She Got Tanlac — Now

"I never saw such a change in any person as that which has taken place in my wife since she began taking Tamlac," recently declared James Sims, ship's rigger, living at 29 Mullock Street, St. John's, N.F.

"Before she began taking Tanlac
she was in such a run-down condition she could hardly drag around. She barely ate enough to keep body and soul together and what little she did eat gave her such awful pains in the pit of her stomach that she was in misery for hours afterwards. She suffered terribly with headaches and her nerves became so unstrung, she couldn't get proper rest at night.

She tried all kinds of medicines but nothing seemed to meet her case and if the above is verified by the Official Scorer the protest would have no weight.

Harvey's contention is that two men were down at the time, and that Clouston made a deliberate swing at the ball but missed it and got beaned Were this position maintained it certainly looks as though the protest would have to be upheld though it could be thrown out by the League on the technicality that according to the bye-laws and constitution of the local eague the umpires and opposing capain must be notified on the field of play that a protest will be entered. Doubtless the whole matter will be leaned up this afternoon.

The 1917 championship nine of the B.I.S. will step forth once more at the Irish Outing at Donovans on the 18th to see how fast they can mop up the youngsters now wearing their uniforms. The players will include. Herbie Power, Jack Campbell, Ted Ring, Bill Carew, Pat Brien, Dick McGrath, Har Phalen, Larry Doyle, and the two

The many friends of Arthur Cohenthe plucky little catcher of the Grand Falls baseball team-were glad to see him in town this week. He reports that the papermen are right down to brass tacks on the proposition of holding on to the R. G. Reid intertown trophy.

Among other things they have out there is a little old pool of one thousand iron men which they would like to see covered on the result of this season's clash.

After this little old burg of ours is through with the Sydney lads Manager Orr will bring the St. John's nine to the Falls to play the challenging series of three games on the cup owners' diamond. Then they in turn will journey in here to wind up.

Some dissatisfaction is expressed among the fans owing to the fact that not one B.I.S. or one C.E.I. player is listed on the City team-even among

The next game will be on Tuesday night when the B.I.S. and Red Lions will try conclusions.

The ball bugs are hoping to see Jack Canning step out in the forthcoming series but we have it on good authority that he stipulates that the Wander ers must beat the Red Lions, in their next League game in which event he will then participate in the Sydney away, without any training or instrucand Grand Falls series.

The scorers are busy making up the patting averages to the end of round , and we hope to publish them someime this week. Thanks Hump!

Babe Ruth may pole even 50 home runs this season but he won't endanger one major league record—that by silver-topped "Wooden Shoes" Gavvy Cravath of the Philadelphia Athletics. Gravath began poling homers in Los Angeles in 1903.

It may not be generally known that the Coxswain of the Nellie R. in the will step out with his old team—the Juvenile Race on Regatta Day, had to Cubs-in an endeavour to stop Hiltz's take two untrained boys off the bank rush for the pennant. This being so he and enter them to row the race right tion. Two of the regular crew, Power and Estrom could not participate, the latter signing on a steamboat leaving port. Power who was a few weeks ove the qualified age and had no certificate of birth did not care to take a chance with the Committee. In justice to the boys and also to convince their backers, who may have lost money on the race without knowing the circumstances, I make this explanation. It takes six thoroughly trained men to win a race against other trained row ers.—E. COOPER, Cox. Nellie R.
