

Eight Rinks Survive First Day's Scotch Double Play

Three Thistles Still In-Some of Best Rinks Have Fallen-Consolation Events Are Well Under Way-Tourney Second Largest In Thistle Club History.

It was midnight before the last of the McDonald 5 Buchanana .. 16 third round Free Press Trophy, second Abbott round Nash Trophy and first round angford Trophy games were brought a close in the 13th annual Scotch ubles tournament at the Thistle Club to Johnston and Alton. reens last night. Some of the best rinks in Western Ontario have fallen in the urious competition for the coveted furious competition for the coveted silverware.

Just once before in the history of the Thistle Club's annual event has the entry mark eclipsed the big turnout of yesterday. That was some few years ago when, as veteran bowlers recalled, 72 rinks entered, and 70 turned up for play. Yesterday 64 rinks entered in the trophy play under perfect weather conditions, and on greens that were lauded as the best in Thistle history.

Today eight rinks are left in the first event, and they are drawn to play at 9 am. Three Thistle rinks are among the eight, but one at any rate must be counted out at the end of the fourth round, since Bluett and Langford meet each other to begin the morning's play.

Today's games are expected to create warmer competition than yesterday's when eaveral unexpected trougings several unexpected trouncings when several unexpected trouncings were administered to rather formidable rinks. One of these Manson and Dowding, of Toronto Victorias, was eliminated from the first event in the opening round when Sproat and Mc-Millen of Seaforth handed out an 18 to 11 beating. Manson is still in line for the Nash trophy, however, and may be a head man to beat today.

for the Nash trophy, however, and may be a hard man to beat today.

James McDougall's loss, too, was a fough one, but he lost in the face of almost perfect opposition to Frank Brown. McDougall was down six shots. With just the last end to go, and there were spectators present who equaled Jim's faith in himself that he could tie the end. Five shots he lay when the end was finished, and the sixth bowl was so much in doubt that a tape measure was requisitioned before the doubtful and all important bowl was ruled out, giving Frank Brown the doubtful and all important bowl was Campbell.

Fuled out, giving Frank Brown the game, 18 to 17.

With continued ideal weather, all of the three events should be decided to hight. The first event is scheduled to be finished early in the afternoon. It will be evening, however, before the winner in the Nash Trophy event is declared, and possibly late games may decide the Langford silverware.

Rallied After Eleventh To Win Seagram Event At

Special to The Advertiser. Galt, June 20 .- Bob Logan's Hespeler rink won the coveted Seagram trophy, the prize of the Central Ontario bowling tournament, here this afternoon by defeating the Waterloo four in a great game, 15 to 11. The winners were down 9 to 6 at the eleventh end, but then rallied and scored in the next seven ends.

The consolation event went to the Preston rink of Pat McGrath, who eliminated the Hespeler four skipped by J. Darwen in another nip and tuck match, 16 to 15. Two Galt pairs were left in the finals

PLAY POSTPONED GAMES

C.A.A.A. LOOP NEXT WEEK The executive committee of the Catholic A. A. A. Baseball League drafted the following schedule for the postponed games to be played next week at Sunshine Park:

Tuesday—St. Michaels vs. St. Peters.

Wednesday—St. Martins vs. Marconi.

Two veteran and slugging outfielders are leading the American and National league hitters by healthy margins. Zach Wheat of the Dodgers is setting the pace for the Heydler circuit while Harry Heilmann is showing the way for Ban Johnson's proteges. Both are well over the .400 mark.

In the National League, when the that the points between the Giants and thus the National League clubs went west, there were 448 will have been whittled to about 350 by the time the Giants are leaders. This is less than the gain of the field against the leaders in the American race. It can be partly explained by the fact that the Phillies have been even worse away from home than they were in their own bailiwick, thus being allies for the other six clubs. Of course the Giants are looking forward to their next Phillies series with anticipation and giee.

The lessening of the graps in both circles.

But—and it should be said firmly and with decision—not enough has happened so far to show any material difference from the season of 1922. What the Giants and Yankees have done this year in the matter of losing games they did last year, and still they won. Something more than a bad trip west or a scarcity of victories east must be shown in order to prove that either is actually an unsettled or starting to crumble. If there are any aching hearts in the National League because the Giants are up where they are let the ache be absorbed by those owners who have turned experienced players into the
