Solidarity against disco

VIENNA (ZNS) — A Viennese bartender escalated the international fight against disco when he pumped a jukebox full of lead in the disco he works in.

Leopold Hofner just couldn't take it after an unidentified customer played Donna Summer's hit "I Feel Love" 20 consecutive times so he grabbed a gun kept under the counter for protection against hold-ups and shot the juke box until it stopped playing.

But romance, not disco hatred, was Hofner's prime motive in the slaying. "That record was the one my girlfriend and I always danced to," he told police. "Right before that man kept playing it, she phoned me to say she didn't want to see me again."

Meanwhile in other disco news, Steve Dahl, the Chicago disc jockey who organized an anti-disco night that saw about 70,000 disco haters destroy tons of seamless mix vinyl in a near-riot, has cut his own record.

Titled "Do Ya Think I'm Disco?", Dahl describes the song as a not-so-reverent parody of the Rod Stewart hit "Do Ya Think I'm Sexy?". Backing Dahl up on the record are the troupe Teenage Radiation.

Welfare for students

WINNIPEG (CUP) — As Manitoba students face rising prices, astronomical rents and climbing tuition fees, refuge may soon be found at the welfare office.

Manitoba undergraduates are allowed to receive social assistance under provincial regulations. However, student aid regulations stipulate that students can only apply for welfare after they have borrowed the maximum amount available from student loans and still find the amount insufficient.

Now the University of Manitoba Students Union (UMSU) has gone to court to try and change the situation, arguing that the act and regulations are contradictory.

UMSU president Debra Slade says students, unlike any other eligible group, are in effect forced to go into debt before they can get financial aid through welfare.

Currently all students are required to apply for student aid and either be rejected or borrow the maximum allowable amount before they are considered for social assistance.

Slade said UMSU is hoping that if a case where a student is caught between these two conflicting requirements is presented the court's decision will be in the student's favour.

They say cutback?

EDMONTON (CUP) — Bert Hohol, the former Conservative Minister of Advanced Education and Manpower in Alberta, became one of the victims of education cutbacks at the University of Alberta this summer.

Hohol had been hired by the university's department of education as a seasonal lecturer this spring after he resigned his cabinet position in the Peter Lougheed government.

Hohol was scheduled to begin lecturing in educational psychology in June but poor registration led to course cuts and several classes, including Hohol's, were cancelled.

Hohol's class was one of the more widely publicized, since controversy surrounded his hiring. Hohol had implemented tuition increases, budget reductions and differential fees for foreign students while he was minister.

According to university officials there had been "very little" interest shown in advanced registration for Hohol's course. Hohol was on vacation and unavailable for comment.

U of C students lack spirit

CALGARY (CUP) — What happens to school spirit between Frosh Week and Bermuda Shorts Day became a burning issue to the University of Calgary's senate this summer.

So senate decided to take a page from the federal government and set up a five-member task force to investigate spirit on campus.

"We're not looking at manufacturing spirit," Bruce Ramsay, president of the Student Legislative Assembly and task force member, explained. But he said the task force will look at apathy on campus and concentrate on discovering ways and means of encouraging spirit.

Task force chairman Brian Norford says he hopes to investigate claims that spirit is high among some faculties and low in others and to see how serious the discrepancies are. He also wants to compare the U of C's spirit with that of other universities and determine how other campuses are dealing with the crucial situation.
