SPEECH FROM THE THRONE

CONTINUATION OF DEBATE ON ADDRESS IN REPLY

The House resumed, from Thursday, October 15, consideration of the motion of Mr. Jacques-L. Trudel, for an address to His Excellency the Governor General in reply to his speech at the opening of the session.

Mr. S. Perry Ryan (Spadina): Mr. Speaker, may I congratulate the mover (Mr. Trudel) and seconder (Mr. Douglas, Assiniboia) of the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne. They have been signally honoured by being chosen for their role in this debate and they have acquitted themselves well and deserve the commendations of this House and of their constituents. May I also compliment the hon, member for Fort William (Mr. Badanai) who spoke so well on Wednesday, not for the manner in which he felt he had to eulogize the Speech from the Throne but for his excellent remarks on the subjects of anti-Americanism and immigration.

This country is in a mess. It promises to become worse rather than better. Dreaminess, softness, inaction and then over-reaction have replaced practicality and common sense. As a result there is social unrest in this country. The financial and fiscal affairs have been mismanaged and the government's ivory tower misconcep-
