TOPICS OF THE DAY.

The intelligent compositor and the observant proof-reader on an evening contemporary must have been the recipients of several complimentary titles, for so closely striking the mark in the judicial news published last evening.

Those who hint that the resignation of the city assessors was due to the lack of qualification are away off. The action is merely an expression of the part of our "Reform" Council to institute reform. We were somewhat excited over their recent inactivity, but now we breathe easier.

Mr. Jeremiah Jordan, who was elected the other day to represent South Meath in the British Commons is a staunch Presbyterian. South Meath is the most Catholic county in Ireland. This fact is another cheering sign of the liberality of the Catholic majority, and a further refutation of the stale charge that Home Rule means Rome rule.

The position of County Judge of Prince County is yet unfilled. Almost each day a new name is mentioned in connection with the appointment, and already Dame Rumor has enough candidates in the field to fill the whole judiciary of the Province. Will the present be another instance of the unexpected happening and the dark horse coming first under the wire?

Mr. Gladstone still continues to win in the bye-elections. The Ulster orangemen will have to threaten something more serious than forcible resistance to Home Rule if they wish to bring the English electors to their senses. Another manifesto from grand master Richard K. Kane, L.L.D., threatening to go over and wipe out the whole English people might have the desired effect.

The expected has happened. The ungodly men who compose our "Reform" Council are at Bergerheads, and the business of the city is left to look after itself. The old comely adviser, the interests of the citizens, but because they did not all express themselves in Addisonian English when in council the Reformers said they must go. They went, but the change has certainly not been for the better.

If you look into the dealings of the gentlemen who are fondlest in their denunciation of "combines and monopolists," you will find that a good many of them are tarred with the same stick as Mr. Edgar. The member for West Ontario has been exclaiming against the cotton monopoly, but Mr. Northrop points out that this same gentleman engineered a railway combine which enabled one road to monopolize and gobble up all the roads in the country, and which robbed Belleville of $300,000, by legislative enactment—Empire.

The Irish National League of America has denounced Gladstone's Home Rule Bill. The Irish people through their representatives have accepted the measure. The former represents a handful of disgruntled mischief makers, who would not be satisfied with anything less than the earth and the fulness thereof; the latter for whose special benefits the measure is intended number over three million people. Every one will therefore readily see that the request of the former should be acceded to.

The grins have at last found a few more crumbs of comfort. It was expected that a vote would be reached in the commons last night on Mr. Laurier's amendment, and that there would be several defections from the conservative ranks. They asserted that Messrs. McCarthy, O'Brien, Calvin and two Maritime men would vote with them. The very anticipation made them exceedingly jubilant. The government however counted upon a majority in the vicinity of sixty. We cannot begrudge them their joy; but the fact that government majorities in the first session of the present parliament ranged from fifteen to twenty-five, shows how easily they are soled.

Ernest Wiman has been given the G. R. from the Dunn Mercantile Agency. In commercial phraseology the announcement says the dissolution was brought about by mutual consent. Mr. R. C. Dunn, the head of the agency, says different. In an interview he expressed himself thus: "I concluded lately that the right of the firm was entirely too much time to maintain outside of our office, and I requested him to withdraw." Evidently Mr. Wiman has been devoting too much of his time to construct a new platform for our Liberal friends. All the previous bills manufactured by him for that party proved useless, but this one it is sure will stand the test. It would really be too bad should it evaporate otherwise, when we consider that the loss of its designers commercial status was the price.

Prince of the about people in Nova Scotia died last week. They were, Malouin, who lived at Charlottetown, N. S., in the year 1810, and was an ancestor and ancestor of the late Premier, Mr. W. A. Weeks.

The fund Crinoline vs. anti-Crinoline seems to grow sparsely. Already some of the old ones are in use, and we declare that their use is not only a matter of health, but also of fashion. Mrs. W. A. Weeks, who is a member of the Crinoline Society, has been seen in the streets with her old-fashioned dress.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 26.—Until the dreary debate on the Budget comes to an end, the proceedings of the House will be devoid of general interest. The speakers on both sides instead of striking up a new line of argument, are busy with dealing almost entirely with ancient history. It is possible, however, that a few of the speakers in favor of the Budget will refer to the fact that the Dominion of Canada is now in the hands of the British Empire.

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—As soon as the House opened this afternoon, Mr. McCarthey presented a bill for the purpose of amending the law relating to the Dominion of Canada. The bill was read a second time, and the House adjourned.

The Canadian Pacific railway has been regarded as a great undertaking. But it was not so gigantic a scheme as the trans-continental railway which Russia has on hand. When the great Siberian railway is completed St. Petersburg will be connected with the Pacific Ocean by an almost direct line entirely on Russian territory. The intention is to have the whole line completed in less than twelve years or in 1904. The length of line to be constructed in Siberia, is 4,700 miles, and the estimated cost $200,000,000. Work is in progress on the Pacific section connecting with the railway system of European Russia. It is expected that 252 miles of road from Vladivostok on the Pacific westward will be completed next year. Two years later the road will be completed more than a thousand miles eastward from the European frontier. Working from each end in the present intention is to bring the two sections together in twelve years, as above stated.—Exchange.

DUTY OF THE HOUR.

The present is a critical juncture in the history of our Provincial politics, and the friends of the "Reform" Government are likely to do during the coming session of the Legislature. Our readers are now sufficiently conversant with that politically iniquitous measure, the "reserved bill," to which we made some reference last week. This is a fair sample of the kind of liberty our so-called "Liberal" Government are willing to deal out to the electors. Thus far they have failed in their attempt to have it become the law of the land; but, no doubt, they will reintroduce the bill with such modifications as may insure its receiving the assent of the Chief Executive of the Province.

This is the political condition of affairs that confronts our electors. Our political rights are about to be jeopardized; our franchise to be curtailed, and our election law to be generally tampered with. FARMERS COLUMN.

The publishers of the Herald, representing the interests of the agricultural community, are glad to see the position which Agriculture holds, and ever will hold in the industrial life of the Province, will be maintained by a Department of Agriculture, especially to the interests of the agricultural classes. At the request of the publishers, the writer is glad to see that the Department for the time being, and it will contain from week to week selections from current agricultural literature as may be deemed to be interesting or instructive to those engaged in the various branches of the industry. I will, however, occupy my allotted space in this issue with some general observations upon the subject.

The Department of Agriculture, which exists, and the various branches thereof, for conducting agricultural operations upon similar lines, has not followed in the past. The ever changing conditions of the country and of the market at home and abroad, render it imperative that no one engaged in agriculture as in every other industrial occupation, should be left in the dark as to the latest news of the day.
