

Ikey stood staring blindly after Old Man's retreating form as long as it was in sight; then went back to the hut, and sat down by his desolate hearth. The night was very grey.

THE END.