

mirable educational and benevolent institution, the Mackay Institute for Deaf Mutes. A broad stream of liberality flowed from this congregation towards the endowment and equipment of the Presbyterian College.—From the Life of Principal MacVicar.

Few things are more touching, and at the same time more encouraging to instructors of the young, than to find how the lessons learnt at Sunday School and Bible-classes are valued and remembered in later life. Quite recently an old woman wrote down for me from memory a religious poem which had been taught to her nearly seventy years before, and which she said she "had always thought of."—M. Loane, Superintendent of District Nurses, in Contemporary Review.
