CONFERENCE AND CORONATION

Sir Wilfrid Laurier leaves the shores of Canada today to attend the fourth imperial conference since he became prime minister of Canada, and to represent this country at the coronation of King George. The Canadian premier will be one of the important figures in the conference and the coronation. Since he became premier Canada has made remarkable progress, until today the eyes of the world are turned upon her, and the great part she is destined to play in imperial and world history is universally recognized. Sir Wilfrid has been a singularly fortunate statesman, but he has also been a great leader and a true imperialist. Were there less of partisan bitterness in Canada, his splendid services would be freely acknowledged by his opponents, but even at this time some of them are ringing the changes on the old cry of disloyalty. In the north country they know better, and no man will be received with higher honors, as an empire builder, than the man who has guided the destinies of Canada during a period of unparalleled development and prosperity. He is a practical statesman, and his presence at the imperial conference will ensure a plain and practical discussion of matters affecting the relations of the mother country and the overseas states.

With Sir Wilfrid go Sir Frederick Borden and Hon. Mr. Borden, to consult with the war office and the admiralty on matters relating to imperial defence. Canada has adopted a forward policy in relation to military and naval affairs, and these conferences may be expected to have important results.

It may be hoped that the imperial conference will succeed in securing a uniform naturalization law, so that a person naturalized in any portion of the empire will have his citizenship recognized in any other. This is a matter that has been much discussed in Canada during the last year or two, and it should be settled without delay.

Never in the world's history has there been a more significant event than that of the imperial conference and coronation. Subjects of the King are coming up from the ends of the earth to do homage to the representative of an authority that binds together a vast area and an enormous population, of different races, and to take counsel together concerning the affairs of the world's greatest empire. Canada, which ranks first among the overseas states, is also represented by the foremost statesmen of these sister states.

The Ottawa Citizen (Conservative) reminds its readers that it is not the fault of Canada that closer trade relations with the mother country have not been secured. It says:—

"Canada has been waiting, for these numerous years, for some sort of reciprocity from that direction, but matters are more vague and indefinite than ever."

The Citizen goes a step farther and gives the ultra-loyalists of its own party and the tariff reformers in Britain this thrust:—

"There is no sentiment in business, or there is it is expected to be all on our side."

Will Mr. Borden regard this as heresy? The Ottawa Citizen's remarks are made in an article entitled "Whether we are drifting," and which was suggested by the statement that Germany wants reciprocity with Canada.

"Germany," says the Citizen, "is a wide-awake commercial nation, and has had for a number of years past a growing desire for closer relations with Canada. Like another nation we could mention, she went the wrong way about it, when some six or seven years ago she endeavored to bulldoze Canada into allowing her to share the British preference. The result was that she received from Hon. Mr. Fielding's surtax did a lot of good, and has since caused Canada to be regarded with respect by the German government. As soon as wounded dignity would permit, overtures were made to have the surtax called off, and now the Germans are frankly anxious for closer relations on a mutually profitable basis. Canada has a tariff; so has Germany. Canada has a tariff; so has the United States. If the latter can make a mutually profitable deal with this country, no doubt the Germans see no reason why they might not be able to offer inducements which would prove acceptable to the youngest of the great nations."

Following this statement of the case, the Citizen made the remarks first quoted, in

"Yes."
"Oh, do tell me all about it. What did she do?"
"Nothing. He did."

"Yes, I know your shape isn't very good," Stephen; it never has been. "But what were you going to say about your financial affairs?"

THE TRUTH OF IT
This local Conservative organ, in its Ottawa correspondence, has represented Hon. Mr. Fielding to be on the verge of handing in his resignation, and sought to convey the impression that there was bitter division in the cabinet over the question of the adjustment of parliament for a few weeks. The following Ottawa despatch to the Montreal Herald is therefore of interest:—

"Hon. W. S. Fielding has no thought of resigning. There is no foundation for the report that he is opposing the parliamentary adjournment. While he expressed himself as willing and anxious to lead the house in the absence of Sir Wilfrid, he recognizes that there would be nothing gained by keeping the house going, as the opposition would obstruct. He also believes that an educational campaign on reciprocity conducted by the Liberal members would do the position of the party some good. Finally, he knows that an adjournment for two months will enable redistribution to be made and an election held before Christmas."

The Canadian Northern and the I. C. R.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier Guest of King During Coronation Ceremonies

Ottawa, May 11.—"Canada's present prospects and future greatness are largely dependent upon the development of her transportation facilities," said Hon. Geo. E. B. Borden, minister of railways and canals, in submitting his resolution to the commonsense today providing for the guarantee of Canadian Northern, as previously outlined by her correspondent.

Hon. Mr. Borden outlined the proposed route of the projected line, illustrating his comment by a large map which was placed upon the table of the house. The line would connect the 4,000 miles of Canadian Northern Railway west of the Great Lakes with the ports of the east. It would give eastern Canada, generally, another through route to the west, and would open up the southern portion of the clay belt of northern Ontario.

Mr. Borden said it was his belief that the eastern portion of Canada—the maritime provinces—were about to enter upon a period of unexampled prosperity and development, while the west was already in its stride. Canada could not obtain lines of construction too rapidly.

"Before the session closes," concluded Mr. Borden, "I hope to communicate to parliament plans for getting under the wing of the state-owned railway other lines which will assist in feeding that railway, and I may state that the Canadian Northern is building a line from Georgian Bay to its main line which will serve another part of the country."

Mr. Borden and Mr. Crosby criticized the Canadian Northern agreement, but Mr. White and Mr. Gordon, Conservatives, supported it.

Hon. Mr. Fielding announced that the new bank act would not likely come into force at this session, and he intended to introduce a bill to continue the existing measure.

Hon. Mr. Borden, Mr. Borden and Mr. Crosby complained of alleged delay in the delivery of transatlantic mail in the Maritime provinces. The postmaster general said he was investigating.

Mr. McColl, Conservative, of Norfolk, thought the government should lease the I. C. R. to the Canadian Northern, but Mr. Borden said he was not prepared to consider at the present time either leasing or selling the I. C. R.

Mr. Crosby, of Halifax, complained that Mr. Borden had agreed to give the C. P. R. running rights over the I. C. R. to Halifax, but had backed down. Mr. Borden said the C. P. R. could have running rights over the I. C. R., but it had been stipulated that they must leave local traffic alone.

After Mr. Borden had indicated that he would make some change with the Grand Trunk so that there would be an exchange of freight between the I. C. R. and Canadian Northern, the C. N. R. resolution was adopted and a bill based on it introduced.

An enthusiastic send-off was tendered Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his departure for the coronation. He will sail on the steamer Virginia from Quebec and the other members of the official party representing the Canadian government, Sir F. W. Borden and Hon. L. P. Borden, will go aboard at Montreal.

At the imperial conference Canada will take the initiative on three matters, the All Red line, a uniform naturalization law and the status of foreign consuls general in the overseas capitals.

Sir Frederick Borden and the Hon. Mr. Borden will take up with the war office and the admiralty various questions of detail with regard to the working out of the imperial defence scheme in military and naval matters. Hon. Mr. Borden and Deputy Minister Desbarats will consult with the admiralty in reference to the organization of the Canadian navy and the construction of the new vessels. They will also negotiate with the British firms who have tendered on the ten cruisers and destroyers as to plans for establishing plants in Canada for the building of these warships.

During the coronation ceremonies Sir Wilfrid will be the personal guest of King George. Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues expect to return to Ottawa the third week in July. Meanwhile Sir Richard Cartwright will be acting premier, and, as he sits in the senate, Hon. W. S. Fielding will lead the house during the week or two it will remain in session.

A men's reunion was held last night in St. Jude's school room, when Rev. H. A. Ody gave an illustrated lecture on the Yukon, which was heartily enjoyed. Rev. R. A. Armstrong will preach in the church tonight.

Madero Forms Government

Juarez, Mexico, May 11.—Mexico's provisional government, composed of insurgents, became an established fact today, with the naming of a cabinet by Francisco I. Madero, Jr., provisional president, and with the establishment of a capital in the captured city of Juarez where General Navarro and his federal troops are held prisoners.
