MONTREAL.

Montreal, July 6.—Cabled advices today were again discouraging to shippers, they being weak in tone, and note a decline of to to lo since this day week, which is due principally since this day week, which is due principally to continued heavy supplies and hot weather. The above goes to show that any slight advance in prices that takes place cannot be maintained, for as soon as a few more cattle arrive than are wanted values immediately break away. The season so far has been a bad one for shippers, and advices to hand do not give much encouragement to them for any improvement in the trade in the future. The low prices that are now prevailing mean many losses to shipton to the number of the two of the London boats.

The Governor-General and the Defeated Ministers.

Not till the new Parliament meets, when it is expected that all the papers will be laid before the representatives of the people, will the full extent of the rupture between the Governor-General and the defeated Premier be Enough has leaked out, however, to warrant the belief that what appears to have been outrageous demands upon the part of Sir Charles Tupper were firmly, but constitutionally, resisted by his Excellency.

The trouble, it seems, chiefly arose over the determination of Sir Charles number of appointments to office, the large majority of which, if they were really necessary in the public interest, ought to have been filled long before the defeat of the Government in the general elections. If the Governor-General, as an independent arbiter, has held that the defeated Government should not now make these appointments and superannuations, he has taken a stand in the public interest which will be upheld by all classes of the community. If these nominations for office have not been ratified by the Governor-General, the blame rests with the retiring Tupper Government, which promised almost every vacancy or prospective vacancy to a dozen or more applicants, as a means of aiding its campaign, and refrained from making the appointments until it was dewhich a revelation of its duplicity 489 21, a decrease of $797 08. would bring about.
