

The members of the Commercial Graduating Class have not informed us of their whereabouts. We have learned however that Messrs. Belliveau and Gobeil have secured good positions in business firms.

We welcome back to our midst the Revs. Brothers McKenna and Madden who have spent some time already in our college.

Students of the olden days will learn with pleasure of the well merited honor conferred on Doctor D. Phelan of Kingston, by the Dominion Government, in his nomination to the important post of physician to the provincial penitentiary at Kingston. Dr. Phelan's appointment called forth congratulations from every quarter, and was as popular as it was well deserved.

The recent alumni dinner in New York brought together a large number of old Ottawa College students. The readers of The Owl will be interested in knowing something of their whereabouts. The Rev. Owen Clarke is curate at Orange Valley N.J.; the Rev. T. Donavan at Morristown N.J.; the Rev. J. Breheny at St. Jerome's Church New York; the Rev. N. Mulcaly at St. Lucy's Church New York; the Rev. C. Gibney at Deveboise Place, Brooklyn. W. A. Herckenrath is one of the assistant city engineers of New York; and his brother Louis is a prominent real estate agent. J. Cushing is in the New York city Post Office and his brother Charles is a traveling salesman. George Murphy occupies a responsible position in the National Bank of the Republic, Wall St.; his brother Joseph is a most successful salesman for the goods manufacturer by the New York Protectory. Tom McTiernan still has his headquarters at the Union Club. Dr

Charles Mitchell is a homeopathist with his office on 5th Avenue. W. Wall is a telegraph operator in a stock exchange on Broadway. Dr George Smith heals the sick on the West Side, and Dr W. J. Spellman performs a similar charitable work for the people of Brooklyn. Charles O'Hara is a civil engineer in Brooklyn. L. Paladeau is book-keeper for the Henderson Seed Company in Jersey City. Dr R. J. Ivers is established in Brigeport Conn. G. W. Wallace is practicing law in New York, and Joseph Devlin is a professor at De La Salle Institute.

We were greatly pleased, to say the very least, to see a former editor and staunch friend of THE OWL, in the person of the Rev. M. F. Fitzpatrick, now curate at the Peterboro Cathedral. This is the first visit paid by the rev. gentleman since his ordination, and as some one remarked, it brought back old memories to see him send the football soaring in the air with his old time drop-kick. We wish him continued success and prosperity.

At Osgoode Hall the following gentlemen, all Bachelors of Arts from Ottawa, passed their final examinations and were called to the bar of Ontario: J. H. Vincent, '93; L. J. Kehoe, '93; Joseph McDougall, '93, and John R. O'Connor, '92. THE OWL predicts a brilliant future for all these gentlemen, and is sure that they will be the leading lights of the bar in Ontario.

Same old "Dan" is Mr. Daniel McGale, '00, who paid us a short but welcome visit a few days ago. He is going to Montreal, there to accept a lucrative position in a pharmacy. Any college student will always be warmly received by Dan, and he invites all to call upon him.
