0000000000000000 COLLABORATION

It was an ideal collaboration. Everybody said so, and, in theatrical affairs, everybody always knows. At the end of the third act it was so evident that the play was to be a success that the men left off asking each other the author could know about the stage, and the women decided that, after all, the color of the authoress' hair way much more nearly auburn than red.

The members of the profession in the circle determined to make the ac quaintance of the lucky young couple without delay; the critics in the stall felt a sense of relief at being able to say something really nice, for a change without wounding their all-too-tender consciences, and the friends of the management in the boxes immediately hurried round to congratulate anybody and everybody, from the leading lady to the barkers.

"And now," said the audience,
"they'll be able to get martied and live happily ever afterwards." For it was an open secret—as open as most theatrical secrets—that these clever collaborators were engaged to each other, and needed only the money that success would bring them to set of

at once for their honeymoon. It was rather a nervous business for them, getting into that hansom, but they managed it without any sacrifice of dignity, and the crowd had the satisfaction of hearing the author give the cab an address in the direction of West Kensington. "It's really awful good of you," said the authoress, as soon as they had turned the first corner, "to see me such a long way home! Are you sur you don't mind, Dick?" "Of course not," said the author.

"Yes, I do now, but wasn't it splendid the way our big scene caught on?"
'Ripping! Fairly knocked 'em! Bu I always knew it would. The difficulty was to make any manager believe it." 'Oh, they're so stupid!-all the one who refused it, I mean. I should think they'll be rather sorry now." "You bet! I had three offers for our next piece before I left the thea-"And I had two. That makes five altogether. We shall have a monopoly

There was a pause, until "May I light a cigarette?' he asked, rather

"What do you mean?" There was the slightest trace of suspicion in her tone. "I suppose you are." "It's all through that rotten play!"

"Don't say that. It's a good play."
"Yes, I know. But it's muddled things up frightfully. Do you remember the little tiff we had after one of the rehearsals?" "Do you mean about—about Mr.

"That isn't all," he went on lookin; out of the staircase window into the dark street. "I-I proposed to her to-night after the third act."

"Well?" The question came sharply throug? her set teeth. "She accepted me. He waited a moment, not daring to look at her. Then he went on, "I feel an awful brute. I ought to have told you before, when I found I was failing in love with her. But I didn't want to spoil the rehearsals, and-oh, for heaven's sake, say something!"

He turned quickly, wondering at her silence. She was leaning against the banisters, and her head was bent so that he could not see her face. "I won't ask you to forgive me now," he said, in a low voice; "but, per-

She laid her hand heavily on his sleeve, but kept her face turned away, He waited for her to speak, and in the stillness that followed he heard a hansom pull up at the entrance below. There was the quick step of a man's foot on the stairs, and then-

"Turner!" gasped the author. "Hallo!" said Turner; "brought the wife home for me? Good man!" And he escorted his beaming bride up the remaining flight of stairs.

A little boy and a little bug. The boy was Dicky. The bug was little Misress Tumblebug, and she was slowly and carefully crawling up a sloping mound of earth, carrying home a bit of something good for her bables' breakfast, says the Youth's Companton. But every time she reached the top of the little mound Dickey would tip her over on her back, when she would roll helplessly down to the hot-tom again, while Dickey shouted with laughter. It was such fun-so Dicky

The litle bug was a curious and persevering little creature, however. No sooner would she land all in a heap on the bottom than another brave effort to reach the top would be begun. She would wiggle slowly over her feet and begin to crawl up again, only to he tipped over on reaching the top, and to roll down the little hill again. Dicky has come, we'll make 'em pay, eh? I laughed till the tears stood in his eyes feel that I've got a lot to get back op —the little tumblebug did look so funny, rolling heels over head down hill! The little bug did not laugh, although I'm not sure but that tears ground behind Dicky. It was all so real that the little boy would tremble all over, and cry as if his heart would break. But Ben would laugh, and, snatching off Dick's cap, which was the joy of his heart, would promise to rub it in the dirt, or to cut the top out with his knife. He finished his "fun"—as he called it this morning by standing Dicky on his head in the dirt; then went of laughing, with Dicky screaming after him, through his sobs: "It's mean, mean, mean for a great big fellow to plague a little fellow so!" Then Dicky rubbed the sears out of his eyes, brushed the dirt off his clothes, and finished just in time, to find the little tumblebug triumphanth reaching the top of the little mound of

A Common Form of Indigestion

Which cannot be cured by ordi nary stomach medicines-The kidneys, liver and bowels become derarged - Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver rills.

By far the most important part of By far the most important part of digestion takes place in the intestines. as has been repeatedly shown in cases where the stomach has been removed and the patient has lived and digested food without the aid of the stomach. It frequently happens that people who continually dose the stomach for indigestion and use pepsin and various kinds of digestive tablets and powders can obtain no relief from such treatment, because the real trousuch treatment, because the real trom-ble is in the intestines, the liver and the kidneys.

There is fullness and pains after meals, coated tongue, headache, loss of appetite, pains in the limbs and in the back and shoulders, flatulency and constipation, frequently alternating with diarrhoea.

In cases of intestinal indigestion the liver and kidneys usually become clogged and sluggish in action, and poisonous impurities are left in the blood, which should be removed by these filtering organs. There has yet to be a remedy discov ered that is so prompt and thorough in curing intestinal indigestion as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. And as this is the most common and severe form of indigestion it can well be claimed that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Pills are the most successful treat-ment extant for indigestion and dysepsia. Mr. Walter Booth, Consecon, Prince Edward Co., Ont., states: "I was trou-bled for some years with kidney and liver disease, and pains in my back, and my stomach was so bad I could not eat hearty food and had difficulty in keeping any food in my stomach in keeping any food in my stomach I was so nervous that I could scarcely take a drink of water without spill ing much of it, my hand trembled so, and I had lost flesh until my weight fell from 155 to 138 pounds.

"Hearing of a similar case that was cured by Dr. Chase's Remedies, I commenced by taking Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, six boxes of which entirely cured my kidney and liver troubles. I then began Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for my nervousness. It strengthened my stomach and whole system and gained in flesh. I cannot speak in terms of too great praise for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Nerve ood, for besides curing me they did my father, who is an old man, a great deal of good. I have every confidence in recommending these remedies."

Mr. J. J. Ward, J. P., certifies that he knows Mr. Walter Booth and that this statement of his cure is perlectly correct.

fectly correct.

It is not unusual for persons who have long been suffering from chronic indigestion, biliousness and constipation to be thoroughly cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which have by far the largest sale of any similar remedy. You may be skeptical, as others have been before you, but a single trial of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will convince you of Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which have by far the largest sale of any similar remedy. NINETEEN PARLIAMENTS. ecording to Tit-Bits There Are That Number in the British Empired

There are, says London Tit Bits. ineteen parliaments in the British Empire, ten in British North Amerca, seven in Australia, and two in South Africa, to which might perhaps be added (though not ments in the same sense) the preme Government of India and the Presidency of Bengal, which are both situated in Calcutta. The ten British North American Parliaments are the Dominion Parliament of Canada, which meets at Ottawa; the Parliament of Newfoundland, which meets at St. John's; the Parliament of Prince Edward Island, which meets at Charlottetown; of Nova Scotia, which meets at Halifax; of

New Brunswick, at Fredericton; Quebec Province, at Quebec; of On-tario, at Toronto; of Manitoba, at Winnipeg; of the Northwest Territories, at Regina; and of British Columbia, which meets at Victoria, Vancouver Island. The seven Austraian parliaments are those of New Zealand, at Wellington; Victoria, at Melbourne; New South Wales, at Sydney: Queensland, at Brisbane; South Australia, at Adelaide; Western Australia, at Perth; and Tasman-ia, at Hobart. The two South African Parliaments are those of the Fascinations of Bridge. One of the strange features of bridge is the extraordinary fascination it has for beginners; the mere fact of winning or losing seems to be overlooked by the novice in the delightful speculation of declaring a trump suit or the novelty of doubling the adversaries's call. No harsh criticism on the part of his partner or sarcastic reference to his inabil-ity to count thirteen cards can cool his ardour. With the fervor of a convert he insists on his right of cutting into a table, and although at the end of the rubber the other players find various and cogent reasons for leaving off, he with a light heart and probably a lighter purse calmly awaits the formation of a new table.
