

Miss Hill, before entering the profession of nursing, spent two years in the University of New Brunswick and MacDonald College. She graduated from the Royal Victoria Hospital in 1922. Since then she has had excellent experience as teacher and supervisor in several hospitals. During the past year Miss Hill has taken the course in administration at the McGill School for Graduate Nurses. Miss Hill will also be an assistant in administration at the Royal Victoria Hospital. This dual position will be highly advantageous both to Miss Hill as a teacher and to her students in administration.

For the Preparation of Public Health Workers, Teachers and Supervisors.

The announcement of Miss Isabel Stewart Manson's appointment was made in the May Journal. Miss Manson will come to McGill at the beginning of the school year in September. During the summer months Miss Manson will continue her studies in public health at Teachers' College, New York, and will also visit other cities to study their public health and social welfare programmes.

Research in Nursing.

It is generally recognised that if knowledge is to be advanced or progress made in any profession or field, time, thought and energy must be devoted to the study of the special problems in that field, unhampered by the immediate tasks which have to be performed. In medicine, wonderful strides have been made, because there are many qualified workers giving part or all of their time to research. In nursing, there are few, if any, who have time or leisure or who can be given the time and resources for the study of special problems in nursing.

To make this possible at McGill School for Graduate Nurses a Fellowship has been granted by Dr. Chas. F. Martin, Dean of the Medical School and Acting Principal of the University, and awarded to Miss Eileen Flanagan. The field of study will be a selected ward in the Royal Victoria Hospital, and the study itself will be devoted to (1) the needs of the patients from the nursing standpoint; (2) the nursing knowledge and skill necessary to best meet these needs, and (3) the best methods of teaching the students and (4) the administrative aspects of the
