"ROLLING STONES" NEXT WEEK

Next Monday evening at the Alexandra Theatre will inaugurate the ninth capacity week of the Poline Players summer engagement. Edward H. Robbins, has obtained "Rolling Stones," the newest play from the hand of Edgar Selwyn, author of "The Country Boy," and "Nearly Dead."

The story has to do with two young men out in Chicago. Both have spent their last penny and are tramped and searching for days looking for jobs to do. So one decides to end it all by jumping into the Chicago River, while the other decides to go out and sell up someone to wrest from him the living he believes due him. The two meet on the bridge, and the would-be holder of the bridge, who is the suicide, attempts to rob the other. The humor of the thing strikes them both at the same time and they laughingly form a partnership and determine that they will succeed. The manner in which they do so, and win the love of two charming girls forms the plot of this fascinating play.

"MASCOT" AT GRAND.

One of the oldest of the popular operettas is "The Mascot," which will be given an elaborate revival by the Grand Opera House next week, opening on Tuesday evening. "The Mascot," translated from Edmund Audran's famous "La Mascotte," was first produced in America by the Grayson-Norcross Comic Opera Company at the Grand Theatre, Boston, in April, 1881, and it remained one of the leading productions of all the prominent singing organizations for years. Among the songs are "Legend of the Mascot," "When I Behold," "Seltarville," "Wise Men in All Ages," "Near the Goal," and the "Orange-Outang," and "Drinking" songs. The scenes of the opera are laid in sunny Southern Italy in the fifteenth century, and the story is woven around the love affairs of two peasants, whose marriage has been interrupted by the crown prince of the kingdom.

The usual scale of popular prices will prevail with the Wednesday and Saturday matinees, at 25 cents and 50 cents.

HIPPODROME.

"Bobby Heath's Song Revue of 1916," a miniature musical comedy that embraces the best of the season's song successes, pleasing dancing features, bright, clean comedy and clever instrumental selection of the Hippodrome next week. "The Waits," a new Triangle feature, with Jane Grey and William Desmond in the starring roles, is billed as the special feature film. Martin and Maximalian have made millions laughing with their funny burlesque of musicals. Illusionists and strong men, while Major Doyle, the Millipedian monologist, has some clever material. Sketch, entitled, "The Pumpkin Girl," while the comedienne, Gertrude Long, has a pleasing, voice of surprise, and a comedy, entitled, "Connelly and Dunbar in eccentric songs and dances, with feature film comedies, complete a right bill.

LOEW'S YONGE ST. THEATRE.

"The Boarding School Girls," a rollicking musical comedy, will be the big feature at Loew's next week. "Tony," Allen, a comedienne of unusual ability, furnishes most of the comedy, which is fast and furious from the rise to the fall of the curtain. Aside from the funmaking, singing and dancing numbers are very well done.

Yve DeBastini, called the Italian Nightingale, formerly of the Milan Opera Company, will offer a combination of classic and operatic airs and popular melodies. Another treat for music lovers will be offered by Eschel Roberts, a dramatic tenor of rare

To Keep Skin in Fine Condition All Summer

It would be much better for the skin if little cream, powder or rouge were used during the heated term. Mixed with perspiration, dust and grime, these things are anything but beautiful. Ordinary mercurized wax will do more for the complexion, and without giving the complexion any artificial appearance. It is the ideal application for the season, as it not only keeps the pores open, but daily removes particles of dirt or wax which have been settled by dirt or wax. By constantly keeping the complexion clear, white, satiny, it does more toward perpetuating the beauty of the face than any of the arts or artifices commonly employed. One ounce of mercurized wax, dissolved in any drug store, will completely renovate the worst complexion. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

To keep the skin from sagging or wrinkling, or to overcome such condition, there's nothing better than a face bath made by dissolving one powdered hazel in 1/2 pint witch hazel.

SUIT AGAINST ESTATE OF LATE C. KLOEPFER

A. A. Cockburn Asks Big Sum for Alleged Wrongful Dismissal.

A. A. Cockburn brought an action for $9000 damages, alleging wrongful dismissal, against the estate of the late Christopher Kloefer, in the assizes yesterday before Mr. Justice Middleton. He declared that he was employed by the Dominion Linen Mills under bond given by the Kloefer estate, and a Mr. Dodds of Guelph, and that he was dismissed two years before the expiration of his term. The defence was that plaintiff purchased the assets of the linen mills and made a large profit, and later became sales agent for the company. It is alleged that he suffered no financial damage. Judgment was reserved.

WILLS PROBATED

An estate valued at $19,341 was left by Frederick Wood, who died on June 1st at his home at 89 Galley avenue. By a will made on May 1, 1904, testator bequeathed his estate in equal shares to his three children, Edwin Walter, Alice and Emily.

James Joseph Pugh, who died on June 7, left a legacy of $900 and the residue of an estate of $1177 to an adopted son, John Belcham Pugh. A natural son and daughter, Albert Edward and Hebe Adelaide Grigby, receive legacies and chattels valued at $100 and $120 respectively.

An estate valued at $1410 was left by Wm. Kendall Pullis, who died on May 2 from drowning in the Metagama River in Northern Ontario. His widow, Josephine Mary Pullis, 182 Waverly road, inherits all.

BOOKKEEPER ALLEGED TO HAVE STOLEN MONEY

Charged with stealing $100 from the firm of Dewar, Maw and Hodgson, W. A. Bew, who was dressed in the uniform of the C.A.B.C., appeared in the police court yesterday and was remanded for a week.

Bew was employed as bookkeeper for the firm prior to enlisting. Auditors are looking over the books, and it is said by members of the firm that there is about $4000 missing.
