The Prospects.

The reports of Mr. Palmer's committee and canvassers are of the most encouraging character. From every corner of the City and County come the most gratifying accounts of the hold which this candidate has taken on the people. East and West, the story is the same. In the City, "Palmer stock" is at the highest point. The merchants and manufacturers and leading capitalists are with him, believing him to be a safe man, a man who thoroughly comprehends the business relations of the country, as well as the laws which bear on Trade, Shipping and the various industries with which our prosperity is so thoroughly identified. The working-men are largely for him. They believe that he will be an economical public man; that he will do what he can to reduce taxation, keep the necessities of life at the lowest possible price, and make New Brunswick a cheap country to live in. They know also that Mr. Palmer's life, like their own, has been a life of toil and that he always has been and is to-day one of the hardest working men in this City—that he is extremely deep in interest in the prosperity of all classes in this community. Those favor him who believe in sending to Ottawa men of decided convictions—men who will not hesitate to insist on "Better Terms" for this Province—men of firm will, tenacious of principle and fearless in the face of opposition to our rights and wishes—men of ability, as well as zeal, who can hold their own in the face of the ablest men of other Provinces can produce and who will not be deterred from their intention to secure firm footing in the Union, either by the blandishments or threatenings of Government or Opposition, of powerful Ontario on the one hand or over-bearing Quebec on the other. The electors recognize in Mr. Palmer, as well as Mr. Burpee, the man for the occasion with a most gratifying vote.

The members of Mr. Palmer's Committee on the East Side will meet at the Committee Rooms in Ritchie's Building, this evening, at 7 o'clock. A full attendance is requested.

Electioneering Stories.

Electors will do well to be on their guard against bogus reports of the intentions of this or that County candidate and their friends to "run" or "run" this or that candidate "running together" of this man "throwing" that man "overboard" of influential electors having suddenly changed their tactics and determined to "go strong" for Jones and "lead against" Robinson; of whole settlements having transferred their allegiance in a night; and a thousand and one similar stories started in the hope of influencing the voting on Wednesday and not traceable to any reliable source. The exercise of a little common sense will soon place such reports in their proper category and render them powerless for mischief. As a rule, the time and labor spent in circulating false reports at election times are a poor investment—the results are seldom commensurate with the industry displayed in giving them currency. At the same time, there appears to be a class of persons who find their chief pleasure in concocting and repeating these stories, and to deprive them of this pleasure would be to make their lives miserable. They will probably continue in the work; at the same time, no body need believe them. The minds of the electors are pretty well made up as to how they will vote, and bogus reports, tho' started with the utmost ingenuity and fostered and distributed with the utmost zeal, will have little weight with reflecting men.

Modesty.

Mr. Elder says of Mr. Elder's hustings speech:—"Many of those who know Mr. Elder as a scholar, a clear thinker, and a vigorous writer, were not aware of his talents as an extemporaneous speaker until they heard his ringing speech on the hustings. It was clear and convincing, full of telling hits, and opened the eyes of the electors," etc., etc.

Mr. Elder says in this morning's Telegraph.

"Mr. Elder's social standing gives him authority to every circle."

The Weekly Tribune is a twenty-eight column paper, full of reading interest to all classes.

It contains the latest news by Mail, Rail and Telegraph. Price One Dollar per year in advance.

The Canadian Team in England.

The most noticeable event of the 8th was a dejeuner given by Sir Peter and Lady Tat, at their residence, Etna House, Putney, to Major Worley and the Canadian Team. Sir John Rose, the late Finance Minister in England and Lord, were present, and also General Macdonald, who had so much to do with establishing the present excellent military organization of the Dominion, and with working out the scheme about to be introduced in London. In the presence of a couple of months' work in the field that the excellent military qualities of the Canadians; to the residents which they had accepted the day of self-defense; and to their excellent bearing when called on to deal with the late wretched Fenian demonstration. Speaking of the volunteers at home, he expressed the belief that a couple of months' work in the field would fit them to put in a line of battle with the regular troops; that they were worth more than the country was called upon to pay for them; and that in the face of our present military strength properly organized, an invasion would be a very perilous and dangerous enterprise for whoever undertook it.

The Election of Sir John A. Macdonald.

After the close of the polls in Kingston on Thursday last, Sir John addressed a large crowd in front of his Committee room. He met a warm reception, and a procession having formed, headed by the Hook and Ladder Company and a Band, he was placed in a carriage driven by four grey horses and escorted through the streets, with flags and a large number of carriages. Sir John was cheered at every corner by immense crowds. He returned to the hotel about 7 p. m., and being loudly called for addressed the immense crowd in a few appropriate remarks, after which he retired. Three cheers were given for Lady Macdonald, who graciously acknowledged them from the window, and the same compliment was paid Sir John and the Queen, and the crowd dispersed. Not a single case of disorder was observed, and no difficulty was placed in the way of any voter coming to the poll and giving his vote as he chose. This is a great satisfaction to all.

The following table shows the state of the poll every hour throughout the day:

Time	Mr. Palmer	Mr. Burpee
10 A. M.	405	360
Majority for Sir John	45
11 A. M.	447	392
Majority for Sir John	55
12 Noon	500	405
Majority for Sir John	95
1 P. M.	637	519
Majority for Sir John	94
2 P. M.	675	566
Majority for Sir John	106
3 P. M.	719	608
Majority for Sir John	121
4 P. M.	735	604
Majority for Sir John	132

The story that Mr. Palmer is more friendly to Mr. Mitchell than Mr. Tilley was revived again in Portland this morning, and it was boldly stated, as proof of this, that Mr. Palmer had attended the celebrated "Mitchell Dinner."

There is no truth in any portion of the story—Messrs. Tilley and Mitchell are not unfriendly to Mr. Palmer; he is not influenced in any respect by Mr. Mitchell and he was not present at the "Mitchell Dinner."

Blow Ye." Etc.—Mr. Elder says that "in addition to Mr. Elder's abilities and power as a journalist, he has shown that he can claim the distinction of being a ready and persuasive speaker."

The Weekly Tribune is admirably adapted for circulation in the country where only one or two mills per week are received. Price One Dollar per annum, in advance.

Dr. Irvine's Lecture.

Dr. Irvine lectured last night at the Institute to a large audience, on the "Anglo-Saxon Race." The lecture was replete with stirring incidents, graphic illustrations and telling recitals, and was listened to with intense interest throughout. John Boyd, Esq., was chairman. The introduction of the lecturer, by Mr. Boyd, was so happily performed by that gentleman that we cannot avoid reproducing his remarks:—"To the elder portion of my audience," says Mr. Boyd, "it is not necessary to introduce our friend and former fellow-citizen, the distinguished lecturer of this evening. For many years he has been devoting his time to the study of the Anglo-Saxon race, and the memories of these services are yet fresh in the hearts of hundreds who know the name of Robert Irvine as a household word. Those of us who have the privilege of witnessing with Dr. Irvine yesterday will endorse my judgment, that years have not dimmed his mental vision nor abated the power and force of his eloquence. I regret that the public duties which now devolve upon good citizenship, have prevented hundreds from being present this evening, who would otherwise have been here, for our friend has chosen a noble subject; and, while speaking of the great victory achieved over mind and matter by the Anglo-Saxon of the Celt, for by the union of the characteristics of the two, Great Britain and Ireland, with our neighbor Republic, we have laws which rule and regulate the world. In the organization and history of Calvin Church and congregation, on whose behalf we are now met, we have seen the result of a happy union of the Anglo-Saxon and the Celt. It is an old friend, the persistent struggle with difficulties that has been exhibited in that devoted devotee and more than all the success of this evening we have a good specimen of the Anglo-Saxon as he is known and beloved throughout our young Dominion. And as such, and because he is an old friend, we ask for him a hearty welcome."

The Members of the City Band, Organized by the City Band, O. L. No. 24.

The members of the City Band, organized by the City Band, O. L. No. 24, headed by the City Band, O. L. No. 24, headed by the late Brother Alex. Hepburn to their last resting place in the Rural Cemetery yesterday, where the solemn and impressive funeral service of the order was read by the officiating Chaplain of the Lodge. The members numbered some two hundred and received the praise of the bystanders and pedestrians on their orderly and respectable funeral procession. This is the second time within two months that Johnstone Lodge has been called upon to perform the last rites for the dead.

Regatta on Thursday.

The assortment of pipes, cigar holders, &c., which have been the only inducements offered for crews to row in the regatta on Thursday, have not been sufficient to induce many to enter as yet.

Fowl Sale.

At Mr. Hubbard's Auction Rooms this morning, a lot of fancy fowl, raised by the young firm of Ford, Goring & Prichard, were sold at auction and realized fair prices.

Meeting in Ritchie's Building to-night.

Mr. Palmer's Committee (men on the East Side) will meet in their rooms, Ritchie's Building, at seven o'clock this evening.

Meeting in the City Hall, Thursday.

Mr. Palmer's Committee men and friends in Carlton will meet in the City Hall, this evening at half past seven, sharp.

Private party of the sickle-went.

A private party of the sickle-went to the Falls this morning in the "H. Perry."

Between ten and eleven o'clock this morning the casting of the cross-head of the ferry boat Western Extension got underway.

A tag boat was put on immediately. The "Western Extension" will probably be on the route this evening.

Selling without License.

A dapper English swell who vendors oranges and lemons (amount) in boxes, and was going to extinguish a good yesterday, was complained of for selling without license. The Police Magistrate sent him to the Mayor.

Bishop's Opera House.

A large audience attended the Opera House last evening. The performance began with Othello, by Talbot and McAvoy, which was well received. The Dancing Master by J. Cohan was good. Mr. Hope's song was fairly good. The "Cuckoo and Nightingale" by Cohan and McAvoy, was in very good. Next came the beautiful and accomplished Jennie Kimball, whose songs were excellent. Persons who had to bear good singing should go to the Opera House to-night. The Cuckoo and Nightingale Polka, by the Orchestra, was splendidly played. To-night there will be another change of programme.

Runaway.

R. Winstel's horse started from Ritchie's Building with a wagon, between twelve and one o'clock, ran down the hill, and fell over the street railway, hurting himself badly.

The Employees of the London House.

In response to an invitation from Mr. Daniel, breakfasted this morning at the elegant mansion of that gentleman overlooking the Marshes. There was a large gathering, and an hour was spent in pleasant strolls through Mr. Daniel's well kept grounds.

Daring Robbery.

Between Saturday night and Monday morning last, the furniture warehouse of Mr. C. E. Burnham, on German street, was entered by some daring scoundrel, the safe opened with a key, and $350 in cash, two policies of Insurance on stock and quantity of silverware, the property of J. Burpee, Esq., several notes of hand and a quantity of stamps, abstracted therefrom. By what means the scamp gained entrance is still a mystery, as no marks of violence entrance are left about the premises.

Fish Market.

This morning salmon were selling for $1.25 to $1; shad, from 13 to 15 cts. each; gasparous, 10 cts. a doz.
