These well known and unrivalled BITTERS, prepared by a peculiar and elaborate Chemical process, from rare plants and herbs, and entirely free from all mineral, acid, and other noxious ingredients, have been found the most useful in Dyspepsia or indigestion, Diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, and Irritability of the Bowels.

In all cases of Debility; whether arising from illness, fatigue, or other causes, they prove eminently serviceable and afford calculable benefit; and, being devoid of all spirituous and other injurious stimulants, may be given with happiest effects to young children, correcting in them the tendency to the generation of worms, and other Bowel complaints.

FOR FEMALES these Bitters are peculiarly suitable, giving tone and vigor to the system, and imparting new strength to the frame, which promotes surprise or other exhausting causes may have impaired.

They have been extensively and successfully used by the Medical Faculty, many of whose most distinguished members in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, the United States elsewhere, have given ample testimony in their favor.

These Bitters produce a feeling of buoyancy, removing depression or melancholy, and hence are of great value in the treatment of Mental and Nervous affection. They produce a healthy flow of the secretions, and should be used by all who suffer from

DEPRESSION OF SPIRITS, SLEEPLESSNESS.
NERVOUSNESS, LOSS OF APPETITE,

SECOND EDITION.

POPE LEO'S SUCESSOR.

CARDINAL GIBBONS WILL BE CHOSEN NOT BELIEVED

Circumstances Will Compel the Cardinals to Select an Italian.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 8.—In Catholic circles here especially among the clergy, very little importance is attached to the oft repeated statement that Cardinal Gibbons would probably succeed Pope Leo, XIII as head of the church. A leading clergyman remarked last night "There is no likelihood of the next Pope being an American. If it were not for the temporal power for which Pope Leo is now struggling it would not matter from what section of the world the head of the church came but circumstances will compel the Cardinals to select an Italian as the successor of Pope Leo. The feeling against foreigners is too intense to admit even of the consideration of any other country.

A SEVERE STORM

Destroys the Crop and Causes Loss of Several Lives in a Section of Kansas.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

WICHITA, Kan., June 8.—This section was visited yesterday by the most severe storm known for years. The western part of Sedgewick Co, to the eastern part of Kingman Co. suffered the most where a space 20 miles long by 5 miles wide was swept over by the cyclone. A farmer named Rogers and all the members of his family were killed. The heavy rain was followed by hail which laid low the grain and fruit crops. In West Sedgewick County many houses and barns and acres of the crops are levelled to the ground.

AT JOHNSTOWN.

The Rain and Cool Weather Providential.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

JOHNSTOWN, June 8.—The day opened with heavy rain, and the air is chilly, and the valley where many have lost their lives presented a most desolate scene, while the rain is far from pleasant to the workers and helpers. It is certainly providential that the cool weather is continuing, as it prevents the much dreaded decomposition of the human bodies yet uncovered and the thousands of animals that perished in the flood.

Where the Blame is Placed.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 8th.—The community is disposed to place the blame of the disaster on the South Fork Hunting & Fishing Club, and trouble is feared. Already several of their pretty villas have been broken into, and the furniture demolished, their boat stolen in daylight and reduced to kindling wood. It is evident that robbery is not intended for the mischief was purely wanton.

Affairs at present are assuming serious aspects. It is understood that the jury at Ninevah after reviewing the successive breaks and careless repairs on the dam through the past year will declare the Executive Committee of the South Fork Fishing Club guilty of gross negligence.

Dublin Rids the Flood Sufferers.

DUBLIN, June 8.—Lord Mayor Sexton, has cabled to America 1,000 pounds for the relief of the Johnstown sufferers.

MIND-CURE AND DIVORCE.

Are the Christian Scientists Becoming Free Lovers?
(New York World)

The school of alleged metaphysicians, mind curers, etc., designated generally as "Christian Scientists," is a progressive body. The field it has most prominently occupied hitherto is that of the treatment of diseases. Its purpose was to supplant the regular medical profession, abolish all use of material remedies and cure the afflicted by processes of thought or faith, or a judicious mixture of the two. Its professors and disciples have sat heroically by the bedsides of men, women and children stricken with pneumonia, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and other diseases requiring prompt attention, and, while trying to think them into remaining in this world have permitted them to slip entirely uninterfered with into the next. Singularly enough, persons responsible for those slaughters of the innocent have for the most part been permitted to remain out of jail and to repeat their fatal nonsense in proportion as dupes were found.

Encouraged by their success in the work of supplanting the doctors, it appears that some of these "Scientists" have concluded to dispense also with lawyers and courts. Thus Mrs. Plunkett, a high priestess of the order, has, with the aid of Mr. Plunkett in one instance, and of a Mr. Worthington in another, carried herself without any legal ceremony through a divorce and a new marriage. Mr. Plunkett does not approve of the second part of the programme, and there are pecuniary matters and children to be considered. But as his principles will not let him employ lawyers any more than doctors, all that is left for him is to sit down and cure the situation by thinking it into shape. As Mrs. Plunket-Worthington can think against him the outcome is dubious.

A turn is here given to the movement of these deluded people and the cranks or charlatans who led them on which is distinctly a phase of anarchy. There are many really respectable persons who have fallen under the influence of this humbug, and now that which is practically free-love is being mixed up with it perhaps they will be shocked back to their senses.

AN AUSTRIAN VISITOR.

Making Inquiries on Behalf of the Australian Governments.

[Montreal Star.]

Among the visitors at the Windsor Hotel is Mr. Pridham, of Australia, who is making inquiries about the Canadian Pacific Railway as a mail route on behalf of the Australian Governments. He says that there is a very great feeling of annoyance in Australia against the American Government for not assisting the mail service between the two places; the only subsidies at present being given by the Governments of New South Wales and New Zealand. The Americans are much liked personally in Australia, but the parsimony of the Government is much disliked. The suggestions made by Canada for a mail service between here and Australia have been very favorably received, and if the route is proved to be satisfactory, it is likely that arrangements will be made. He is very agreeably disappointed with Montreal after what he had heard on the voyage to New York. Mr. Pridham is a veteran journalist, having acted as special commissioner during the European wars from 1848 to 1851. He emigrated to Australia in 1852, and has lived there since, exploring the whole of that continent. He acted as special commissioner of the Times for some years, and has published several books.

Benefits From the New Short Line.

[Montreal Star.]

A prominent C. P. R. official, speaking about the new Short Line, said: "Few people are aware of the sportsman's paradise that this new route has opened up. The country through the State of Maine, to Mattawamkeag consists almost entirely of a chain of small lakes, girded by fine woods, making shooting and fishing all that could be desired." Speaking on the imports that this new country will supply, he said; "We intend to open up the fish trade from St. John and surrounding places to this city and to provide suitable cars for its conveyance, in order to have it brought here sweet and fresh, and on account of the increased facilities and the shortness of the route, the prices for fresh fish in this city should be materially lessened besides giving a greater variety of the fresh commodity to choose from. We are busily engaged in making out various freight rates from local points. Although as yet we have made no definite arrangements as regards ocean transhipments, yet there is every likelihood that no small portion of it will find its way over this short route to this city and other cities west of here. The passenger traffic since the opening is spoken of as being most satisfactory.

Another Dangerous Reservoir.

OLEAN, N. Y., June 8th.—The largest artificial body of water in the United States, is situated 782 feet above Olean and is said to be liable to give way at any moment. It was formerly used to feed the old Genesee Valley Canal, but is now merely a sportsman's paradise. The reservoir is one-third larger than the Conemaugh reservoir, and there is no reason why it should not be abolished at once. About ten years ago, this dam burst flooding the valley for a distance of 150 miles.

The Summer Carnival.

There was a meet of the managing and finance committees at A. O. Skinner's office last evening, when reports from various committees were received. The electrical exhibition committee's report was of a very satisfactory nature and showed that preparations were in an advanced stage. All repairs on the new building have been completed and in view of holding a horticultural exhibits the old building will be put in proper condition immediately.

On Monday men will begin putting in wires, boilers, engines etc., for the electrical display.

The regatta committee reported, giving a list of the races and other aquatic entertainments they propose holding.

The finance committee said they were meeting with excellent success in the work of collecting funds.

Other committees reported favorably.

THE GREAT FLOOD.

CLEANING AWAY THE RUINS AT JOHNSTOWN.

Miles of Telegraph Wire Are Wound Around the Debris and the Work is Much Obstructed.

Another day's work upon the ruins of Johnstown has shown the almost hopelessness of the task of making the site of the town safe for the present and habitable. Seven thousand men, with 500 teams and all the other appliances that could be used for clearing away the ruins, have made scarcely perceptible progress in bettering the condition of the town. The 60-acre gorge above the bridge, supposed to contain yet hundreds of bodies, or fragments of bodies, withstands stubbornly every effort to remove it. Three days' work, with the aid of dynamite and the most powerful lifting and pulling appliances, have not cleared a space 100 feet square. The committee in charge of the financial part of the work is in despair at the enormous extent of the task before it, and to-day issued an appeal to the official authorities and the financial organizations of the country to designate a commission to take charge of the work. Disease, consequent upon the reaction after the excitement and hardship of the past week, threatens to make sad inroads.

Very strict regulations are enforced. The whole city is surrounded by a guard of soldiers, and more troops are under orders in Pittsburg ready to proceed at once, if needed. An effort is being made to cut off so far as possible, the means of entrance to the city, so as to keep away the crowds. The number of passenger trains has been reduced to the lowest possible number, and no tickets for Johnstown are sold, except upon a permit from the Relief Committee at Pittsburg.

Supplies of every sort continue to pour in from all parts of the country, and the immediate necessities of the people are liberally provided for.

The best estimate of the death list continues to place the total at from 5000 to 8000. As near as can be ascertained, from 3500 to 4000 bodies have already been recovered. The attempt to prepare an official list of the dead has been abandoned. The number of bodies found today was not so great as yesterday, but there are no signs that the end is anywhere near.

Edward Fisher, a leading young lawyer, a young man, and the only survivor of a large family, committed suicide by shooting himself this morning. Another victim of the flood, a woman, all of whose family was lost has gone insane.

The progress of the work upon the black and still smoking mass of charred ruins above the bridge is still hardly perceptible. There is clear water for about 100 feet back from the central arch and a little opening before the two on each side of it. When there is a good sized hole made before all three of these arches, through which the bulk of the water runs, it is expected that the stuff can be pulled apart and set afloat much more rapidly. Dynamiter Kirk, who is overseeing the work, used up the last of 100 pounds of the explosive early this afternoon, and had to suspend operations until the arrival of 200 pounds more than was on the way from Pittsburg. The dynamite has been used in small doses for fear of damaging the bridge. Six pounds was the heaviest charge used. Even with this the stone beneath the arches of the bridge is charred and crumbling in pieces, and some pieces have been blown out of the heavy coping. The whole structure shakes as though with an earthquake at every discharge. The dynamite is placed in holes drilled in logs matted into the surface of the raft, and its effect being downward, the greatest force of the explosion is upon the mass of stuff beneath the water. At the same time, each charge sends up into the air, 100 feet or more, a fountain of dirt, stones and blackened fragments of logs, many of them large enough to be dangerous. The rattling crash of their fall upon the bridge follows hard after the heavy boom of the explosion.

One of the worst and most unexpected objects with which the men on the raft have to contend is the presence in it of hundreds of miles of telegraph wire wound around almost everything there, binding the whole mass together. No bodies have yet been brought to the surface by the operations with dynamite, but indications of several buried beneath the surface are evident.

A short distance back from where the men are at work bodies continue to be taken out from the surface at the rate of 10 or 12 a day. The men this afternoon came across hunderds of feet of polished copper pipe which is said to have come from a Pullman car. It was not known that there was a Pullman car in that part of the raft. The remnants of a vestibule car are plainly seen at a point 100 feet away from this one. One of the bodies taken out of the raft today is belisved to be that of a lady who was about to start as a missionary for India when the flood and death overtook her.

The story of Conemaugh valley's Paul Revere, who rode down ahead of the wave and called to the people to fly for their lives is happily untrue in one essential detail. The brave man didn't die. The story was based upon the fact that one of the men who went about warning the people in Johnstown that the dam was sure to break was on horseback. People refused to heed his warning, but he kept on until the water began to rise so rapidly that it was with difficulty that he reached the high ground ahead of the wave of destruction. There is no doubt that a good many people lost their lives through their disbelief in the danger of the failure of the dam of which they had abundant warning. The danger was one that had been hanging over the city for years. Everybody knew of it. It was raining hard, and the streets were deep with water. It wasn't a nice day to go out in the wet, and so they stayed in doors. Stories are told of families who stood at their windows chatting with other families across the street, and joked about the dam scare until the roar of the approaching torrent broke upon their ears.

There are different stories as to how and at what time the warnings of the danger were given. Some claim never to have heard them at all. At Mineral Point I asked to-day: "When did you get your first warning of the danger of the dam breaking?" "When we saw the houses coming down the valley," was the answer. At Conemaugh, on the other hand, it is pretty certain that reasonable warning was given as early as three hours before the dam broke.

Equity Court.

In the Equity Court this morning before Mr. Justice Palmer Judge in Equity Mr M B Dixon moved to take the bill pro confesso against the defendant Correll for want of appearance in the suit of the Trustees of Benj. Smith vs Samuel Correll and HG Betts. The property in suit in Saint John West and is valued at $2,000. Ordered as moved.

The matter of moving for a new trial in the Bovinine-Bovine matter was then taken up, and a discussion occurred in reference to a part of the official report of the preliminaries to the trial.

Sol.-Gen. Pugsley, who moved for a new trial, then called His Honor's attention to several authorities in support of his position, and as after speaking at some length, it was found the argument could not be finished to-day, the matter was adjourned until the Tuesday after the term ends. The term will open in Fredericton on Tuesday next.
