

"CLEON" A POEM
OF DECEADENCE

Browning's Philosopher Lived in the Late Afternoon of a Mighty Age.

AIM NOT AT PLEASURE

Says Edward Griggs, Interpreting Browning—Lectures on "Pippa Passes."

In Browning's poem, "Cleon," the philosophy of Epicureanism or Hedonism is presented in a great personality, and the extent indicated to which that philosophy falls short in the practice of life, said Edward Griggs in his lecture in Browning series Thursday night. He did not quite agree with the pragmatists in their view that they had the only truth, but the livability of truth was one evidence, he admitted, and Browning used the test upon the Epicurean philosophy of pleasure and the Stoic philosophy of duty. He said that the picture of Greek-Roman life in his decline was drawn by Mr. Griggs as he presented the Epicurean and the Stoic philosophies and problems are the same.

Neither of them, he said, had the grip on life, the emotional appeal necessary for a world-conquering religion. They were the refuge of an unsatisfied people.
The present time presented a parallel to the cosmopolitan Hellenistic period, so that the people of this civilization are as brothers to those, and tendencies and problems are the same.

But one great distinction was that that period was in its late afternoon, while the present is in its morning. They were in a time of decline, while we are in a time of transition, and we do not have the impulses of the past, but we have the impulses of the future.

A remedy at hand. The poem of "Cleon" was the story that had been known the philosophy of his own nation as expressed in the Greek poet. After reading the poem, Mr. Griggs said the context of the poem is that Paul took the lines "In him we live and move and have our being," and showed that in our own day, we have had overlooked and failed to live up to ideals present with them.

Great men are not overhauled by the past or fettered by its traditions, and they feel free to take the world without the precedents already set.
Constructing their action. They could realize their spiritual nature and be more than those who are bound to the social conventions and their pandering to the sensuous nature.

Pleasure Not An End.
The pursuit of pleasure did not give satisfaction and did not lead to the end in itself of the spiritual nature of man. Man alone, with his self-consciousness, his power of anticipating progress, could fall just because of this self-consciousness. If the aim of life was comfortable then self-consciousness was a mistake.

Money spent on pleasure, Mr. Griggs pointed out, could only increase the experiences of sensation up to a certain point. Double the number of pleasures the variety of pleasures eaten; but soon the appetite is jaded. One can only occupy himself with the pleasures of the mind, and more than three houses on different estates. Beyond that the pleasure of moving from one to another counterbalanced the pleasure of having them.
The profound melancholy of thoughtful men, he thought, was due to the pursuit of pleasure, and the pursuit of pleasure was a mistake.

Could any answer be given to Cleon's dilemma, but, Mr. Griggs said, he could decide in what terms to frame his own life. Putting aside the social contingencies what gave rationality to life must be forever. George Eliot in her novels, he said, was not so much a question of the relative, but the absolute pursuit of pleasure. The first part of Browning's poem, he thought, was the masterstroke of his work, and deals with the youth of genius, and the
idea it introduces the whole range of the ideas Browning taught.

SIR WM. VAN HORNE ON DOMINION STEEL

Sir William Van Horne, vice-president of the Dominion Steel Corporation, does not look with any degree of uneasiness on the recent drop in the price of iron, which he attributes to the efforts of certain manufacturers, who are endeavoring to secure some cheap steel.

Sir William in discussing the steel situation, would not go into the question of whether or not the company would pass their dividend; but he offered some good advice to those who were really frightened, recommending that they put their money in savings banks.

Sir William said: "I cannot propose any saving to the subscribers of dividends. That is always a question for the directors to consider when the time comes but with good sales and increasing profits nothing bad is likely to occur."

"I know little of the ups and downs of the stock market, but I understand the advantage of the Dominion Steel Corporation is that it is a company in an attempt to stampede the smaller stockholders, so that the manipulators may get some cheap stock. People who are easily scared by such things should put their money into savings banks."

INSURANCE CHECK ON WHITE PLAGUE

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—(Can. Press.)— The effect of insurance in the campaign against consumption was the subject of an interesting discussion during the morning session of the International tuberculosis congress, at which 22 nations are represented.
The reduction of mortality from this disease by training patients in special sanatoriums, the improving of housing conditions and the education either by government or private enterprise of the people to the danger of infection were all exhaustively dealt with.

Dr. Kaufmann, in his report, declared that 82 per cent. of the patients in sanatoriums in 1912 showed such improvement that invalidity in their cases was not to be feared. Of the patients successfully treated in these sanatoriums in 1907, fewer than 57 per cent. were at the end of 1912, still capable of earning their living.

The speakers generally at today's session urged that early diagnosis was the best time to fight consumption and to prevent its spread.

WHISKEY STORED IN WATER BUTT

Gowganda Man Had Large
Supply on Hand for Sale.

CONSTABLE ON WATCH

Stood All Night Until Owner Needed a Bottle of
"Water."

Isaac Abraham Cohen of Gowganda, is one of those blind-pickers who adopt ingenious ruses to smuggle in the spirits and retail them at a profit. He is a man who is willing to buy and sell no questions. A growing suspicion of a large amount of liquor being disposed of in that centre resulted in his arrest this week after considerable investigation.
During the visit of Chief of Provincial Police Rogers last week, it was thought that Cohen had something to do with it, and Constable Stoddard was detailed to watch his house. For an entire night the constable stood about the place, with nothing to show, and was about giving up when the proprietor walked forth apparently to bring in the water for the day. He brought it from a rain barrel, in a whiskey bottle. Before he reached the house the constable stopped him and examined what he carried, as well as the contents of the water-butt. The bottle was one of many containing a well-known brand of liquor, and his arrest was effected at once.
He will appear before the magistrate this week for trial.

GOVERNOR GLYNN
TO REVEAL CRAFT

Investigations Started by Hennessy Will Go on, He Assures.

ALBANY, Oct. 24.—(Can. Press.)— Several investigations begun by John A. Hennessy, an inquirer in the employ of Gov. Sulzer, will be continued under the new administration, Gov.
Glynn declared today.

"It is my intention," the governor said, "to continue to completion every investigation which appeared to disclose that anyone had a dollar of the state's money which he had no right to have, either because he produced it improperly or for any other reason.
The enquiries will be conducted in a legal manner, quietly and without os-tension or newspaper display and solely for the purpose of ascertaining the facts and procuring legal evidence."
"Wherever the facts warrant it, the
appetite is jaded. One can only occupy
himself with the pleasures of the mind,
ent estates. Beyond that the pleasure
terbalanced the pleasure of having them.
The profound melancholy of thoughtful
pursuit of pleasure was a mistake."

Gov. Glynn said the fact that he had been in communication with Hennessy regarding some of the charges now being made public by him. Hennessy had offered to furnish the state with information in his possession and the government accepted the offer, requesting that all documents and papers in his possession be forwarded immediately.
A letter from Mr. Hennessy followed and the governor replied to it. Mr.
Hennessy had requested for all proofs and statements of facts in Hennessy's possession.

Certain engineers who assisted Hennessy in his investigations probably will be called on to make written reports of the information they have secured. Hennessy has been made by the governor in a communication to Hennessy.

SERIES OF LECTURES ON WORLD HISTORY

Running Thruout University Session, Are Free to the Public.

Free lectures in world history are given in the biological building of the University of Toronto at 5 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday throughout the session of the university. The Monday and Wednesday lectures constitute the first series, and Tuesday and Thursday another series.

The first course mentioned deals with anthropology and the general history of man, and the second course is exposed to the staff of the University of Toronto, who are competent to deal with it, and the lectures are prepared with a non-technical audience in view.

The second course of lectures deals with the history of art, including sculpture, painting and architecture. These are very fully illustrated with lantern slides. In this way one has an opportunity to see reproductions of practically all the finest art of Europe. In this placing before the public of Toronto two extended series of lectures, which change their subject matter, is expressing its general attitude to those who may be interested in education.
To reach the lecture room most conveniently, those taking the street cars should get off at University avenue.
The biological building is the first university building on the west side of Queen's Park.

NEGRO QUESTION
CAUSES DEADLOCK

House of Bishops Favors Plan Rejected by House of Deputies.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(Can. Press.)— A deadlock between the house of bishops and the house of deputies, the governing bodies of the Protestant Episcopal Church, was brought about at the general convention today, when the bishops voted to establish a separate bishopric for negroes in the south. The bishop of this district has a seat in the upper house. The house of deputies a few days ago rejected this plan and asked the bishops to refer the matter to a joint commission, which would report at the next triennial convention.

The houses having reached divergent conclusions in what is regarded as one of the most important problems that has ever come before the present convention, one of the two bodies is expected to withdraw its vote and concur in the action of the other. The bishops have asked the deputies to do this. The lower house will consider the matter probably tomorrow.

DUBLIN, Oct. 24.—(Can. Press.)—The hostility to the scheme to provide homes in England for the children of Dublin transport workers who have been on strike since September is increasing. A crowd, among which were several clergymen, tonight boarded a train as it was about to leave the station here, and took from it eleven children who were being taken away. Later seven other children were prevented from departing by another train.

WILL STAND BY ITS DECISION

Department of Education
Shows That Its Position
Was Firm.

The Ontario department of education is standing by its decision to remove the separate school grants from Ottawa as the penalty to their refusal to carry out the regulations. To make it plain that their position was firm until the statutes were lived up to, Hon. Dr. Egan issued last evening the copies of the letters which had passed upon the matter.

The ministerial letter refers to the fact that the board had evidently decided that the schools under its charge should not obey the law and accordingly no grants were due for the current fiscal year. It is further pointed out that the trustees of even separate schools are personally responsible for the amount of any school money forfeited or lost to the board in consequence of their neglect of duty.

The letter from the board explains their action as due to the lack of any government change of legislation. It states that the board was compelled to define "enforcing" the instructions contained therein.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN RIVER

The body of a woman, believed to be the wife of a farmer living near Yorkton, who has been missing for ten days, was found in the Nation river, close to her home. The woman is supposed to have committed suicide while temporarily insane, as she had been acting strangely of late. The coroner of the district did not consider an inquest necessary.
