DON VIADUCT.

The Globe and The Evening Sta are the chief opponents of the Bloor-street viaduct. The Star, from an early attitude of complete opposition, now joins The Globe in a desire for stponement of the improvement. The Globe opposes the viaduct because some farm property five miles distant from the viaduct might reap some advantage. There are thousands of acres in the city limits that would be benefited not only across the Don but west of it, and the whole of the city territory north of Bloor-street will be improved by the existence of the new thorofare. West Toronto will share the benefit by having a thru road from west to east, the only thru road between the Humber and Scarboro.

The increase in the value of assessed property across the Don will pay for the cost of the improvement in a short time. The increase in the value of land directly owned by the city will be sufficient to cover almost the whole cost of the construction. The city's six hundred feet frontage at Mr. Foy is making it too cheap. the head of Broadview-avenue on Danforth, and the city's nineteen acres on Logan-avenue, south of Danforthavenue, are more to be considered in England, the result of the Novemthan the public good.

This the ardor of the opposition extremists under the plea that improvements who have been requiring Mr. Balfour ought to be paid for out of local to force the fighting. rates. This argument was not used against the King and the Queen and the Lansdowne street subways, which are strictly local improvements. But it Can Be Done Advantageously for the Don viaduct has incurred the hostility of The Globe and The Star, and any old argument seems good papers to enlist opposition. AFTER THE CONFERENCE.

Mr. Balfour is reported to have authorized the statement that during the conference, now closed without agreement, nothing was discussed other than the constitutional issue created by the proposal to limit the veto power of the house of lords. If this is correct, then the rumors concerning the formulation will allow the difference, over 25 cents, of a system of legislatures with devolved powers for the component parts of the United Kingdom, as a preliminary to the reconstitution of the empire on federal lines, have been baseless. Confined to the original question for which it was convened to consider, the stone of stumbling is understood joint committee representing lords and | will commons to whom would be committed | Trundell & Tobey. the task of adjusting differences between these two estates of the realm. Thus the British constitution is again thrown into the melting pot and the parties realign themselves on the same battle ground they occupied when King Edward's death temporarily stilled the storm of combat. The point of interest is whether after the truce the flame can be rekindled to the height Blood Bitters It had attained. Things have happened on both sides that may well call for at least a further pause. The relations between the Liberal and Labor parties have been disturbed by the Osborne judgment, which declared villegal the practice of employing trades union funds for parliamentary purposes, and the demand the unions have made for an amendment of the law. This demand is not palatable to many good and true Liberals, and the problem presented to the government is difficult from any point of view. On the other hand, the electoral position is not so favorable to the Unionists as wonderful cleansing, purifying powers on it looked earlier in the year, and all the blood, and its renovating action on indications point to another indeter- the system, viz., Salt Rheum, Tetter, dications point to another indeter-linate verdict should there be another Burning Rashes, Ulcers, Sores, etc. al to the popular vote.

THE CHRISTMAS GLOBE

Fourteenth Year in Present Form.

A publication that is developing the talents of our Canadian story writers, artists, lithographers, engravers, printers and papermakers.

What Lord Strathcona said: "It is a splendid production, and worthy of the highest praise, more par-ticularly as it is wholly Canadian."

Our Joyous Winter.

Our visiting cousins from the south describe Canada in the summer time as one immense panorama of picturesque scenery and a boundless play-ground. Their experience while here undoubtedly jutsifies this enthusiastic description. Their knowledge of this country's capacity for supplying opportunities for real pleasure is not complete, however, until they spend some time here during the winter, the most joyous season of all.

The front cover and several pages of illustrations and reading matter of The Christmas Globe for 1910 will give the world some idea of the pleas-ure afforded by outdoor winter sports, and the supplementary plate, "Christmas Eve," will call to mind the family reunions and social gatherings made possible by the long evenings.

Plaintiff, who came of age in May, 1908, alleges that her right foot has been amputated as a result of such injurity

I may say also that it would not be easy to refer the serious injury which plaintiff complains of (involving the amputation of a foot) to this accident. Plaintiff offered no medical testimony, and Dr. Neff, who she says attended her after the accident, but who failed to recognize her at the trial, being called as a witness for the defence, says it is not probable.
