

THE HAMILTON TIMES

THURSDAY, NOV. 4, 1909.

FACE THE FACTS.

The Hamilton Herald is so hard put to it to squirm out of the hole in which our exposure of its tactics in the Hydro contract matter has placed it that it devotes columns to abuse of the Times, founded upon the fact that we did not give one or two concise statements in its own words, reprint an entire editorial of considerable length. It was not necessary; the extracts express clear opinions; they are not "garbled," and nothing in that or any other conspiracy editorial could affect them. It declared that "the form of contract is not what it ought to be." It further expressed the opinion that "it would not be prudent" for the city to sign a monopoly contract for power. Those statements are as true as they ever were; the contract is as imprudent and "imprudent." The organ, by some means or other, has since that been brought to use its worst efforts to force it on the city. Why, think you, reader?

This Hydro-Electric power scheme has already cost Hamilton a good many thousands of dollars direct, and it has interfered with its progress to no small extent. While other places less advantageously situated have been attracting industries, the Hydro advocates have been advertising our city as being in the grasp of a tyrannical and insatiable electric monopoly. This was false, of course, as they well knew, but how were outsiders to know it, when the local conspirators set up the cry, and even regularly furnished outside papers with falsely colored reports to give it the appearance of truth? The agitation has injured Hamilton in many ways; has prevented the progress of transportation feeders for Hamilton, and helped to keep business from our merchants. Let the shameful libelling of Hamilton cease. If the Hydro Commissioners will not give us at cost rates the 1,000 horsepower we are willing to take, and exempt us from the monopoly clause, we may be sure that their reason for so deciding is not one to encourage us to enter the bigger scheme. Tell them to pass on, and let us use our own cheaper power entirely. We are sure of it, with all proper safeguards.

THE SAN JOSE SCALE.

The Maryland peach growers are fearful that their industry will be ruined unless some more effective method of fighting the San Jose scale can be discovered. Entire orchards are destroyed by it, and but indifferent success has followed the efforts to combat its ravages by various kinds of sprays. The United States Government Agricultural Department has given the subject much attention, and its work will not be without interest to our own fruit-growers.

Some years ago the experts of the department thought that speedy and sure extermination would be brought about by a beetle, the ladybird. The original home of the scale was in the Chinese orchards near Peking. At the same time the ladybird was discovered. It fed industriously upon the scale, and at once the practicality of introducing it in the United States suggested itself to Prof. Marlatt, of the Department of Agriculture, who had conducted the search. Prof. Marlatt sent about two hundred of these beetles to America, but unfortunately only about thirty arrived alive, and of that number all but two died during the winter. In shipping these beetles they were placed in small wooden boxes packed full of scale-infested twigs, and sent through the mails, with the exception of one package, personally taken across the Pacific by Miss Laura Bell, and mailed in Vancouver.

The shipments, so far as they could be controlled, were made to catch the Canadian Pacific steamers to obtain the advantage of the northern and much cooler air as well as the shorter passage. Nevertheless, it probably took them four or five weeks for the material sent from Japan and a week or more longer for the material sent from China to reach its destination. The high percentage of mortality may also be accounted for by the probability that a good many of the beetles collected were old.

The experience was not encouraging, but from the two surviving about 200 eggs were obtained. After 100 larvae had been hatched indoors the parent beetles were placed on a large plum tree in the experimental orchard, and protected by a wire screen cage covering the tree. All of the indoor hatched larvae were afterward transferred to this tree, and before the death of these imported insects, about the end of May, more than 200 larvae were in various stages of development. From this beginning the stock increased very rapidly, and to accommodate them several other large cages were constructed, covering pear trees infested with San Jose scale, and by midsummer many beetles were liberated in the orchard.

The department began in 1902 to send out ladybirds to eastern experiment stations. Probably over 1,000 specimens have been distributed. There have been reports of success in propagating the ladybirds, but as yet it has not proved to be a speedy remedy for the scale. It is not too late, however, for it to make good. If it does what was hoped for, it will be a great boon to our horticulturists.

To-morrow is Guy Fawkes' Day. Now, always they do not use gun powder to blow up Parliamentarians; there is always natural gas aplenty for that purpose.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The State of Alabama is suffering from financial stringency caused by the prohibitory law reducing the revenue. It will get over that. It is merely a matter of adjustment that will take a year or two.

Hearst says he is pleased with the result of the New York elections. As he was tail-end in the Mayoralty contest the people have reason to be gratified with that feature of the election anyway.

Officials of the Hamilton Steel & Iron Company deny the rumor that control of the industry has been passed to the C. P. R., but intimate that there will be a very important increase in plant and business activities. Our people will be pleased to hear that.

The Beach is said to be becoming "a rich man's preserve." For some years it has been growing more expensive, and recent regulations affecting education tend to make Beachers who have families to support by their labor think about getting hence.

It is amusing to hear the organ of the conspirators against the city babbling about "the people" being "worked up to a white heat of indignation" because the conspiracy failed on Monday night. The Herald declares that it is "the people" hardly deserves itself.

Hon. J. S. Hendrie, are you satisfied with the role you have been cast to play in this Hydro-Electric performance? Are you willing to be a mere piece of "property," an echo of Adam Beck, or a door mat for Solicitor Lobb? Have you any duty to perform toward your own city?

Mayor McClellan, of New York, has appointed three women to the Board of Education of the city. This is the second time that women have had a place on the Board. Assuming that the right women have been selected, there is every reason to believe that they may render excellent service.

A. E. Kemp, Tory ex-M. P., told Toronto Tories last night that the Conservative party should not be held responsible for the defence resolution unanimously adopted by Parliament, which policy Mr. R. L. Borden, the Conservative leader, strongly supports. Has Kemp his dagger out for Borden, too?

If it is that man Lobb who seeks to bulldoze Hamilton in the power matter, perhaps Hon. Mr. Hendrie might show him his place. If, however, Hon. Mr. Hendrie is with the conspirators to "do" the city, the council may as well cut loose from the power scheme at once. In any event it must not permit the city to be "done."

Since Mr. R. L. Borden delivered his Toronto speech in approval of the Government's naval policy, there has been a somewhat remarkable silence in the direction of the aperture in Hon. R. P. Robin's face. Even Hon. Mr. McBride has felt impelled to bridge his tongue. Will the party "rebellion" perish thus young?

There is much complaint in Toronto of the poor showing made at the recent examinations by the Collegiate Institute pupils in reading, writing and spelling. Provincial Inspector Spotton says that they were specially poor in spelling. There is a danger of devoting so much time to educational facts that the ordinary English subjects of a good primary education are neglected.

No doubt, having entered the conspiracy against the city, the Herald bitterly regrets having in a better moment condemned the Hydro contract as being "not what it ought to be," and warning the people that "it would not be prudent" to sign it; but why rail at the Times? It is not the Times that has proved recreant to the people and is obliged to try to deny its own words!

The sale of a portion of the Gillies Limit by the Government for $10,000 did not prevent a company that bought it from finding it to be worth $5,000,000, and capitalizing it at that figure. As the Whitney-adoring Toronto Telegram sorrowfully says: "The Gillies Limit does not look like one of the points of excellence in the work of the Whitney Government." But some favorites get a chance to make a fortune at the expense of the people.

We have heard a good deal recently about the "home work evil," but we have never been able to give our unserved approval to the condemnation of home work. Indeed, we are inclined to think that there is a good deal of fuss about this "grievance." The Moose Jaw Times very sensibly says: "Home study, like any other good thing, can be over done, especially in the lower forms. But among the larger scholars, it is too often the case that the less there is of home study the more there is of street walking." Home work has a vast balance of good in its favor.

The Federal Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia has confirmed the sentences for imprisonment for contempt of court imposed upon Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison, who undertook to set the laws of the United States at defiance. The judgment may not—probably will not—end the matter, as the Supreme Court of the United States may yet be appealed to. But it begins to look as if the United States were bigger even than Gompers, and that if that worthy lives long enough he may yet do some productive work, even if it be inside of a prison. The result will be good, if it teach the lesson that no man is so big that he can defy the laws of the country.

Carnegie has returned to New York and has been talking about the war scares. That he takes no stock in them is made clear by the following:

You know how I stand on the subject of universal peace. It is a disgrace that the nations should be building to destroy each other. England is in a state of frenzy about a war with Germany. The feeling is entirely uncalculated for, as Germany has no idea of fighting anybody. If there is any war between England and Germany, it will be a commercial one. I think commercial wars do not usually lead to the clash of arms.

The Hamilton Herald in its role of spider to the city fly pleads that as Hon. John S. Hendrie is on the Commission we should not fear to sign the Hydro contract without the safeguarding clauses, as "he would not get an injustice done to the city." If Mr. Hendrie has no influence enough—or is not willing to use it—to have the very simple clauses inserted now to safeguard the city, why should we expect that he will have more influence, or be more willing to use it, once we are safely in the trap of the Hydro conspirators? Ask yourself, you sensible alderman or ratepayer!

The candidates for the by-election are now in the field in West Middlesex, and there is every prospect of a warm but short contest. Mr. Duncan C. Ross has no easy task before him to hold the constituency, his predecessor's majority being an exceedingly narrow one; but he is going into the fight with vigor, and with a policy which merits the favor of the electors. His opponent, Mr. McLaughlin, is a renegade Liberal, having deserted his party some years ago, and all the force which the Conservative party can muster will be exercised in his behalf.

The Blue Book of Public Accounts for the fiscal year has just been issued. It shows a surplus of $1,029,171 on consolidated fund account. The total capital expenditure for the year was $42,593,166. Of this, nearly $36,000 was on railways, nearly $25,000 of the amount being invested in the National Transcontinental. The iron and steel bounties of the year amounted to $1,864,614. The year's deficit on the Intercolonial Railway was $800,052. Under the new system of management of the Government railway, it is believed that the regular annual deficits have been ended.

Building Inspector Anderson came to the aid of the would-be plumbing inspector last night by making a plea for such an official in his annual report to the Fire and Water Committee. It is just 20 years ago since the effort was begun to saddle the ratepayers with the salary of such an official. It has been repeated each year. There has always been a man ready to draw the salary, and much diligent wire-pulling has been resorted to to get him the berth. Hamilton has saved a good deal of money in that time by not having him, and nobody is worse off except the fellow who didn't get the salary.

The Times cannot but think that the effort of the city representatives to default on the terms of the annexation of 1903, by securing the repeal of the proclamation conditions that give Barton residents, in certain circumstances, the privilege of city sewer connections and water supply at 50 per cent. advance on city rates, was ill-advised and discreditable. The city has much to gain and nothing to lose by the arrangement, and nothing but spite can be advanced to excuse the effort to default. That should be beneath the City Council or its servants. It is much to be regretted that such an effort should have been made.

The London Express, in commenting on a French critic's view of the recent German military manoeuvres, says: "It is a remarkable fact that the more the nations, or rather their military departments, play at soldiers the more the mass of the inhabitants in those countries detest the idea of war. Our French critic's summing up compels us to infer that the 100,000 German soldiers engaged in these manoeuvres must have felt worried and bored to death." Added to the disgust and fatigue of the men, the airship manoeuvres proved a fizzle, the military aeronautes and their machine coming to earth in the enemy's camp!

The Sudbury Daily Star, commenting upon the fact that $30,000 in fines for illegal liquor selling in northern Ontario has been collected, expresses the belief that it is time a change was made in dealing with the liquor traffic in that territory. It says:

It will be remembered that soon after the Whitney Government took office the pledge was given that no more licenses would be issued in northern Ontario, and that the law against unlicensed selling would be vigorously enforced. But illegal selling has been going on continuously and enforcement has been taken place only by fits and starts. In fact the resulting system may be described by saying it is virtually one of informal, irregular and demoralizing license.

The Star suggests that it would be preferable to legitimize the sale of liquors under Government officials, rather than submit to this demoralizing traffic.

HE WAS THE OTHER PARTY.
(Catholic Standard and Times.)

"I want you to put in your 'Lost and Found' column an advertisement like this: 'Wanted—containing considerable sum of money and papers. Finder will keep money; return papers.'"
"Don't you think," suggested the clerk, "you had better add 'no questions asked.'"
"No, but you may say 'no questions answered.' I'm the finder."

Our Exchanges

THREE-FIFTHS.

(Guelph Mercury.)

Str James Whitney says he would like to have all Ontario on the water wagon, but he uses the three-fifths clause to keep as many off as possible.

FOLLOWS A SHINING EXAMPLE.

(Boston Transcript.)

"Wilkins is quite a star as an after-dinner speaker."
"Star! He's a regular moon. The fuller he gets the brighter he becomes."

CHAMPION AGITATOR.

(Galt Reformer.)

Trust Billy Maclean, of the Toronto World, to hint up hobbies. Billy's late is suffragetteism. Ireland should hire him for a season. He's a world-beater as an agitator.

PLENTY OF IT.

(Toronto Star.)

Gum chewers will be concerned to learn that the chicle tree is threatened with extinction. No such fate, however, threatens the source of supply of those who chew the rag.

JIM KNOWS.

(Grimsby Independent.)

The great trouble with a great many magistrates in this country is that they convict on their own prejudices or private feelings or perhaps street talk, instead of on the actual evidence produced in court.

A CONSULTATION.

(Harper's Bazar.)

Gladys—Well, what did Miss Doctor Cleverton say was the cause of your extreme paleness?

Grace—Well, she has described to me a hat and waist that will go beautifully with it.

A MAN.

(Brantford Courier.)

The only bright spot in connection with that Robinson case is the splendid conduct of Rev. Mr. Mathieson, who has given up the ministry to run the farm for the disgraced family. He's evidently a man.

WHAT WE'VE STOLEN.

(Berlin Telegraph.)

A few days ago the business men of St. Catharines conducted a big excursion from outlying county points into the city to counteract the prevailing tendency of people to go to the larger centre of Hamilton to do their buying. According to the St. Catharines Standard and the city of the Hamilton has "stolen" practically five townships of Lincoln, besides a large part of the trade of Caistor, Gainsboro, North and South Grimsby, and Clinton townships.

POPULAR IMPERTINENCE.

(Victoria Times.)

It is intolerable to think that mere ordinary people, whose proper business it is to pay the taxes out of which the salaries of ministers and the subsidies of active ministerial supporters are paid, should wish to see that alleged contract with the Canadian Northern Railway Company. Really bore such inquisitive and suspicious people are at present just to vote right and pay taxes without protest, the lot of peevish people in power would be a most happy one.

RENDER UNTO CAESAR.

(Stratford Beacon.)

His Lordship Bishop DuMoulin, of Hamilton, appealed against his income assessment on the ground that it was too low. This was certainly a fine example, and gives pretty strong testimony to the fact that the bishop practices the doctrine he preaches, on one point at all events, honesty. It is a duty to be honest to the municipality and the state, although there are a great many people who call themselves Christians who do not think it wrong to escape the payment of taxes or of customs duties, though they may have to resort to some pretty sharp practices to do it.

BLINK BONNIE.

Fine Concert There To-night For the Boys' Home

At Blink Bonnie, the home of Col. and Mrs. Moodie, this evening, a high class concert is to be given in aid of the Boys' Home. For such a cause it should be very largely patronized. The programme is as follows:
Aeolian-Organ overture—Poet and Peasant
Mr. J. R. Moodie.
Baritone solo—The French Hussar
Mr. Orville Quigley.
Organ—The Poem of the Sea
Mr. C. Percival Garratt.
Soprano solo—
(a) Airs Moi ..... Bemberg
(b) Seleg Song ..... Greig
Miss Estella Carey.
Violin solo—The Swan ..... Saint Saens
Miss Jean Pennington.
Aeolian-Organ—
(a) Voices of Chimes ..... Luigini
(b) Venetian Song ..... Tosti
(Introducing the harp.)
Mr. J. R. Moodie.
Contralto solo—
(a) Dreaming ..... Shelley
(b) Sing, Happy Birds ..... Little
Miss Esther Horne.
Organ—
(a) Melody in F ..... Rubenstein
(b) Scotch Melody ..... Watts
Mr. C. Percival Garratt.
Aeolian-Organ—The Lost Chord, Sullivan
Mr. J. R. Moodie.
Organ—Fantasie on Familiar Airs
Mr. C. Percival Garratt.

CAREY BROS. AGAIN.

The Carey Bros. will be in Association Hall on Saturday with another excellent programme of moving pictures and illustrated songs. Their recent programmes have been of the very highest quality and the audiences were delighted. The singing is a feature of the programme, above the ordinary. With direct current of electricity, the pictures are as plain as real life and well put on. The management is careful to have no pictures thrown on the canvass that would offend the most sensitive tastes, and the patronage of ladies and children is specially solicited.

A DEADLY CANKER.

Socialism Kills Manly Spirit and Stifles Ambition.

(Cor. New York Sun.)

The State, under the socialistic regime, is to be turned into a gigantic charitable institution managed by a horde of office-holders no better or worse than the average man. A living is to be guaranteed to everybody—the most immoral proposition ever put forth. Everything that is given free undermines the character of the receiver. Every man who is guaranteed immunity from want tends to become a pauper. All dependence is a degradation. Every reward that is not earned by the sweat of the brow is a theft.

A slavery worse than that which ever prevailed in ancient times would follow the erection of the socialistic State. By destroying the competitive system the principle of nature, would be sapped at the core; men, always certain of life and the necessities, would lose the one supreme characteristic of their manhood, the ability to struggle and conquer. Under socialism we should have a race of machines with all initiative gone, ruled by a gigantic trust called the State, that would regulate the minutest affairs of life—on a theory that things could be "improved" thus.

All power tends to abuse. History gives us that as a universal truth. A power that owns all the means of production would end by owing the production and distribution of all that comes from the people would ultimately end by owing the consumers and distributors themselves. All forces seek the extreme of motion. Socialism means, in the end, decay. It is absolutism masked as "the brotherhood of man." It is an old foe, with a new catchword. Absolutism, tempered by a system of co-operative almsgiving, that is what we find of socialism to be when the cold steel of analytical thinking has cut away the tinsel and gauze of fine speech.

A man should be helped to make a better fight, to give a deadlier blow, to strike surer if he shows signs of weakening; but he should be guaranteed nothing except death if he fails. Injustice is as equal distribution of goods. All men are born unequal. Socialism is confiscation—always popular with those who have nothing.

Whatever there is great has been done in the world by the individual. The individual is nature's unit value. Telephones, telegraphs, railroads, canals, cables, all that makes for material progress, have been the work of individual initiative, goaded on by pride and stern necessity; and it is safe to say that wherever the State has attempted to regulate unduly those things that are the property of the individual decay has followed.

Man's only right is a competitive right. Any form of government that guarantees him any other right except the right to seek for his living by labor or weakens him. Rational government merely polices the arena. The rest it leaves to the individual.

DUNDAS.

W. O. Sealey First to See the Canal Dancer.

Dundas, Nov. 4. To W. O. Sealey, M. P., belongs the credit of informing the town of the proposal of the C. N. R. to cross the canal by means of a bridge much lower than that used by the C. P. R. The information was contained in a letter to Mayor Lawton, intended to be submitted to the Council.

Among visitors in town during the past few days were Mr. and Mrs. Haliday, Toronto, with R. T. Wilson; Miss Lela Jacques, Simcoe, with Mrs. Chas. Rowe; Mrs. Thompson, Toronto, with Mrs. Stamford; Robt. Y. Ogg, Detroit, with W. H. Moss; Miss Bertha Ogden with Miss Adele Gratton; Miss Hart, Toronto, with Miss Jessie Wilson; Mrs. Season Cockburn, Winona, with Mrs. Cochenour; Mrs. Will, Moore, Vancouver, B. C., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wilson.

The new high school building will be formally opened on Friday afternoon, the 12th inst., and in the evening of the same day the commencement entertainment will be held in the Town Hall, for which a programme of unusual excellence is being arranged.

Paul Lunn left on Monday to attend St. Michael's College, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lyons and Mrs. Joseph Moss were visitors with Brantford friends during the week.

Cameron Coulter left this morning for Rainy River, where he has a position with a lumber company.

Mrs. Percy Manning and little daughter, Mary, of Edmonton, Alberta, arrived in town on Sunday evening to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. K. Millard.

Frank and Miss Cummings leave today for Owen Sound, being called there by the sudden death of their cousin, T. J. Hutton, a druggist, and brother of Judge Hutton.

The banns were published at St. Augustine's Church on Sunday for the approaching marriage of Mr. John Knight and Miss Loretta Dwyer, West Flamboro.

Two fresh cases of scarlet fever were reported yesterday, and two cases of diphtheria in the vicinity of the stone quarry.

Miss Sara Bowman is visiting in Toronto.

Miss Dell Grafton is visiting friends in London.

Miss Brennie Burton, Toronto, is visiting at her home here.

P. Quinn and H. Hever moved their families to Toronto on Saturday.

Miss Frances Chasels, of Waterdown, was a visitor in town over Sunday.

Mrs. Jas. Somerville entertained a few friends to afternoon tea on Wednesday.

Miss Gibson, Toronto, and Mrs. John H. Bertram, Grimsby, are visitors at Col. Bertram's.

Mr. Warner, of Philadelphia, paid a visit on Tuesday to his parents here, before leaving for the Philippines.

In the Orange Hall last night the anniversary of the Gunpowder Plot was celebrated by holding a concert. John W. Dickson was in the chair and the attendance was good. The programme was given by Mrs. T. Bowker and Master Bowker, of Hamilton; Wilfrid Reynolds, Dundas; T. J. Marks, Hamilton; Frank and Miss Kenneth, Dundas; Bert Baker, Dundas. Mrs. Hensler presided at the piano. The affair was very enjoyable.

The Executive of the North West.
