on the table, telling them that this country could not afford to have any further Japanese immigration and that we could not compete with them industrially or agriculturally in our country."

The Japanese said Mr. Dickie, were an honorable people. He believed that if a big endeavoring man were sent over to meet their government and discuss the matter frankly there would be no difficulty in reaching an agreement which would be observed.

L. W. Humphrey (Progressive, Kootenay West) supported the resolution, and said the danger of Japanese immigration had only been realized in Eastern British Columbia a few years ago. This was a national responsibility and a national problem.

E. J. McMurray (Liberal, Winnipeg North), said he could support the resolution without abusing the Orientals. The Japanese were marked for their patriotism, and the Chinese for their integrity.

Thereupon, Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of immigration, moved that the resolution be amended in accordance with the premier's suggestion to "prohibit" the entry of certain classes, and suggested if there was objection to the term "exclusion," that the resolution might read "prohibit" Oriental immigration "for residential purposes."

Hon. T. A. Cregar, leader of the National Progressives, urged acceptance of the Stewart amendment.

The house at 1:25 a.m. divided on the Stewart amendment, the vote on which resulted as follows: For, 130; against, 26; a majority of 94 for the amendment. One Liberal, Alfred Stork (Skeena) voted against the government amendment, as also did five Progressives, Messrs. Lucas, Kellner, McBride, Humphrey and Lewis, and A. W. Neill (Independent, Comox-Alberni). The balance of the Progressives supported the government.

The house adjourned at 1:45 a.m.

Insist Antigonish Ghost Was Spirits Acting Up.

HALIFAX, May 8.—It was spirits acting up and not Mary Ellen playing ghost, insists Harold B. Whidden in a "statement of fact" just issued concerning his experiences at the haunted Macdonald homestead in Antigonish, Nova Scotia. Whidden is the Halifax Herald writer who discovered the ghost that set all America talking.

His statement, published in pamphlet form, exonerates the Macdonald family, "which means that the unfastening of the crows, the mysterious fires and my own strange experiences were caused by an unseen power—spirits." He thinks if Mary Ellen, the adopted daughter, in an abnormal psychic state was used as an instrument to set the fires she was not responsible for her acts.

Mr. Black declared that naturalization was a farce to the Oriental. "The naturalized Jap remains a Jap and the Chinaman a Chin," he said. Brigadier-General J. H. Clark (Burford) submitted that the question was not a British Columbia, or even a Canadian question, but one that affected the white world. The white race could not assimilate the yellow races. WANT POLICE PROTECTION

Claims United States Secret Service Men Attempted To Poison Him.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, May 7.—Harry Geer, who Thursday night appeared at the local police station, asking to be arrested as a vagrant, and who was warned to leave the city Friday morning by Chief William Armstrong, turned up at the county police court Saturday morning and demanded an audience with Crown Attorney Angus McCrimmon.

"What do you want hanging around here?" asked Constable Hopkins.

"I want an interview with the crown attorney," replied Geer very quietly. "I wish to press charges in the open court. I am classed as an undesirable under the welfare act and my life is in danger. I exposed the secret service over in the United States and they are trying to kill me now. They have attempted to poison me and have persecuted me on several occasions. I am entitled to police protection."

Constable Hopkins was unsympathetic.

"If you're not out of sight in fifteen minutes, you'll get police protection. You'll be sent to Burwash, where you will have to work," he told Geer.

"All right, that'll suit me," Geer replied. "but I won't work. They can kill me before I'll work in Burwash."

"Don't worry; if you get sent to Burwash and refuse to work, they'll kill you, all right," said Constable Hopkins, leaving Geer. Five minutes

Are You Through With Your Furs?

If your furs were destroyed by moth or fire, could you replace them for 2 per cent of their present value? You can, however, keep them safe through the danger period of hot weather, the open season for moths, for just that trifling sum, in our refrigerator storage vaults.

A MOTH IS SMARTER THAN A PAPER BAG. Even if it doesn't get into the bag it is smart enough to lay its eggs before you hang up your furs for the summer. These eggs incubate and the worms thrive on your furs.

Next winter many women will receive their furs from our vaults. You can be one of them.

For further particulars, inquire in the Fur Section or phone 4100. Storage rapidly filling up. Furs called for and delivered when needed.
