Probability That Close Vote To-Day Will at Least Favor a Referendum to the Electors in January Next.

MANY RESOLUTIONS PASSED TO INFLUENCE COUNCIL

The feeling that Ald. Hales' motion to cut off forty hotel liquor licenses is an evidence of undue fervor in the cause of "pure and sparkling water" appears to have made strong headway among members of the city council, even among certain of proved loyalty to the temperance banner. While there is no gainsaying the fact that a majority of the controllers and aldermen are blueribboners, there is an unmistakable sentiment that the vote of the people two years ago is not to be disregarded lightly, and latest inside indica- tavern licenses to be issued shall not tions point to the defeat of the movement in its present form by a small and ten in any one year. margin, when the issue is voted upon this afternoon.

Ald. Lytle says he will move in amendment that the execution of any license reduction bylaw be made subject to the approval of the electorate next January, and it is believed that a number of aldermen will not find it incompatible with their temperance principles to vote for it.

Citiens' Committee to Protest. A citizens' committee headed by A. Boswell, chairman of the committee which fought license reduction two years ago, will wait on the council at the meeting to-day, along with a committee representing the liquor trade, to urge the absolute ridiculousness of the reduction of licenses question.

They will claim, in the first place, that the vote of two years ago was a of weak mind, trudged into East Tothat the vote of two years ago was a final one, that hundreds of thousands of dollars had been spent to improve the present system on the ground that the vote was final, and, further, that the question was not an issue in the recent municipal election, and hence there would be no reason for the council vafterwards and about 50, and Boer majority in the Transvaal has been actuated by a desire to embroil the home government in India, with what ultimate object is not suggested. zens.

Rev. Father Minehan, whose views in opposition to the proposed action have been made clear in a strongly-worded letter, said last night that he would be prepared to join any body of disinterested public citizens who might wait on council to urge objection.

Aldermen Don't Like It.

It is an open secret that Ald. Hales' motion is by no means a welcome on to an overwhelmingly large majority of the council. It is regarded as a means of bringing on a peculiarly on-fortunate situation. The members Board Ship. must vote either one way or the other. In voting to support it, they must sacrifice the principle that the people must rule, and deliberately override the decision given by five of the ix wards of the city. In declaring against it they must be ready to brave the extremist opinion, and be looked upon in certain active quarters as, at least, only lukewarm friends of the cause. Several members frankly admitted to The World last night that while they thought themselves in duty bound to back up any temperance measure, not think that the people would be dealt with fairly and square ly if the motion passed, and that they personally would never have initiated move. It was also intimated that their attitude was not unalterable.

The Line Up. The members who have come out in flat opposition are: Controller Ward, Ald. Saunderson, Chisholm, Stewart, Ald. Saunderson, Chisholm, Stewart, had been smoking on the quiet in Church, McBride, Lytle, McMurrich, their staterooms, as soon as they saw Whytock and McGhie, Ald. Adams and Ald. Foster, while no friends of the liquor interest, have refused, so it is learned, to be whipped into line as straight supporters, believing that action outlined would be arbitrary

Should they stick to their attitude there will be a line-up of 11 for the motion and 12 opposed, even conceding several doubtful votes to the Ald.

Says It Isn't Fair.

A prominent temperance man, who desired his name withheld, informed the World candidly that he considered the anti-liquor organization in Toronto was guilty of a breach of trust with the people. He said that at a was also badly burned about the face conference held soon after the civic elections of a year ago the circum- man, escaped stance that there was a temperance majority in the city council was carefully considered, but it was decided that it would be unfair to ask them to use their power; as the issue of license reduction had had no part in contest.

The minister of instruction had sent her on several occasions recently considerable contributions which had been subscribed for her aid.

Louise de la Ramee, known to the English reading world by her pen name, Ouida, a childish pronunciation of her own Christian name, was born at Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk, England, in 1840. Her father was English, her mother French. Her early life is shrouded in a mystery which has given opportunity for the wildest imaginative work on the part of pseudo biographers, the favorite idea being that she knocked about England and the continent with her sc newhat dissolute father. This theory is usually given in explanation of her knowledge of boisterous life—a knowledge which caused the public to surmise that her first books were written mise that her first books were written by a man with an at least questionable

At any rate, her father and mother separated when she was an infant, and she herself said that she never had any childhood or girlhood. One attempt was made by Ouida's American publisher, the late J. B. Lippincott, to learn from the novelist herself how she came to know so much of the seamy side of life. Her smiling answer, "It's none of your husiness." closed the attempt In your business, closed the attempt. In the light of her books the story that she
