Leaving Medicine Hat and journeying westward the traveller soon passes into the rich Territory of Alberta, and after about five and a half hours' run reaches Calgary, its capital, 840 miles west of Winnipeg. This is the largest town in the Northwest Territories, and is beautifully situated in the valley of the Pow River. The appearance of the place is most substantial, brick and stone buildings being the rule. The district produces a beautiful variety of building stone, which has been freely made use of by builders in the erection of the business blocks and public build-ings of the town, and it may safely by ings of the town, and it may safely o-sald that nowhere in the west are so many substantial and fine looking buildings to be seen. Calgary has a number of government offices and buildings of various kinds, a strong boly of the Northwest Mounted Police two saw mills, factories of various thick colustorage warehouses, flour mill brewery, tannery, and a well-equipped fire brigade. Its streets are lighted by electricity as also is many lighter by electricity as also is many of the buildings and its hotels are among the best in the Territories. This is also a rallway centre of some importance, being the starting point for the Macleod and Edmonton branches of the C. P. R. It will in time if present promises are fulfiller, be a distributing centre for Alberta trade. The ranching interests which centre here are very terests which centre here are large and guarantee a permanent income to the town for all time. It has come to the town for all time. It has had added to its population and industries within the past year the the C P. R. workshops for this division of the line which means an additional time. tion of some sixty or seventy families to the population and of several thousant dollars per month to the income. When three or four years ago empty houses could be found in the town by the score and the population was steadily decreasing, to-day the very reverse is the case and it is a fact that scarcely an empty building of any description can be found notwithstanding that considerable building was done last year. Rents have advanced in some cases as much as 25 per cent. Another ovidence of the high standing of the town is the fact that a recent issue of its bonds hearing 4 per cent interest brought the high figure of 106, which is the most ever realized for these securities. The merchants of Calgary are all pleased with their prospects for 1899 and a number are enlarging their stocks and facilities for handling trade. With banking facilities the town is well supplied having branches of four of the leading Canadian banks, namely, the Bank of Mortreal, Imperial, Molson's and Union. The latter only opened here last year, but already it is receiving a large amount of business and has been obliged to build new premises. The new building is of stone, two storeys high and handsomely finished inside in oak, plate giass and bronze work. The other banks are similarly housed. One of the new business enterprises projected this year is a wholesale commission house which will be opened by R. C. Thomas, who is now in the warehousing and transfer business. Much more might be said about Calgary and its commercial and industrial enterprises but space for the present is not available. Reference to the fine flour milling business of the Calgary Milling company has been purposely refrained from here as a special article with illustrations is now in the course of preparation dealing with that enterprise and will be published shortly.

OFFICE OF THE COMMERCIAL

Vancouver, March 20. — Northern travel has improved very much and those engaged in the Atlin and Klondike outfitting trade are very busy. Produce houses report the demand brisk locally and up country. In Vancouver wholesalers have not been a happy family of late, and numerous bickerings have resulted frequently in prices being ruinously cut. In an attempt to come to a better understanding and prevent the undue depreciation of prices and unite in Joint action for their common good, the wholesale grocers of the province have formed an exchange. The first matter which came before the exchange was the alleged discrimination in freight rates to Crow's Nest Pass in favor of Winnipeg as against Vancouver.

Shipping circles have been active, 24 vessels having been unloaded during the week, while all northern boats have had a full complement of passengers and freight.

Canners are still anxiously waiting for a modification of the salmon regulations. On Puget Sound all is activity. 20 more hatcheries are being established and there is no indication of any more hatcheries being established in British Columbia. Canners believe that the government is starving British Columbia's most valuable industry to death.

In his private capacity he has slipped tons and never lost any. He says the association is to take every precaution this season to make a success of their shipments. A man will be engaged to keep his fingers on the pulse of the Manitoba market and report to British Columbia by wire and mail. A committee will be appointed to look after shipment and a Callfornia expert will be engaged to superintend packing and instruct farmers in the Yankee method of preparing fruit for shipment.

Reference Company's

nonthly freight and shipping report for February says: "Absence of business and the prospects of another dry season have had a serious effect on the market for grain vessels, as will be seen from the last engagement reported which is at 22s 6d uet to Europe. As usual in such circumstances from and steel vessels are striving for employment in the lumber trade and that has had the natural effect of easing off rates there, though not to any great extent. There is a fair inquiry for early loading from several quarters but vessels suitably placed are not easy to get."
