Rev. Father Wynn's Silver Jubilee.

Toronto, May 29, 1907. To the Editor of the CATHOLIC RECORD:

Dear Sir—Please insert the following in your next issue: Last Tuesday evening was most enjoyably spent at the Hall of the Catholic Young Ladies Literary Association, Montreal street, on the occasion being a presentation and address to the Rev. Father Wynn, in honor of his Silver Jubilee. A large number of the members and friends were present. After the business of the society was completed Miss L. Meyers offered the programme with a piano solo, 'La Virtue' by Blumhartz, which was followed by a song from Miss Katie O'Donoghue, 'I'll sing the songs of Araby' by Clay. Then the feature of the evening—an address by Miss Hart, in the form of a poem—after which Mrs. Kavanagh stepped forward and presented the Rev. Father with a golden vessel for carrying the Holy Oils. It was quite evident that the Rev. Father was visibly moved as everything was a surprise to him; however he made a most suitable reply, which was listened to with great interest. The programme was concluded by an instrumental solo, from Donizetti, entitled 'Le di di Lammermoor,' by Miss M. O'Donoghue.

The Young Ladies will be 'At Home' to their friends on Tuesday evening, June 1, when a most interesting programme is expected. P. S. I attach the copy of the address.

St. Peter's Branch, No. 21, Peterborough. The following resolutions were unanimously passed at the last regular meeting, held May 13. Whereas it has pleased Almighty God to bestow His infinite wisdom to call to His eternal reward, John McNeill, father of our worthy brother, Kenneth McNeill, be it therefore resolved that we, the members of the above branch, do tender to Bro. R. McNeill and relatives our heartfelt sympathy and condolence in this hour of their affliction, and pray that the favor of all God's mercies may enable them to bear with Christian fortitude the loss they have sustained. Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Bro. McNeill, and a copy sent to the official organ for publication.

At the last regular meeting of Div. No. 3, held in Cameron Hall, Thursday, May 13, the following program was read by O'Neill. Before reading it he told the Brothers that having seen a clipping from the Mail and Empire which went on to say that a British officer, a French soldier, and a German soldier, mated him for it. This is what Bro. O'Neill says:

I Will Never Throw the Shamrock to the Ground. BY J. P. O'NEILL. Private Griddle, without leave you wear a shamrock on your breast, Pluck it off at once and throw it on the ground. For this flagrant breach of duty, you are now under arrest; Unless at once you throw it on the ground, Her majesty's red tunic you dishonor with the green. I will make you an example which by others will be seen, For conduct unbecoming in the service of the Queen. Unless at once you throw it on the ground, I will never throw the shamrock on the ground. But beneath it beats an honest heart that never shamed the race; I will never throw the shamrock on the ground. You may threaten me with punishment and vengeance dire and steep; You may tear my tunic asunder and then cast me in the deep; But you can never, never make me hug my chains and weep. And I'll never throw the shamrock on the ground. The iron duke acknowledged and sure none can say him nay, I will never throw the shamrock on the ground. That without his Irish soldiers, a big war would bring dismay; I will never throw the shamrock on the ground. That Erin's brave and dashing sons, would fight until they'd die, They fought for him, in many lands with danger ever high; Without them weigh, our Waterloo would have been a Foutenoy. I will never throw the shamrock on the ground. May 1, 1807.

On the Victorian Order of Nurses.

DEDICATED TO LADY ABERDEEN.

Far away on prairie lands, Some toilers make their home, Their hands are brown with honest work, Few travellers near them roam. No sound near their hearth, No noise with them to stay, When the fevered brow and lonely couch, Fill the settler with dismay.

And on the lone and rocky coast, Where wild birds screaming fly, But never pause upon the wing, When the sailor dies on the bay, In his hamlet and village green, There's many a weary cot, Ah, who will soothe the aching brow, And who will bathe their lot?

In cities too, where rank and wealth, Oh! hear not misery's cry, Who the sailor did on his sick bed, Who is it comes along the path With noiseless tread and slow? Oh, she who soothes the weary heart, And whose scenes of woe.

She wears the red cross on her breast, The Victorian Nurse, whose mission is The sick alone to care, The sick and poor and desolate, And the birds sing as their command, May riches flow to this noble work, From every part of the land. It matters not what creed they have, No matter what their birth, The poor we should always love, We'll mortals need of us, Let this be the diamond of love, We offer to our gracious Queen, The Victorian Order of Nurses, Presented by Lady Aberdeen.

She foremost in the cause, No nobly led the way, To relieve the sick and suffering, Both near and far away, Oh the sick will always bless her, And the birds sing as their command, While we will fondly pray, That the birds sing as their command, Will descend on her each day.

NEW EDITOR FOR DONALD'S.

HENRY AUSTIN ADAMS TO DIRECT THE FUTURE OF THE MAGAZINE.

Donald's Magazine has secured the services of Henry Austin Adams of New York City as its new editor.

Mr. Adams is a convert to the Roman Catholic Church. He was born in Cuba about thirty-five years ago. He was educated there and at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., and his second at Great Barrington, Boston. In 1887 he was assistant to Dr. Dix, in 1889 he was called to Buffalo as pastor of St. Paul's, at a salary of $8,000 a year.

He has assumed charge of the Church of the Redeemer, New York, which was $95,000 in debt. He was considered one of the best preachers in New York city.

His first insight into the Catholic Church, he said, was gained one day while he was passing St. Martin's Church in Baltimore. He had been reading the organ and finally entered, and saw three priests at the altar and a casket containing a dead man in front of the altar. He was so impressed that he left the church with thoughts of the beautiful interior on his mind.

The visit to that church set him thinking, and he had a long talk with the nuns as to the Church he should attend, and finally there was a compromise, and he became a member of the Episcopal Church.

His career in the Episcopal Church was briefly reviewed, his change from the low to the high Church, and there he has remained. He told of his visit to England and his becoming a minister of the High Church. He graphically portrayed the condition of the church in England, and finally of his conversion to the Catholic faith, after his travels in Europe.

Mr. Adams will be assisted in the editorial department by Miss M. O'Sullivan, who edited the magazine in the interval since Mr. Dwyer's retirement.

More Honors.

On Wednesday evening of last week Mr. W. E. Mullins, who has left London to take a prominent position in the Grand Trunk Railway service, Toronto, was honored by the members of the Catholic Young Ladies Literary Association of this city. Mr. Mullins had been secretary of that association. This pleasant event took place at the Tecumseh House. Dr. Davis delivered a short address expressive of the society's regret at the departure of Mr. Mullins from London, and hoped he would make as many friends in Toronto as he was leaving behind.

The doctor then presented Mr. Mullins with a gold mounted silk umbrella on which was engraved the name of the society. Speeches were also made by Messrs. N. P. Graydon, John Dromgole, and M. F. O'Meara. Mr. Mullins replied in his usual happy style. Very few young men have left London so highly esteemed as Mr. W. E. Mullins.

Everybody takes pleasure in returning small obligations; many go so far as to acknowledge moderate ones; but there hardly any one who does not repay great obligations with ingratitude.

OBITUARY.

MARCELLA MACDONELL. Died, at St. Joseph's Convent, London, Ont., on April 28, Marcella, second daughter of the late Colonel James Macdonell, Belleville, Ont., this morning following her decease, Mass was celebrated in the convent chapel, by Rev. Father P. McKee, for the repose of her soul.

Her remains were taken by train to Detroit, and laid to rest in Mount Elliot cemetery, by the side of her sister, Mrs. Dupean McKee.

Of her immediate family only three survive, a sister and two brothers. Mother M. A. Macdonell, of St. Joseph's Convent, Toronto; Allan James Macdonell, London, Ont.; and John Scott Macdonell, New Westminster, B. C.

May her soul rest in eternal peace!

All who were privileged with Miss Macdonell's acquaintance during the short time of her residence in this city were charmed by her innate refinement and gentle courtesy as well as her bright and cheerful character. Although suffering keenly, her patience and resignation were truly admirable, and her perfect conformity at all times to the Divine Master's holy will has, we doubt not, been rewarded with His heavenly benediction.—ED CATHOLIC RECORD.

DAN HARRIE, ASHFIELD.

This week a feeling of sorrow prevails throughout our vicinity, since the sad news has reached us that one of our most esteemed young men has been suddenly called from this life by a most terrible accident—poor Dan Harrie, as he was familiarly known; an exemplary young man. We can well understand what a terrible cross this sudden shock is for his dear family. Their best assurance is that he was one of the most fitting to be thus chosen for such an untimely death. It is a consolation for his dear parents that, though far from his home, he possessed a character that would resist all temptations of the world, and be ever loyal to Faith and Duty. One who had such a deeply religious heart in his loss, and extend our sympathy to his bereaved family in this their hour of trial. May he rest in peace! A Friend.

HEARLE MCCARTHY, ASHFIELD.

CHARLED MCCARTHY, so young to die; So needed here, our darling one, Not there, for Heaven has need of none, And yet, how can we ever say? Heaven is so far, so far away, It may be that some special place, Lucked just that lovely angel face, Until our loved one found the way.

Though it is the beautiful May-time, the season of joy, there lingers within our happy school room the memory of a deep sorrow. Only a short time ago our dear little companion Charlie McCarthy, in the full enjoyment of life's choicest blessings—health, youth, and beauty; and besides these natural endowments he possessed many endearing charms that made him a special favorite. A bright, intelligent pupil, an amiable little schoolmate, his chief of many charms lay in his truthful, upright manner, which was a model for us all. To his sorrowing family, whose knowledge and love of him even exceeded our own, we tender our deepest sympathy. No mere human consolation will be of the slightest avail; such trials serve but to prove our total dependence on God. On behalf of the afflicted mother we invoke the Mother of Sorrows, that she may impart to her the consoling sweetness of resignation. God is merciful, and He must have foreseen the necessity of calling this little flower in all the beauty of the summer sunshine, before the frost of a cruel winter despoiled its freshness, and in the sweet hour of prime laid only a short time ago our dear little companion Charlie McCarthy, in the full enjoyment of life's choicest blessings—health, youth, and beauty; and besides these natural endowments he possessed many endearing charms that made him a special favorite. God is merciful, and He must have foreseen the necessity of calling this little flower in all the beauty of the summer sunshine, before the frost of a cruel winter despoiled its freshness, and in the sweet hour of prime laid only a short time ago our dear little companion Charlie McCarthy, in the full enjoyment of life's choicest blessings—health, youth, and beauty; and besides these natural endowments he possessed many endearing charms that made him a special favorite. A bright, intelligent pupil, an amiable little schoolmate, his chief of many charms lay in his truthful, upright manner, which was a model for us all. To his sorrowing family, whose knowledge and love of him even exceeded our own, we tender our deepest sympathy. No mere human consolation will be of the slightest avail; such trials serve but to prove our total dependence on God. On behalf of the afflicted mother we invoke the Mother of Sorrows, that she may impart to her the consoling sweetness of resignation.
