

NEW NOVELS.

SONS OF THE MORNING

By EDEN PHILLPOTTS.
Cloth, $1.50. Paper, 75c.

The Academy says, "This is such a full-blooded story of the West Country as was to be expected from the author of The Children of the Mist." Of the latter, R. D. Blackmore said, "I was simply astonished by the beauty and power of this novel."

ROBERT ORANGE

By JOHN OLIVER HOBBS.
Cloth, $1.25. Paper, 75c.

"This is the worst book I have read for many months."
Herbert Tourtel in Sunday Sun
"A most entertaining book."—The Speaker.
"It is always the opposite of commonplace."—The Londoner.
"Its comedy is alive with brilliant observation of character."
—Pall Mall Gazette.

WINEFRED—Illustrated

By R. S. BARING-GOULD.
Cloth, $1.25. Paper, 75c.

A story of the chalk cliffs of Devonshire, and also of aristocratic London circles. The Athenaeum says, "Many incidents diversify this lively book. The rendering of the chalk cliffs and the tragic fate of the ferryman is a fine piece of description."

THE GIRL AT THE HALF-WAY HOUSE

By E. HOUGH.
Cloth, $1.25. Paper, 75c.

"A series of pictures of the West as it was in the days of the buffalo, the cattle trail, and the building of the railroads. * * * He brings to its description a profound affection for all its aspects, * * * its virtues and its shortcomings."—Book News.

THE GATELESS BARRIER

By LUCAS MALET.
Cloth, $1.25. Paper, 75c.

The eldest daughter of Charles Kingsley has a great command of English. The plan of the story follows the line of speculation. The Athenaeum says, "The action of the story occurs in part in the mysterious borderland of soul and spirit. * * * There is some brisk human byplay."

THE MANDARIN—Illustrated

By CARLTON DAWE.
Cloth, $1.00. Paper, 50c.

An exceedingly racy tale, the plot hingeing upon the passion of a Chinese Mandarin for a bright English girl, the daughter of a missionary. The author is thoroughly familiar with the East. "Those who are fond of adventures and have a craving for hair-breadth escapes will find congenial reading."—The Athenaeum.
