Saved by a Lamb

A TOUCHING incident is related by the venerable Pastor Funke in his charming sketches of travel: "In the month of August, 1865, I was one of a party of tourists who set out to visit the Cathedral of Werden. When we arrived we found the door locked, and we had to wait till it was opened.

"When the sacristan's wife, who was quite absorbed in weeding her little vegetable garden, was at last induced to go for the great key, we had nothing to do but to examine the majestic architecture of the outside of the church. Looking up, we perceived, at the top of a high tower, the figure of a lamb, sculptured in stone. We were observing it with interest and surprise when our guide returned, bringing the large key. Her wrinkled face looked like a chronicle; and, hoping that she knew the history of her cathedral, we pointed to the sculptured lamb, and asked why it was placed at the top of the tower.

"We had touched a long familiar string. At once her interest and eloquence were awakened.

"Ah, gentlemen, you are looking at the lamb. Long years ago a tiler, occupied in repairing the roof, stood where that stone lamb now stands. Suddenly the rope which held the scaffolding broke and the man fell from that great height. Everyone who saw him fall expected only to find his corpse, for the church was surrounded by large, sharp stones, collected for the repairs. They were sure that the poor man would be dashed to pieces. What was their surprise when they saw him get up without even a scratch!

"A little lamb had been quietly nibbling the grass among the blocks of stone, and the man had fallen exactly upon it. The lamb had been crushed to death, but the man was saved. He never rested till he had employed a sculptor to make a stone lamb and place it where you see it now, in token of his gratitude."

"I was so much interested by this touching incident, and especially by its resemblance to Christ, the 'Lamb that was slain for us—the Lamb of God, Who taketh away the sin of the world.'

"I entered the Cathedral with the rest, and saw its paintings and its carvings, its rich decorations and magnificent monuments; but I felt utterly indifferent to them all. I could think of nothing but the tiler and the lamb; and, above all, of the Lamb Who had given His life for me."—Good Words.

TAKE THE VISITORS ALONG.

A worker among the Indians in Brazil, after mentioning some of the grave difficulties of the work, adds this note of commendation:—

"There is one thing in which these people set an example—we have never known anyone to stay away from a meeting because they had visitors. They just bring them along, too, and in this way the Gospel is carried from one place to another."

The lesson which these ignorant heathen Indians teach is worth learning by many of us in our homes in Canada. During the holiday season there will be many visitors in homes all over Canada. They may come for a month or a fortnight, for a week-end, or perhaps just for Sunday tea. Sometimes it may seem easier and simpler for both host and hostess and visitors not to go to the church services. But what blessing may be lost to the regular church-goer as well as to "the stranger within our gates"—to say nothing of the disheartening effect of empty pews upon the minister. So let us all go to church.—East and West.
