WYOMING ANGLICAN CHURCH CELEBRATES ITS SIXIETH YEAR

Interesting Paper Gives History of Edifice and the Surrounding District

Sunday last marked an important day in the history of the Anglican church, Wyoming, when its 60th anniversary was celebrated. Canon Collins, Sarnia, preached to a large congregation in the morning, from the text, "So much the more as ye seek the day approaching." In the evening Bishop Williams of London, gave a stirring sermon on the Anglican church; the unique virtues of Anglican communion, her stability, etc. He said her worship made for morality in religion. He gave a brief review of the history of the grand old church which still keeps marching on. Miss M. Cairns of Camlachie, sang very effectively "What of the There was also a quartette Day". There was also a quartette which sang during the service. On Monday evening a very delightful social time was spent. Bishop Williams gave an address, and J. B. Dale read an interesting paper on "The history of the Church in Wyoming." The members of the parochial society served a delicious supper in the Sun-

Church History

Mr. Dale's paper in part, was as follows: "In order that we may have some clear and definite idea of the circumstances under which our church came to be built 60 years ago it will be necessary, as well as more interesting perhaps, to say something regarding the surroundings and conditions which prevailed in this locality at that tme.

"In 1859 the railway from Komoko to Sarnia was completed and a stopping place for trains at Wyoming was arranged for. The thick woods and the swampy nature of the lands which surrounded it would have prevented anyone from choosing a residence here at that time, and it was altogether on account of the newly discovered oil territory at Oil Springs that Wyoming became a prominent feature upon the map of Lambton county.

Traffic Centre

All the products of Oil Springs as well as the supplies needed there had of necessity to pass through Wyoming, and all passenger traffic between the two places was also carried on by means of buggy and stage coach. Oil Springs was, at the time spoken of, producing some 3.000 to 5.000 harrels of crude oil a day and, as there was no possible way of getting it to market except by teaming it in bar-Wyoming ment to a very large number of men and horses.

In addition to this there was 5 oil refineries in active operation in Wyoming, a foundry and machine shop, wagon works, at least five cooperages where oil barrels were manufactured and repaired, a saw mill, grist mill and a woolen factory; the farmers could have their wool carded and spun for home-made clothing.

It will therefore be readily seen that the population of Wyoming at that time was as great if not greater than at any subsequent date.

'In 1863, the site on which our church buildings now stand, was given by Wm. Spencer, Esq., of London Ont., who at that time owned all the unsold portions of the village plot, which he purchased from the original proprietors, Messrs. McKay and Robertson.

"A contract was let for the building of the church and by the end of the year 1863 it was comparatively finished. But before the pews were put in their places, a grand banquet to commemorate the event, was arranged for, and on the first day of January, 1864, the church was filledoverflowing with a happy and excited throng.
