The Home Secretary announced in Dear Sir .- It's a long time since the House of Commons to-day that the had the plisure of writin' to yees, as he said: "I realized the changes, Government had ordered a brigade of mestif and Peg are so very busy wid which the fools of my class have not infantry to proceed to Liverpool, and the hay and praties, but as some ginseen. A decade ago the House of that it was determined to preserve ortleman here has mustered up courage enough to expose the doins of the Picnic Party wid dis Post Office and Customs business, and 'tis mesilf that can't howld me tongue. As Peggy The condition of the Supreme Ponwas sayin' last night, says she, I was up to the Post Office lookin' for a letter from Tim, and I meets the owld Post Office man, and says I, is there a Gentlemen, - I have used MIN letter here from Tim? and begor he ARD'S LINIMENT on my vessel and shets his eyes as close as wax, and. thirty thousand dockmen were re- in my family for years, and for the says he, we only look over our own fused employment until they decide to every day ills and accidents of life I letters; and wid the same I sees a feller behind the counter wid specs I would not start on a voyage withon, and I axes him, and begor he looks at me and says no; and sure the next I does is to go out and see Schr. "Storke." St. Andre, Kamourathe lokey, and 'tis dere I see an auburn complexioned feller under a PATIENT FOR HOSPITAL. - Miss straw hat, and the agent tells me that bovine type transmitted to children in Warren, of Fox Island, arrived here he's the Customs man; and then sure Spain, which are affoat here, can- by the Portia last evening to enter I learn that the feller wid the specs of the cow.' and the feller wid the hat is sint in ot be confirmed. They appear to be Hospital. About a year ago she fell. ased chiefly on the absence of defin- and injured her hip, but did not seek here to keep the Customs and Post a doctor's advice at the time. But, says I, I don't believe a word of it, for didn't the same spalpeen have to ax the boys how to make out the duty papers; and sure if that be so, how will he know Tim's letter from Brayley's Almanac? And sure, says me owld friend Mike, you see that makees no difference, for don't Mr. Woodford think that poor owld Bill has the gettin' of the votes, and he'll keep those fellows in to larn 'em a bit. Bein' anxious about Tim's letter next day, it's mesilf thought I'd go to the office; but never a sign of the fellow wid the specs could I see and I tramped from Payne's to Furneaux's until me owld corns ached and I larned that was the Government rule, to lave whin he loiked. to owld times whin we had a Government who would have appointed some dacent man, sich as have applied for the job, who wouldn't want half a fortune for doin' it; and faix, said Peg. if I can lay me two peepers on Woodford agin, I'll jist tell him dat if he depends on owld Billy, he'll depend on a rotten stump (as tthe sayin' goes), and if he don't mind hisself and the people better in future, it'll be asier to tackle the North Pole than to bluff the electors of this setlement again. Trustin' that when I goes to quire for Tim's letter next mail we'll have a fellow with both eyes open to give us satisfaction, I am, Yours truly,

The Evening Telegram, St. John's, Newfoundland, August 15, 1911 .- 7

"It was appointed at the instance of Mr. Long, in consequence of statements made by the late Professor Koch, in July, 1891, at the Internaional Congress on Tuberculosis held n London, statements which threw doubt upon the correctness of the previously accepted view that tubercle bacili derived from human sources and tubercle bacilli derived from lower animals (the bovine animal, for instance), were equally potent causes of tuberculosis in man. Upon this basis, indeed, regulations had been established for the prevenion of infection of the human subject by the milk of the cow, or by the flesh of such animals as the ox or the oig; but Koch laid before the Congress an account of experiments which led him to believe that bovine animals were practically immune to tubercle bacilli derived from man and went on to assume the truth of the converse proposition that man is practically immune to such bovine ubercle bacilli as may be ingested by him with his food. "This contention was by no means iniversally accepted by the Congress, and Lord Lister strenuously protested against it: but no one was in possession of a sufficient body of experimental facts bearing upon the quesion, and the members of the milk and milk trades strenuously demand d that the various restrictions upon heir businesses which had been ramed in the interests of public nealth should fortwith be relaxed or bandoned. The administrative difficulties arising from discortant cientific opinions became so urgent that Mr. Long's Commission of careully selected men of science was appointed to ascertain the truth conerning the facts in dispute, and esecially to inquire and report whether he disease in animals and man is one and the same: whether animals and man can be reciprocally infected with it: and under what conditions. if at all, the transmission of the disase from animals to man takes place. and what are the circumstances faourable or unfavourable to such transmission. "The Commission has definitely reorted that the milk of tuberculous. ows, even when their udders are not liscoverably affected, constantly conains an abundance of tubercle bacilli of the bovine type, and also that a considerable amount of the tuberculosis of childhood is to be ascribd to infection with bacilli of the neals consisting largely of the milk

A Task Still to Do. "The matter can hardly be suffered to rest in this position," concludes the "The surrender of Lord Times. "The surrender of Lord Eddy, George Blyth's farms (which he loaned to the Eadle, Mgt. F., card Commission), the dispersal of the rained workers who have now for several years been engaged upon them, and of the animals many of which afford examples of facts ascer tained by the Commission, would be piece of entirely discreditable wastefulness; and worse even than this, it would be a sacrifice of existing opportunities of gaining knowedge of great importance to the com munity."
