MISS EVA BOOTH,
The New Canadian Salvation Army Commander to Visit Ingersoll this Week.

Miss Eva Booth, the Commandant of the Salvation Army in Canada, will visit Ingersoll on July 2nd, accompanied by the band from headquarters. The entire party will travel by bicycle.

Commissioner Eva Booth is the General's fourth daughter.

She was converted at the age of six years, and from her earliest days, in which she was able to take part at all in the Salvation war, her whole strength and energy has been spent in some form of work or other for the salvation of the world.

When quite a little miss she used to go on selling War Cries on the street with the women cadets in the First Training Home, carried on under the superintendence of her sister, now Consul Booth-Tucker, and before she was twenty she was able to render great service to that institution in the important work of dealing with the hearts and souls of women who afterwards became officers in the Salvation Army.

A tremendous storm burst upon the Salvation Army in London, in 1885, in consequence of certain actions performed by persons belonging to it, in connection with the terrible 'Fall Mail' revelations of social vice in the metropolis.

One of these transactions took place in a vicinity where they had a large hall, holding 4000 people, and there was a dense population of ignorant people of the so-called lower orders of life. Public feeling ran very high against the Army, and in this neighborhood Salvationists were attacked with great violence by mobs when they went out on the streets, and the corps was in a very tight place. At this juncture the commissioner was appointed to the command as captain, and she went there, having the help of ten or a dozen cadets. Every other house of the street where they lived was a house of iniquity and crime, but before the Commissioner had been in her quarters a fortnight, she had been in every house visiting the people and dealing with them about salvation.

The Commissioner remained at that corps ten months, and her arduous and endless labors there brought on a dangerous illness that kept her out of the fight for close on a year. Mrs. General Booth nursed her during the greater part of this time, and the influence of that long, close, loving, personal contact will affect the temporal and eternal destinies of millions.

The next important public conflict was that of Torquay, a health resort in the south of England.

The Municipal Council of Torquay deprived, by passing a special by-law, the Salvation Army of its precious privilege of parading the streets on Sunday with a brass band. This right had been established by a decision of Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, in the Court of Queen's bench.

In order to maintain this right, therefore, the procession moved right along, by its commander's orders. Officers, bandmen and soldiers were arrested and cast into prison, but those who remained kept in line and the band played on. There was a great excitement in the town, and Commissioner Eva Booth was sent to Torquay to render her help in fighting the battle through to a victorious finish. She took her place in the parades, when these were attacked by mobs and police. She personally interviewed and won over the council. She had the matter taken up by parliament and eventually she won by the repeal in parliament of the obnoxious by-law, the right for her Army to parade all day if it chose to do so, with its brass band in load and close attendance.

When she received her orders to proceed to New York on her melancholy mission of mercy and love, she was in the midst of arrangements for farewelling from the London 'province'—corresponding to a chief division here. When we say that she had 350 field officers and 25 cadets in training, and 21,000 soldiers in her command, it will be seen that she must have great administrative capacity.

Her first two public appearances in America took place on the same day, and before audiences containing a large hostile element. Each meeting resulted in a complete victory. Some of the very people who hissed her at the beginning were cheering her when she finished.

In the whole history of the Salvation Army probably no officer of any rank ever found himself or herself in any position at all similar to that occupied by her in the first week after her arrival in New York, yet during four of those days she brought about a complete revolution in the feelings of at least 150 officers of various ranks, and other persons connected with the Salvation Army in the city, in regard to the position that she assumed under such trying circumstances.

THAT INVESTIGATION
Will Have to Go On at Once, it Appears.

MR. MILLER PRESSED HIS MOTION
And the senators Unanimously Adopted it After Mr. David Mills Had Been Added to the Committee—General Grant Loan Agreed to by the Upper House.

Ottawa, June 28.—(Special.)—Senator Miller's motion to investigate the Drummond Counties Railway matters passed the Upper House to-day. Resuming the debate Mr. Miller said he had consented to an adjournment on Saturday at the request of Sir Oliver Mowat, but events which had taken place in the other House compelled him to persist in his motion. He thought that it was in the interest of the country that this committee should proceed at once.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell backed up Senator Miller, and in the course of his remarks, quoted from The Montreal Herald, which, he said, belonged principally to one party, the interest in the deal, and from The Toronto Globe, to the effect that the Senate would not pursue this investigation because it would result in justifying the government and implicating members of the Conservative party. If members of the Conservative party were implicated, the sooner they were driven from public life the better for the country and the party.

Regarding statements that he was induced by Sir Charles Tupper, Mr. Foster and Mr. Hazen in the course he had taken, he most emphatically denied that such was the case. He had acted entirely of his own accord and from a sense of his duty as a public man.

Sir Oliver Mowat said he could not oppose the investigation, but asked that Senator Mills be added to the committee, which was agreed to.

Senator Scott said this was purely a fishing commission, and he hoped ample time would be given for a full investigation.

Senator Clewson supported the demand for an investigation.

Senator Mills argued that the Senate had no power to investigate the expenditure of public money. It is an investigation made at all it should be conducted by the House of Commons.

Senator Ferguson replied, quoting from the constitutional authorities to show that the Senate had power to conduct such an investigation.

At the afternoon session Senator Power, continuing the debate, said that there was no doubt that the relations between the Senate and House of Commons were slightly strained at the present time.

Senator Primrose repudiated the charge that this was a fishing committee, and that it was a political investigation.

Senator Cox suggested that there was no use in prolonging the debate. The investigation was evidently to go on.

The Speaker then put the motion, which was declared carried unanimously in the following form:

That a special committee of the Senate be appointed to enquire into the expenditure of subsidies granted by the Parliament of Canada to the Drummond Counties Railway Company, its liabilities of every description, whether matured or accruing, the condition and modification of the said railway, as well as its equipment, and also all other matters and things relating to the said subjects or any of them, as well as all other matters and things relating to the said railway, with power to send for papers, persons and records, and to report from time to time, and that the said committee consist of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Senator Ferguson, Senator Scott, Macdonald (P. M. L.), McInnes (New Westminster), De Bonherville, Primrose, Cox, Clewson, Landry, Prowse, Wood, Thebaudan (La Valliere), McCallum, Mills and Miller.

The Senate then went into committee on the bill respecting judges of provincial courts.

The bill to authorize the $15,000,000 loan, the act to provide for the iron and steel boulders, the act to amend the Civil Service Superannuation Act were read a second time.

The directors of the Toronto Industrial Fair have issued a nice lithograph hanger for the Victorian Era Exposition to be held there from August 30th to September 11th. The programme for this season will be an especially attractive one.

The G. T. R. have this year enlarged the radius within which people can attend the various trotting circuits. Formerly special rates were only issued from towns within 50 miles from the place of meeting, but now the distance is 100 miles. The Windsor meet will be held from July 5 to 10.

TAKE CARE OF THE AGED.
Paine's Celery Compound Will Prolong Their Years and Make Them Happy.

The aged can be made healthy, happy and contented, and their lives greatly extended, if they receive what they most need in their declining years. The great and good work is accomplished by having them use Paine's Celery Compound two or three times a day.

This magnificent and strengthening medicine keeps up the nerve power, corrects digestion, clears the brain, and produces sound and natural sleep. Once these results are secured, aged men and women go on from day to day in full and perfect health, and become a blessing to all around them.

Help the old people at once; give them more care and attention than in the past; procure for them Paine's Celery Compound if they are weak, ailing and complaining. Remember the old folk were once your protectors and guardians; they shared your joys and sorrows, they cared for and attended to your pains and distresses when you were young and helpless.

Do something for the old people now, before their end comes. Make their last days bright and joyous. This is surely and affectually done by having them use Paine's Celery Compound.

LACROSSE.
In a report of a lacrosse game played in Rossland, recently, the Rossland Recorder says—Thompson and Clark made several brilliant plays. Clark, after running the length of the field tumbled three checks in a bunch who were hot upon his track, by a clever dodge and then succeeded in making a clever throw. He was cool, but not more cool is ice than was Joe Thompson. Even with several checks swarming around like hornets and hitting frantically with their sticks, he preserved his calm manner, and succeeded in tumbling over about him 'eft and right, while he threw the ball away into hands where it did the most good. He made a brilliant throw the whole length of the field and capped the climax by scoring.

Joe seems to be as good at the game in Rossland, as he was in Ingersoll.

John D. Rockefeller: It is a mistake for a man who wishes for happiness and to help others to think that he must wait until he has made a fortune before giving away money to deserving objects.
