

Ammunition Runner Captured by Warship.

How Pettigoe Was Taken--Conciliation Board Makes Finding--New French Treaty Hostile to Britain.

LONDON, June 5. A runner bound from New York carrying Kerry with corn and mixed cargo was held up on the Irish coast by a British sloop and a large quantity of ammunition in barrels was seized. A despatch to the Press Agency follows.

THE CAPTURE OF PETTIGOE.

Details of the capture of the sloop show that a British staff cutter entered the village at noon on June 5 and saved the Republicans from the town fifteen minutes to go. Some immediately departed. The staff cutter then proceeded to the town where the British, after the sloop was captured, crossed the bridge leading to the village they were receiving. The sloop was then fired upon and the British came into action and the first shell landed on a hill at the town the more timid of the sloop's crew made a dash for safety. Immense Crowds Witness World's Greatest Drama.

NICKEL COULD NOT ACCOMMODATE DATE; VAST NUMBERS TURNED AWAY.

Long before 8 o'clock last night the Nickel Theatre was jammed to the doors with expectant audiences to witness the world's greatest heart-breaking drama, "Ten Nights in a Barroom." Thousands flocked from every section of the city to see this spectacle and by 8.30 the crowds reached to the gates. Never before in the history of this popular house has such an audience turned out. Needless to say huge numbers had to go away again, without seeing the picture. The consensus of opinion was that "Ten Nights in a Barroom" is the most appealing screen story ever seen. It tells a strong lesson that the individual spectators could carry with them and feel all the better for having seen the picture. It runs the gamut of human emotions, pathos, humor, heart throbs, suspense, the spectacular, the subdued, gripping climaxes, terrific action, in fact, every element that makes for the perfect drama.

The picture will be repeated to night, and we would advise everybody to attend early so as to be sure of a good seat.

SIDE TALKS.

WHAT HE SEES IN HER.

Whatever does Mr. Grey see in Mrs. Green? People are always saying that in one form or other. (Usually, by the way it is the women who cannot see what he sees in her, and the men who cannot see why she wants to waste her time on him. Make what you can of that, Watson.)

They are saying it in our town at present of two people, who seem to take great pleasure in each other's company. The Mr. Grey of this case is an artist of some note. He is widely read and widely travelled and he has a brilliant mind.

The Miss Green is a Mrs. Green, a woman not in his class socially or intellectually. She is a pleasant enough person, but especially good looking, amiable, ignorant, healthy, good natured and commonplace.

Talk by the Hour. Now Mr. Grey will sit and talk by the hour with Mrs. Green whenever he gets a chance. He does not appear to be in love with her. No one seems to think that except the few gossips who are always looking for excitement. He just likes to sit and talk with her. And we have not been able to see how she, with her amiable feather bed of a mind, can possibly make an interesting companion for a man of Mr. Grey's brilliance.

I put that, you observe, in the past. For I feel that I have solved the riddle. I was at a gathering last night where Mrs. Green was among the guests. Mr. Grey was absent but she was sitting in the corner with another man and he was talking to her. His voice would run on for some time and then would come her accomplished by the committee. He started out to find the needle. In the course taken the driver followed his directions. After passing through many streets Dr. Hanosson left the car and proceeded on foot to the asylum. Arrived there, with hardly a moment's hesitation, he made for the portrait and found the needle. The proceedings aroused enormous interest in Jerusalem. A crowd of several thousand persons awaited the result of the test, and cheered when Dr. Hanosson's success was announced.

Needle Hidden in Holy City.

FOUND BEHIND PORTRAIT OF SIR HERBERT SAMUEL.

LONDON (Associated Press)—To find a needle in a haystack is popularly supposed to be a feat so difficult that the odds against its successful accomplishment would be something like a million to one. Yet a feat that to the ordinary man would appear, if anything, still more difficult, has recently been accomplished in Jerusalem, according to newspapers published there. It was nothing less than the finding of a needle hidden in Jerusalem, and with no clue to its whereabouts of which the five senses could take cognizance, except that it was hidden "somewhere" in the city. This was done by Dr. Hanosson, who claims to be possessed of something more than the usual five senses and to be endowed with a mysterious "psychic" faculty by means of which he can read thoughts and find out things that cannot be discovered by means of mere sight or hearing. The finding of the needle was accepted as the proof of his claims and he was awarded £100. He found the needle within 25 minutes, excluding the time taken to reach the place of concealment.

DID HE HAVE A MAGNET?

A committee was appointed to supervise the test and to see that there was nothing of a "put up job" about it. The committee consisted of several journalists, some policemen and an expert in nervous diseases. Dr. Hanosson was secured in a house and a guard placed over him. Then the members of the committee set forth in motor cars, one of them carrying the needle. Several streets of Jerusalem were traversed. Cars and drivers were changed on the way and then, by a circuitous route, the temple asylum was reached. There behind a portrait of Sir Herbert Samuel, the needle was hidden. Then the committee returned to the house in which Dr. Hanosson had been left and released him. In a motor car,

Tires and Gas

Are the biggest expense in running your car. Our Vulcanizing friends beat John D. at the philanthropic work when they started selling fifty-two cent gasoline. Regatta Meeting; Crews Getting Ready.

The Regatta Committee held their annual meeting on Friday night next. Preliminary arrangements will then be made in connection with our "Derby." It is expected that the Regatta will take place on August 2nd. Great interest has already been evidenced, and applications for boats for practice and for the actual races, have been made. The Avalon Boat House will be taken over by the C.I.B. Old Comrades this year. Practice boats will be out on the pond next week.
