Note and Comment

The sudden drop in the temperature has again brought joy to the hearts of the curlers, even if they are getting closer to the season's end of it. December has been spent on the ice pure and simple, everyone enjoying himself to the limit. Even the club matches savor none of the heat after junk.

To-day the Grizzlies will play down to the semi-final for the president's medals while at Queen City they are curling for the Flavelle Cup. At Toronto, Prospect, Lakeside and Parkdale this will also be a busy Saturday.

While the wrestling at Riverdale has suffered mild criticism, it can be said truthfully that the show was the best exhibition of the mat game probably ever given in Toronto and apparently on the level, the Hackenschmidt consumed more time in disposing of Yankee Rogers than on the occasion of a former meeting. The price was open to honest criticism was to take down by to $100, and that the show was according to the official press notices.

As a matter of fact the managers came to town as a troupe, and likely would have drawn just as big a house by billing it as Black's show of up-tight quartet, and the crowd did not need to bet for excitement.

So far so good, but next time a couple of artists are likely to be the attraction in an amateur show. They will know all about the result before the season gets up and that's when the unwise will get caught. Moreover some man experts will tell you that a bout is more interesting than the real article.

At last here comes the white man's Hart. In Twin Hills he was a wreck after his three-round fight with Carl Morris of Sapulpa, Okla. He stood on broken ribs, has a fleshy kidney and a stiff back. Hart says that the man does not live who can stand before Morris' blows.

"I can whip this fellow Johnson—whip him sure. I'm not yet on the engine again—just that goes. Just watch me." Extract from a speech made the afternoon of July 4 by Carl Morris of Oklahoma. Part of this promise Morris has kept. He hasn't met down all comers at a rate that satisfies him, but gives consideration to the real promise of a crack at the famous black holder of the tide.

Morris was moved to this statement on the holiday when he stopped off his engine at Sapulpa, and stood listening to the roar of the steam as the train came through the town and were rung by the telegraph operator to the natives standing near the railroad station. The giant started off fast enough. He won five fights in a hurry and made his way straight by trimming Marvin Hart, the toughsville plumber-detective, who once was champion in the technical sense.

Morris is a fresh engineer who was on the Elco Road and had a run that made him well known around Oklahoma City. Then he came to Sapulpa, the fighting centre of that territory at present time. He is 6 feet 7 inches in height, and at the present time is in excellent condition, ready with little flesh to take off scales 235 pounds. His father is an American and his mother of German extraction. Carl Morris is his right name, he is 40 years old, unmarried and never had a bad habit or what might be called bad in athletic sense. So with that as a basis for a fighting career he started out.

Morris didn't conceive the idea of being a ring master. Jack Johnson put it all over Jim Jeffries, and he figured that with all natural qualifications his favor he would take a shy at the sport, and see what he could do.
