"Re-awh," the W.C.T.U. Fresh Air Camp Opens This Week At Springbank Park

Fourteen Children Bid Farewell To the Dread Heat of City Streets.

Across the new foot bridge just beyond the pump house at Spring-Then up a winding path on the farther bank of the river. And you're in the very midst of "Re-Awh," the W. C. T. U. Fresh Air Camp for children. The shacks and tens are snowywhite against the green background of the trees. There are two large dormitory shacks, with a kitchen and cook's shack just back of them. And in the center is the large, white dining tent, for the most part wide open to the cool breezes, which are continually blowing there on the river bank.

The camp is only just open for the season, and already there are 14 happy children enjoying the fun of out-door life, under the supervision of Mrs. Ida Harrison, social service secretary for the W. C. T. U., and her able season. able assistant, Miss Bessie Wolfe. Many of the little guests, who had been wilting down under the extreme heat of the city, are taking a renewed lease on life, after but a day or two of out-door-life, and promise to be well on the way to health again, with a two-weeks' sojourn at camp. A Visit to Camp.

A visit to the camp is a delightful experience. Perhaps you happen to arrive at dinner time. The children, 14 of them, are ranged around the long table covered with white oil-cloth. There is meat pie for dinner, and potatoes, and pickles, and bread and butter, and steam pudding with sauce, a truly sumptuous fare for the little campers, who are bent on better health and roses in their cheeks. The cook, Mrs. Munroe, moves about filling up each little plate with her good things.

Five of the children have been

Five of the children have been guests at the camp for three successive years, and are showing it in the splendid physique which camp life is building up for them.

The day consists chiefly of eating, playing about among the trees, and bathing or wading in the river. While the nights mean happy dreams in the airy dormitories, where rows and rows of cots stand side by side. Began Ten Years Ago.

The camp was instituted by the W. C. T. U. ten years ago, the first camp being merely a tent or atwo pitched up near the reservoir, on the top of the hill. That was in 1914. The next year, the tents were moved down to the present camp site. Then in 1916 the first shack was built. Since that time improvements have continued until the present splendid collection of buildings was completed last year. This year electric lights were added and before the season is over an addition is to be built to the eastern dormitory.

About forty or fifty children are About forty or fifty children are cared for during the summer, the majority of them staying at camp for from two to three weeks at a time. The party of children now at camp arrived on Wednesday, and will be joined by four more before the weeks out. ## LAMBETH METHODISTS HOLD GARDEN PARTY

Outdoor Function, Organized By Ladies' Aid and Epworth League, a Success.

Special to The Advertiser.

Lambeth, July 5.—One of the most uccessful garden parties held here for some years was that which took place on the spacious grounds of the Methodist Church on Wednesday evening The event was under the uspices of the Ladies' Aid Society and the Epworth League. Committees from both of these organizations worked indefatigably.

The program was an exceptionally fine one, the London Mixed Quartet proving excellent entertainers, while the Oneida Brass Band dispensed good music.

The committees in charge of the booths and platform deserve much credit for the illuminations and decorations.

The program provided by the Londonian Mixed Quartet was divided into three periods, the various numbers, many of which were presented in appropriate costumes, being well rendered and repeatedly Refreshments, consisting of ice cream, strawberries and cake, to-gether with soft drinks and fruits, were disposed of in abundance. A goodly sum was realized.

Youth wants the truth. The young people of today are deeply suspicious They have revolted against man-

Youth sees through the hypocricies

it a suggestion of our confusion con-cerning them. And of their own spite of the war's plain warning, material good is still the chiefest good sought.

When mother and father are dedi cated to a competitive struggle with their neighbors for the external symbols of success; when the average home contains so little provision for the privacy and silence in which a truer sense of values can grow and flower; when elders rival young people in the craving for amusements especially designed for thought-shy minds; when standrd-ized living has robbed youth of its chance for imagination and experimentation; when novelty is preferred to soundness and when display is rated higher than security and rest -what can we expect of our girls?
The paths of the flapper lies in her essential crystallinity. A crystal-linity which many are prone to mis-understand because it has nothing to do with ignorance, with reticence with subterfuge, with evasion young girls wish to be bad. All of them wish to be happy.

How are they to find happiness in world dedicated to harshness, to the trading of trivialities, to ruthless grabbing, to noise, to ostentation, to the measuring of life by the yard-stick of material success?

How except by seeking within themselves for the woman wisdom which will enable them to distinguish between the base and the noble, the ephemeral and the enduring qualies in themselves and in others? How except by seizing a few moments out of every hurrying day for slow and patient contemplation of the beauty waiting for them when they have stilled the clamor of incompatible desires?

The average flapper (typically flippant name for a future mother of the race) is sound at heart. If she will search within she will find there a safety zone of the spirit-a place where she can rest in dignity and quiet until she has gained strength to face life's stream of traffic.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never falls to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.—Advt.
