that Captain e leagues off, of our fathers. e very hard to illy one of the him, "Here, ence. Father panion. This ; if you wish o spend a few language, you and yourself quite delighted an's canoe. I e large paintn, and which I er disaster had n the sixth of than I had yet ge, as we were . ain, we were a into a thousand that I could do htcap as I was, San Sebastian. th of the pres

deaux.
which you may
kful to God.
EMANT, S. J.

pare for the

Although thus twice wrecked, and once a prisoner, Father Lalemant was not to be repulsed from the Canada mission. He came out again in 1634, and began his projected school at Quebec. After attending Champlein on his death-bed, he returned to France, and died at the advanced age of eighty-seven, having been successively rector of the colleges of Ronen, La Fleche, and Parls, and being, at the time of his death, Superior of the Professed House in his native city. Besides the foregoing narrative of his shipwreck, he wrote a Relation of the first Jesuit mission to Canada, published in the Mercure Français, and "Entretiens sur la vie cackée de Jesus Christ dans l' Eucharistie," a new edition of which has just been published in France, edited by Father A. Cadres.