

MARRIED AS IN POLAND.

THE WEDDING CEREMONY OF MME. MODJESKA'S SON AND NIECE.

THE GROOM LED BY TWO UNMARRIED GIRLS AND THE BRIDE BY TWO BACHELORS—ST. STANISLAUS GUARDS HOLDING LIGHTED CANDLES.

New York, Dec. 30.—A little church stands on the southeast corner of Spouton and Forsyth streets, in a neighborhood not usually considered very attractive, even to those who inhabit it. It is the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stanislaus, the only Polish church in the city. Because it is the only Polish church, thither yesterday morning came people seldom to be seen in that neighborhood except when dabbling in charity, and others whose faces are more familiar when seen across the footlights than when seen in the daylight of a winter morning. With residents of the neighborhood who rattled off complicated professions of companions with an air that proved them Poles, the strangers poured into the little church until it was crowded to see performed the marriage ceremony of Ralph Modjeska, only son of Mme. Modjeska, the well-known Polish actress, and Felicie Banda, his cousin. An awning extended from the narrow door of the church to the edge of the sidewalk. The passage way it made was lined on either side by members of the Society of St. Stanislaus, each wearing a broad red and white scarf and holding a lighted candle of yellow wax. In the vestibule stood eight of the St. Stanislaus Guards in full uniform, with drawn swords. To the Christmas decorations within the church others had been added even more in keeping with the occasion. In the vestibule, over the middle aisle, was the word "Welcome," and between the lamps on either side of the gate into the sanctuary hung a marriage bell in white flowers. White flowers were on the altar, and wreaths of smilax covered the rail.

Shortly after half past eleven o'clock the wedding party drove up to the church, and to the wedding march from "Lohengrin" the procession up the aisle began. First marched four guardsmen in their scarlet uniforms and fur-trimmed caps. The bridegroom followed, escorted by two young ladies, Miss Thurston and Miss Nellie Thurston, in accordance with the Polish custom, which prescribes that the groom shall be led by two unmarried ladies and the bride by two unmarried men. Miss Banda was led by Messrs. Joseph Gilder and E. G. Nadal, and was followed by the Count and Countess Bozenta Chlapowski. The rear of the procession was brought up by two more guardsmen. Miss Thurston was dressed in blue, Miss Nellie Thurston in pink, and each carried a bouquet of hyacinths, lilies of the valley, and camellias. The bride wore a white silk, the front of the skirt covered with pearls and brocade. Orange flowers were looped upon the dress, and on her head was a tulle veil. She wore no jewels. Mme. Modjeska was in a walking dress of salmon-colored silk, with bonnet to match, and wore diamonds.

The leading guardsmen took position on either side of the altar, and six little girls in white scattered flowers before the bride party as they took their seats, the groom with his escorts on the left, the bride with hers on the right of the entrance, while the Count and Countess Bozenta sat in the gateway. Then from the sacristy came his Grace Archbishop Corrigan, attended by the Rev. Dr. McDonnell, his secretary; the Rev. Father Klimecki, pastor of St. Stanislaus; and Fathers Gramlewski, Belcher, and Marcinkowski. The Archbishop took his seat on the left of the sanctuary, and Father Klimecki began the marriage service. On a silver dish he carried the Archbishop the two rings which Mme. Modjeska had laid upon it to be blessed by the prelate. Then he repeated the words of canon, and the former couple returned to their respective seats, while the priests retired to the sacristy to prepare for the mass which was to follow. After Mr. Harvey, of St. Ann's Church, had sung Mercadante's "O Salutaris Hostia," the Archbishop from his throne addressed the young couple. His Grace said that he was glad to grant the request which Father Klimecki had made to him, not only because of the interest he took in them personally, but also because of the firm stand their native country had ever taken in behalf of the faith. He pointed out the sacredness of the ties they had assumed, and closed with the solemn words, "Whom God hath joined, them let no man put asunder."

The Mass was celebrated by Father Klimecki, with Father Gramlewski as deacon and Father Belcher as sub-deacon. The music was by the Polish composer Kalliwoda, and was sung by the choir of the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer. After the Mass, while Mendelssohn's wedding march played, the bridal party danced to the table at which the marriage register lay opened, and stood by while Charles Bozenta Chlapowski and Prescott Hall B. tier signed the record. Then, preceded by the six guardsmen, they passed down the aisle under the crimson banner of the St. Stanislaus Society through the crowded vestibule, and down the passage lined by torch bearers to their carriage, in which they were whirled away to the breakfast at Delmonico's.

In the church were Mrs. John Bigelow, the Countess Topor, Henry E. Dixey, Alexander Lambert, the pianist, Mme. Felix Gromer of Steinyard, Mr. Henry Watterson, Mr. Isaac H. Bailey, ex Collector of the Port, and many of the members of Mme. Modjeska's company. Thirty people sat down to the breakfast at Delmonico's, among them, besides the bridal party, being Mr. R. W. Gilder, editor of the Century, with his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Hall Butler, Mr. Henry E. Abbey, Mr. Daniel Frohman, and Dr. Zolnowski.

DUBLIN'S NEW LORD MAYOR. DUBLIN, Dec. 30.—Dublin is all ablaze with preparations for the inauguration of Mr. T. D. Sullivan, M.P., author of the Irish national anthem, "God Save Ireland," as the Nationalist Lord Mayor. The most enthusiastic popular demonstration in fifty years will be witnessed in the streets of Dublin. All the trades will join in procession. It is significant of the Irish attitude to-day that Mr. Sullivan refuses to invite the Lord Lieutenant or any other representative of English power to the Lord Mayor's banquet. No military or police will be allowed in the procession, a body of young Irishmen with imitation pikes acting as escort.

LABOR NOTES.

THE PAUPER LABOR QUESTION—THE ANTI-CHINESE AGITATION—SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS—A WARNING.

The report of the Legislative Committee of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council, submitted on the evening of the 17th inst., contains the following paragraph:—"Your committee is pleased in drawing the attention of your body, as well as that of the City Council of Toronto, to the commendable action of Hamilton City Council, which, at a meeting recently, adopted a strongly worded resolution condemning the present Dominion Government system of granting assisted passages to immigrants from the British Isles, and requesting the co-operation of sister bodies throughout Canada in calling upon the Government to discontinue the same."

We hope to see the councils of every leading municipality in Canada take up this question, as nothing but cruel and cool brutality could take money from the people in the way of internal revenue for the purpose of importing cheap foreign labor, in order to sink to a lower level the working people of this already over-glutted labor market, and in order to secure cheaper labor for our manufacturing task-masters. The poor dupes who are deluded by the wholesale lying of paid immigration agents as much as to be pitted as the workmen of Canada they are brought here to supplant, and whom these agrazudizers wish to reduce to an Asiatic level. The biased authorities must be taught a lesson, even if we have to wait for an election in order to do it.

The anti-Chinese agitation in California has been carried on to some purpose. Several hundred white cigar makers belonging to the International Union are preparing to leave New York and other Eastern cities to displace Chinamen in the San Francisco factories. The determination with which the Labor Reformers of the Pacific slope have waged a war against Chinese labor is worthy of all praise. The result shows what can be done by people who are thoroughly in earnest. They have set an example to Canadian workmen which ought to weigh them and arouse a like resolute spirit in grappling with the evils which we have to contend against.

The remarkable growth of the Order of the Knights of Labor in New England and the power they have attained in politics are beginning to attract general attention. A despatch states that the Connecticut Legislature contains 70 members who owe their election to the Knights and are pledged to carry out their views in Massachusetts 25 to the Order. In Ontario—but we guess its as well not to pursue the subject any further. In view of the near approach of the general elections for the Dominion, here are a few suggestive questions which may be asked of candidates when they appeal for the support of workmen:

Will you vote against all appropriations for assisting, soliciting, or in any way encouraging immigration?

Will you favor a measure absolutely prohibiting Chinese immigration?

Are you in favor of the government assuming the ownership and management of all railroad and telegraph lines?

Will you oppose granting any more public land to speculators, colonization companies, railroad companies, or any one but actual settlers upon any pretence whatever?

Are you in favor of legislation making eight hours a day's labor, establishing a national currency and forbidding usury?

Will you insist on the passage and enforcement of a factory act?

The list might be extended, but no man who will not answer these questions at least, in the affirmative, ought to get the vote of any wage-worker.
